SENATORS FIGHT 'LIE' CHARGE

House Approves Dies Inquiry, 344 to 35

NEW DEAL FOES OF COMMITTEE SNOWED UNDER

Chairman Appeals to Americanism.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—By the overpowering vote of 344 to 35, approximately 10 to 1, the house today approved a resolution authorizing the continuance for another year of an investigation of un-American activities by the committee headed by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.].

Representative Martin Dies.

Thirty-four Democrats, most of them known for their radical sympathies, and Representative Vito Marcantonio of New York, president of the international labor defense, which has been labeled a communist front organization, voted against the resolution. Their colleagues promptly dubbed this group the "pink brigade."

One hundred and eighty-seven Democrats, 155 Republicans, and 2 Progressives voted for the resolution.

Attempt to Oust Dies.

Despairing of defeating the measure, administration spokesmen concentrated their last minute efforts on pleas for the ousting of Dies from the chairmanship and his replacement with some congressman known as a New Deal partisan. Speaker Bankhead, however, has pledged himself to reappointment of the five Democrats and two Republicans who made up the committee last year. Dies will again be chairman.

Dies made a dramatic and impassioned plea in behalf of his committee's work just before the roll call. He stressed the fact that the investigation had been hampered last year by the enmity of the administration.

President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and other high government officials joined a campaign to discredit the committee. Aid was refused by government departments, he pointed out.

Armed with a $100,000 appropriation, to be provided next week by the house accounts committee, Dies will be able to conduct a more extensive and thorough inquiry this year, he declared.

Applauded by House.

Thunderous applause from both sides of the aile greeted Dies' assertion that the inquiry would continue to be honest and fearless, no matter what political party might be injured.

Representative John A. Martin [D., Colo.] had previously remarked that the committee's disclosures caused the defeat of many Democratic candidates last November and predicted that it would empty more Democratic seats in the house if continued.

"If, as a matter of fact," shouted Dies in reply, "there is anything wrong within the councils of the government of the United States and the Democratic party, is it not the duty of our party to see that it comes out? I would rather the Democrats take the initiative and show courage than to leave it to some other party to do.

Exposed Inroads of Communism.

"Can it be said that we have erred in exposing men prominent in this government who by their own admission subscribe to communism? Can it be said that we erred in going into certain labor unions and showing by uncontradicted evidence, by the testimony of officials and members of the unions themselves, that communists had seized strategic positions in those unions and were converting them into instrumentalities of class warfare?

"Were we being partisan when we revealed to the American people facts with respect to these matters? Were we being partisan when we exposed one situation in the city of New York where 103 out of 300 employés on the federal writers' project of the WPA

RIVAL MAYORAL CANDIDATES ON SAME PLATFORM

Each Tells Why He Wants Support.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Chicago's mayoralty campaign soared to a new high last night when the three leading candidates for the office addressed the same audience and told why they should be nominated and elected. Each candidate explained his platform and expressed confidence of victory.

Each of the three candidates sat at the same table. Each was given enthusiastic applause. Dwight H. Green, the regular Republican organization choice, met both of the Democratic candidates, Mayor Kelly, seeking reelection, and State's Attorney Courtney. But Kelly and Courtney did not meet. None of the three listened to the others speak.

The occasion was a dinner meeting of 300 members of the City club and the Women's City club in the Hotel Sherman. The organizations are nonpartisan. They had asked the candidates to appear the same night.

Courtney Raps Kelly.

Courtney spoke first.

He accused Mayor Kelly of machine boss rule and recited his own record as prosecutor.

"The school board must be completely severed from politics," Courtney asserted. "There should be no appointments to it of persons who have some connection with the purchase of contractors' supplies.

"The exorbitant cost of city government must be reduced. Taxes must be cut through eliminating waste on contracts. All the city departments need an immediate public audit and they will get it when I am mayor."

As Courtney was leaving he met Green in the hall. The two smiled, said "How are you?" and shook hands.

Green Demands Reform.

Green said a reform in city government was necessary to divorce politics from the mayor's office.

"Public office is a public trust," he said. "I have never been part of a political machine and never will be. When I'm elected mayor I promise to appoint people to the school board who will work for the goal of true education. I will have a superintendent of schools who is an eminently qualified educator. I will restore the ten month school year.

"No city employé will be assessed to aid a political party. I will reduce taxes, consolidate departments, eliminate pay roll padding. I will take politics from relief and give labor a higher standard of living."

Mayor Cites His Record.

As Green departed, Mayor Kelly entered. Again there was an exchange of pleasantries and handshaking.

Mayor Kelly said his record in office is his guarantee for the future.

"During my administration," he said, "there have been 1,700 miles of streets paved, 300 miles of sewers laid, and 75 new school buildings, seven new police stations and five new fire stations erected. We have made Chicago the healthiest and safest city in the country."

At this point he was interrupted by the heaviest applause of the evening.

Says City Is 50 Years Ahead.

"You may scan my record from top to bottom," the mayor continued, "and you will find that I have used every ounce of energy to better the city. As mayor I have endeavored to stimulate business and to give youth a new chance.

"I have raised the reputation and morale of the city. We are now 50 years ahead of the times, and we have become that way during my six years in office."

A Fox Is Too Foxy; Fools Hunter by Playing Possum

Kewanee, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—John Foss Jr. learned today that a fox can play possum. He shot the fox and attempted to pick it up, believing it was dead. The fox bit his fingers.

POLICE TRAIN DOGS TO HEED ORDERS SENT TO THEM BY RADIO

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 3.—The Sydney police are training Alsatian dogs to obey radio commands. Zoe, the only dog fully tested, has reacted perfectly to a set carried on a back saddle. The set weighs eight pounds and includes batteries, a loud speaker, and an aerial.

Zoe has carried out the following radio orders: Fire a revolver, climb an eight foot trestle and return backward, turn on a tap and fill a water can, and remove and replace collar.

When the set first was strapped on her body, Zoe was amazed as the sound of a voice came from it, but quickly accepted the instructions.

ARREST TOBACCO "CHAWER" AS HE PUTS ON CONTEST.

Maysville, Ky., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Ellwood Dillin, director of public relations for the Maysville Tobacco Board of Trade, was arrested today on a charge of "spitting on the sidewalk" as the climax of a tobacco spittin' contest in which the "world's record" was splattered.

The warant for the arrest of Dillin, who was in charge of the contest, was sworn to by Dr. C. W. Christine, Mason county health officer. Dillin, who was released on his own recognizance, is scheduled to appear in police court tomorrow before Judge Martha T. Manning.

Pete Weaver, Orangeburg, the defending champion, cut loose with a 27 foot shot, which local spittin' experts said broke the old mark by 10 feet. He was aided by a favorable wind, however. J. F. Walsh, Minerva, was second best spitter.

Appropriations Committee to Have Ax (a Real One)

Mesa Verde National Park, Colo., Feb. 3.—(AP)—It may not be significant, but an ax is to be the emblem of authority in the appropriations committee of the national house of representatives hereafter. Representative Edward T. Taylor [D., Colo.], chairman of the committee, found an ancient stone ax in Mesa Verde cliff caves before the area became a national park in 1906. Recently he sent the implement here to be fitted with a handle so it could be used as a gavel. It has been completed and returned to him in Washington.

Nazis Put Gag on Laughter; Censor Jokes

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Germany's funny men must mend their ways if they wish to continue on the stage.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels served notice to this effect today with a declaration that Nazidom "will not be derided."

He expelled Werner Finck, popular actor, and four other cabaret artists from the Reich's culture chamber, which means they no longer may follow their profession in Nazi Germany.

Finck several times has been in hot water—and a concentration camp—for taking liberties with institutions and practices of the Nazi party which the Nazis regard as "sacred."

Audiences Like His Humor.

He had been throwing his audiences into gales of laughter with quips which ran thus:

Gazing long and intently at his wrist watch, he would look up suddenly and comment: "Well, I really was going to discuss our time—but I guess I had better not."

Or:

With a sudden impulse during his act he would raise his arm abruptly in what appeared to be a Nazi salute—only to adjust a picture on the wall.

Upon his return from a concentration camp:

"You know, it is funny. After I was released I walked around the camp and saw the walls, guards with their guns, and the heavy gates. Everybody told me how hard it was to get in. But shucks, all I did was to speak one sentence."

The cabaret where Finck appeared regularly was a sell out.

It's Not Funny to Goebbels.

Goebbels explained in Voelkischer Beobachter, organ of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, that action was taken against the comedians because their "alleged humor is objectionable" in Nazi eyes.

"So-called jokes about the colonial problem, the four year plan, the labor service, and our building plans turn our stomachs," Goebbels wrote. "What do these fellows know about the mental strain and hard work involved in working out these plans?"

Goebbels said that "in no European country does such true joy reign supreme as in the third reich." He added that as for the "desecrators of things that are holy to us," a turn at fortification work would do them good.

SNAKES AND WHALES DRIVE PINK ELEPHANT OFF OF THE BEDPOST

Boston, Mass., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The pink elephant no longer is the big shot in the parade of animals "seen" by alcoholics in the throes of delirium tremens. It's gradually being ousted from its throne on the bedpost by dogs and snakes—and an occasional whale and hippopotamus. Dr. John B. Dynes of Boston, writing in the New England Journal of Medicine on a survey of alcoholic patients at the psychopathic hospital, said only four out of fifty-seven patients with hallucinations reported seeing elephants and one of them said his elephant was pink.

ZOO'S SNUBBED PROPHET GETS A NEW BAILIWICK

Neversleep, Sun Dodger, Bright Eyes, Night Owl, and Insomnia are the Brookfield zoo's ground hogs. No one paid any attention to THEIR weather predictions on Ground Hog day, because they didn't hibernate. Only hibernating ground hogs are believed to forecast with authority. But Neversleep had the last laugh on Chicagoans yesterday. Because he was so wide awake, zoo officials thought of him when the Seattle zoo wanted to buy a ground hog, and shipped him out by plane.

Johnny Torrio Is Named in Sealed U. S. Indictment

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A sealed indictment was returned late today by a federal grand jury which has been investigating income tax fraud charges against Johnny Torrio, once described by Assistant United States Attorney Seymour Klein as "the man who brought Al Capone to Chicago." It will be opened on Monday. Two open indictments charging Torrio and others with making false statements in connection with income tax returns for the years 1933-'34-'35 are outstanding.

Farmer, 75, Father of Twins; Children His 17th and 18th

Wife to Fight Tom Mooney's Divorce Plan

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Rena Mooney, wife of the recently pardoned labor bomber, today declared war on her husband's efforts to get rid of her by means of a divorce. She said she would refuse his demand that she obtain a decree and would fight any such action that he might start.

Mooney, however, declared there would be no reconciliation and blamed enemies for revealing his domestic troubles.

"Now they deliberately plan to smear me," he said, "and thereby attempt to discredit the labor movement and its liberal allies which won my freedom."

Helps to Save Husband.

Mrs. Mooney helped to save her husband from the gallows and strove for twenty-two years to free him from prison after his conviction for murder in the 1916 Preparedness day parade here. Mooney, who is 56 years old, was released from San Quentin prison Jan. 7 on a pardon by Gov. Culbert L. Olson. Soon afterward, Mrs. Mooney said, he demanded that she obtain a divorce.

"It's pathetic, after all we've been through, to think of divorce," she said. "Tom's excuse was that we had drifted apart during the years he was in prison. I think he just wants to go his own way on speaking tours for labor.

"We've been married twenty-seven years and we're getting along in age. I'm 61 years old now, and I want to spend the rest of my life with the old Tom Mooney.

Tells of Hard Times.

"We've been through too much to be separated now. Some of the time things were so hard for me I seriously considered trying to dig worms to sell to fishermen in an effort to make a living."

Mrs. Mooney has been receiving $85 a month for music work with a federal music project. She said she had wanted to accompany Mooney on the personal appearances he is planning in an attempt to reunite the labor movement.

"I want to be with Tom, wherever he goes, but they won't let me," she said.

Twins Born in Different Counties, 10 Miles Apart

Kane, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Twin sisters were born today in communities 10 miles apart and in different counties. One twin arrived while the mother, Mrs. John Clopp, was at her home in Wilcox, Elk county. The other arrived six and a half hours later after Mrs. Clopp had been brought to a hospital here in McKean county. Both babies and the mother were reported in good condition.

Rebels Sponsor "Torture Chamber" Tour for Envoys

BARCELONA, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Spanish rebel authorities today conducted foreign representatives accredited to government Spain on a tour of what they charged were "torture chambers" used by the Spanish government before Barcelona fell. Douglas Flood of Kenilworth, Ill., United States vice consul in Barcelona, said the tour was "very interesting."

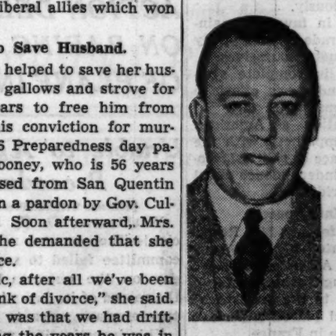
ROOSEVELT HIT FOR HIS DENIALS ON ARMS POLICY

Threaten to Reveal Details of Parley.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt poured oil on the flames of the controversy over his mysterious dealings with the European democracies today by accusing United States senators and newspapers of lying about his secret session with the senate military affairs committee last Tuesday.



Senator Bridges, who indicated that details of parley will be revealed.

Specifically Mr. Roosevelt stamped as a "deliberate lie" the statement attributed to him that "our present frontier is on the Rhine." He made the charges at his press conference.

Quibbles Over Words.

Members of the military affairs committee said later that the President was quibbling over words. What he actually said, they declared, was that England and France in the past had constituted our first line of defense, but that our present "first line of defense is in France." THE TRIBUNE'S account of the famous White House session with the military affairs committee attributed the "first line of defense" rather than the "frontier on the Rhine" statement to the President.

So indignant were members of the military affairs committee when they learned that Mr. Roosevelt had denounced what he described as legislative and newspaper agitators—thus impugning the integrity and veracity of senators who attended the secret White House conference—that they threatened to take the floor of the senate Monday and tell the whole story of what the President actually said. Three members of the committee said the President's amazing utterances at his press conference would result inevitably in a full discussion of the White House conference on the senate floor.

May Tell Story to Senate.

Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] was one who indicated that the committee members would tell their story in the senate.

"I attended the meeting with the President," he said. "I have been and am now bound by secrecy, but if the President can tell his version of what happened, I believe that members of the senate have the right to tell theirs."

Far from retracting anything they had told newspaper reporters privately about the secret conference, some senators said the newspapers had only scratched the surface.

Reaffirm Original Reports.

They reaffirmed the original reports that Mr. Roosevelt disclosed a foreign policy involving definite commitments and understandings, amounting to a military alliance, among the United States and the European democracies, France and Great Britain.

They reaffirmed the original reports that Mr. Roosevelt revealed a determination to give France and England all possible assistance to resist the totalitarian nations, Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

Some of the senators went even further today and asserted for the first time that Mr. Roosevelt delivered a violent personal attack on Adolf Hitler, the Nazi chancellor.

Attack Surprises Senators.

The senators professed astonishment upon learning that Mr. Roosevelt had so vehemently repudiated the newspaper accounts of his meeting with the military affairs committee. They said it was significant that the White House waited three days to deny that the newspapers accurately reported the secret discussion.

Reporters recalled that Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, indicated Wednesday morning, the next day after the meeting with the military affairs committee, that the White House was pleased with the reaction. When asked about the newspaper accounts, Early said their unanimity spoke for itself. Foreign correspondents, calling at the White House for comment on the American press accounts, received no indication that they were not accurate.

Senators expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt was pleased at first with the European reaction, since the statements attributed to him were received with jubilation in the foreign offices of France and England and with chagrin in Italy and Germany.

Middle West Protests.

They attributed the President's outburst at today's press conference to the reaction from the middle west and west, as expressed in newspapers, letters, and telegrams. The letters and telegrams expressed fear that Roosevelt's policies are leading to war.

Mr. Roosevelt characterized as 100 per cent pure bunk the assertion that he exhorted and pledged the members of the military affairs committee to absolute secrecy as to what he told them. This statement amazed the senators more than anything else the President said at his press conference. Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] permitted himself to be quoted in this connection as follows:

"With respect to the President's statement that most of the talk of secrecy is bunk, I may say that I count myself definitly sworn to secrecy as to what was said at the White House meeting."

Other senators said the President pledged them to secrecy both before and after his lecture on foreign affairs.

Some of the senators saw a possible advantage in the President's denial that he had imposed a rule of secrecy on the conference. They said it could be interpreted as a release and used as an excuse to tell the whole story of the conference on the senate floor.

Formal Statement Issued.

The President issued the following formal statement of his foreign policy:

"The [foreign] policy has not changed and it is not going to change. If you want a comparatively simple statement of the policy I will give it to you and Kanne [official stenographer] can copy it out afterwards:

"No. 1. We are against any entangling alliance, obviously.

"No. 2. We are in favor of maintenance of world trade for everybody —all nations—including ourselves.

"No. 3. We are in complete sympathy with any and every effort to reduce or limit armaments.

"No. 4. As a nation—as American people—we are sympathetic with the peaceful maintenance of political, economic, and social independence of all nations in the world."

Launches Into Speech.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt launched into a half hour speech on the American foreign policy. This brought the brand of "a deliberate lie" to the widespread report that he had placed America's first line of defense in France.

Most of the time was spent in criticizing attacks on the administration's conduct of the foreign policy in congress and in newspapers. In defending himself Mr. Roosevelt struck savagely at his critics. Pointing to a stack of newspapers on his desk, he said there was not a single one which did not contain a story or headline which gave an erroneous impression.

In clipped accents he declared that he did not believe that political implications of the 1940 presidential campaign should be brought into 1939 discussions of America's foreign or defense policies.

Although he did not say it in so many words, he gave the unmistakable impression that he regards the widespread public demand for an end to his secret diplomacy, as evidenced in the deal to sell planes to France, as a plot conjured up by his political enemies for his destruction.

The American people, he said, are realizing that the things they have been assimilating for the last week come from certain agitators, legislators, and news accounts and are "pure, unadulterated bunk."

Calls Tactics Un-American.

He dismissed his critics as appealers to ignorance, prejudice, and fears, and said their tactics were un-American.

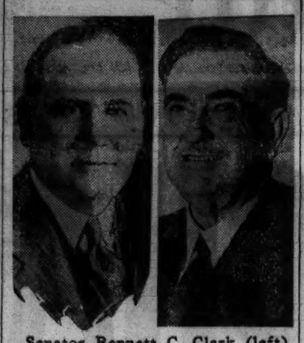
The President was asked to clarify the conference at which he reputedly drew the Rhine as America's first line of defense. He asked if he should be polite or call things by their right name. Without waiting for an answer he said: "It is a deliberate lie."

Discussing the Rhine frontier phrase he said some "boob" got that off and that he would like to meet that person face to face. He insisted there was no reference to the Rhine as a frontier.

As a result of the phrase, he said, 'America was applauded in France and Britain and attacked in Germany and Italy. But, he added, the whole thing was based on a mistake.

Asked about the proposed sale of planes to France, which brought the foreign policy controversy before the public, Mr. Roosevelt said he had informed the senate that the planes would be paid for in cash. The sales will not be financed from the treasury's two billion dollar stabilization fund or by the RFC, he declared.

Divide on Inquiry



Senator Bennett C. Clark (left), who favors full publicity on investigation of sales of war planes to foreign governments, and Senator Marvel M. Logan, who favors secret hearings. Both are Democrats.

Senators Rufus C. Holman (left) and Warren R. Austin, both Republicans, ask for publicity on all testimony except that concerning military secrets.

ACTION DELAYED ON BARING DATA OF PLANE INQUIRY

Unable to Agree on Procedure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The senate military affairs committee failed to reach a vote today on the question of publishing the record of its investigation of military airplane sales to France.

This investigation, which grew out of the crash Jan. 23 of a new Douglas bombing plane with a French agent aboard, resulted in the present controversy between the senate and the White House over President Roosevelt's secret dealings with France and Great Britain.

The committee postponed voting on the question of publishing the record after a dispute among members over procedure and the status of the record.

Committee May Await Review.

After the session Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] said that it appeared to be the consensus that the committee would wait until all its past testimony had been examined by the witnesses who gave it and returned for further examination.

There were indications that a majority of the eighteen members would vote for publication, but four separate proposals were offered.

Senator Clark proposed that all past and future testimony on the sale of war planes to foreign governments be made public.

Senator Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.] suggested that the committee continue to hold secret sessions and that nothing be made public.

Senator Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.] proposed that the committee make public its past record and hold open hearings in the future, going into executive session when testimony involving military secrets is heard.

Defense Data May Be Withheld.

Senator Rufus C. Holman [R., Ore.] favored public hearings except when military experts are testifying with respect to national defense plans and operations which it would be indiscreet to divulge.

The record is expected to show that the war department refused to permit the French air mission to inspect the bomber, which was constructed for entry in the war department competition for use by the army.

However, William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, and Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, induced President Roosevelt to intervene and order special privileges for the French mission.

FATHER OF 2 KILLS SELF.

Edward Beniak, 39 years old, a truck driver, shot and killed himself with a revolver in his home at 4754 South Tripp avenue last night, Brighton Park police reported. His widow, Rose, and two children survive.

ARMY DENIES IT REVEALED VITAL AIR GUN SECRETS

Plane Detector Is Called Greatest of These.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The war department today denied that it had released its most important anti-aircraft gun secrets to the British.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] yesterday said he would demand investigation of reports that valuable American anti-aircraft devices had been made available to the British at the direction of President Roosevelt.

It was admitted by the war department that an anti-aircraft gun director had been released for sale and that Great Britain had made purchases from the Sperry Gyroscope company, its manufacturer. However, it was stated that the American director is the evolution of a model originally purchased from the British and differs but little from similar directors in operation in other armies.

Detector Greatest Secret.

The army's greatest secret in anti-aircraft gun development is the airplane detector. The instrument is considered as important a development as the army's bomb sights, acknowledged to be the best in the world. So much secrecy has been thrown about the detector that only two members of congress have been permitted to inspect it and but a few members of the army's high command know the principle behind its operation.

According to the best information available the device picks up the faint electrical discharges of an approaching plane or employs infra-red rays to spot an enemy plane. Whatever the method, the device detects the presence of enemy planes long before such instruments as sound detectors or telescopes can spot approaching planes. It is said to be as effective by day as it is by night.

Operated with the director the detector trains a battery of four guns on the oncoming plane or planes. The guns are set for the direction, altitude, and rate of speed of the air foe. Even the fuses are fixed to fire at the right time and height.

The universal gun director is a form of calculating machine. It is a square box with a series of dials and dial faces. In action the operator takes calculations from fellow soldiers armed with range, altitude, and speed measuring instruments.

These readings translated on the dials of the director send impulses which aim the four guns of an anti-aircraft battery, set the fuses of the shell, and fire the pieces. While it is a highly important and complicated device, the United States is not alone in its possession, army officials said.

Think Detector Is Exclusive.

Army officials are confident that the United States alone has the detector developed in this country and say that it will not be released as it now stands until other nations catch up to this country, and by that time the army hopes to have an even better instrument.

The army was given funds to acquire the new detectors last spring when Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf, guardedly disclosed that this country had something up its sleeve in the way of anti-aircraft material. The device was exhibited to the late Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.] to enlist the latter's aid in the successful effort to boost the army's appropriation to increase the nation's anti-aircraft strength.

At that time Gen. Craig said the army lacked anti-aircraft guns and directors. He declared that the army did not have enough guns to protect New York City and needed a minimum of forty-eight guns. He said there was a shortage of directors and bracketed detectors with other equipment for purposes of secrecy.

Release of the detector, it was acknowledged, would create even more of a stir than the present controversy over the privileges granted France in the purchase of American planes designed for army service.

WARNS PRESIDENT MAY PUT NATION INTO WAR WHICH WILL AID REDS

President Roosevelt's present foreign policy may involve this country in a general war which will make the world safe, not for democracy, but for communism. This warning was sounded yesterday by Lawrence Dennis, economist and former member of the United States diplomatic service. He spoke before 1,000 persons at the weekly meeting of the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman.

Lawrence Dennis.

"The President seems guided in his policies by the vague moral principles of collective security and righteousness rather than by our practical interests," Dennis said. "He is backing one set of nations against the other, the so-called good against the so-called bad. Continuous pursuit of such impractical ideals must lead to another war—a 'holy war' which would be a greater flop than the last.

"Communist Russia is interested in promoting such a war between the liberal capitalist democracies and the Fascist dictatorships. Then, when both sides had vainly spent their energies, the communists would pick up the marbles and take charge of things."

MERRY FAHRNEY ORDERED TO PAY ATTORNEY $1,800

Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan yesterday ordered Merry Fahrney, four times married patent medicine heiress, to pay Attorney Benjamin H. Ehrlich $1,800. Ehrlich had sued for $2,500 fees for his services in obtaining divorces for the heiress from Hugh Pickering and Baron Arthur Berlingieri. A jury granted him $2,300, but this verdict was set aside and a new trial ordered. Miss Fahrney is now the wife of Count Oleg Cassini, but the status of the marriage is uncertain. The Illinois Appellate court has held the Berlingieri divorce invalid, but an appeal has been taken to the Illinois Supreme court.

Biggest Army Bomber to Take Medicine to Chile

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.] — The army bombing plane XB-15, said to be the largest bomber ever built, will leave Langley Field, Va., tomorrow morning, weather permitting, for Santiago, Chile, with a cargo of 3,000 pounds of medical supplies for the Chilean earthquake sufferers. The bomber is expected to arrive at Santiago early Monday morning. The ship will carry a crew of ten officers and enlisted men.

HITLER'S PRESS SPURNS DENIAL BY ROOSEVELT

Insists President "Must Have" Meant It.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The government controled German press tonight refused to accept President Roosevelt's denial that he had said America's frontier was on the Rhine.

"It is of small importance whether the President actually used those words," said Lokalanzeiger. "He must have meant something like it or else American papers could hardly have been so unanimous on the subject."

Field Marshal Wilhelm Goering's mouthpiece, National Zeitung of Essen, said the President obviously had received a bad fright and that "evidently he did not expect the reaction that followed his attempt to sabotage" Reichsfuehrer Hitler's "peace speech" in the Reichstag Monday.

Officially there was no comment on President Roosevelt's denial. Officials indicated Hitler, himself, would decide in due time what will be Germany's attitude.

Hitler Aid Attacks Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazi party, today attacked President Roosevelt in a speech at Dortmund.

"The Nazis have learned with astonishment that a leading politician across the ocean has moved his country's frontier to France, or even to the Rhine," Hess declared.

"It is not quite clear whether this frontier is to be before or behind Germany's western fortifications. Our fortified zone in the west is our frontier, not the Rhine. It is and remains our frontier, no matter how many nations may settle on the other side—either in bombastic talk or in reality. That is France's concern.

"Our frontier is fixed and no foreign soldiers will ever step behind it. England and America may fix their frontiers wherever they wish.

Warns Against Meddling.

"It would be better for every statesman to concern himself with the fate of his own country and people than to meddle with foreign frontiers. For us it is a greater satisfaction to give the signal for peaceful work for our people than to excite them against others."

Hess assured his listeners that the Nazi régime would maintain and secure living space for the German nation.

"Neither press agitation, broadcast lies, nor parliamentary debates change that," he declared. "Nor will the agitators in western and transoceanic democracies change matters even though their speculative and armaments business must thereby suffer."

Ship First of 200 Bombing Planes Ordered by Britain

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The first of 200 bombing planes ordered by the British government from the Lockheed Aircraft corporation was shipped tonight on the liner Andania. A second plane is scheduled to go on the Aquitania tomorrow. Deliveries have not started on 200 North American training planes, also ordered by the British.

ARREST GANDHI'S WIFE AS SHE TRIES TO AID ANTI-BRITISH DRIVE

RAJKOT, India, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Police arrested Mrs. Kasturibhai Gandhi, wife of Mohandas K. Gandhi, when she arrived in Rajkot state today to participate in a civil disobedience campaign. Mrs. Gandhi came to this city despite a previous police warning she would be arrested.

Mrs. Gandhi.

Known as a "faithful, silent" watcher over her husband, who has led anti-British agitation for years, she has served six periods of imprisonment previously for political activities on his behalf.

It was believed Gandhi and his wife were championing the cause of subjects of native princes in a move to block fulfillment of Britain's plan for establishment of an all-India federal government. Rajkot is a native state attached to the Western India states agency.

Some observers said Gandhi hopes to convince the princes that under the proposed federation they would lose their autocratic power. He hopes thus to win the princes' support in his fight against the British federation scheme, it was said.

1,000 READERS SEEK 3 PUPPIES; 7 MORE OFFERED

THE TRIBUNE published a picture of three German shepherd puppies on Thursday, with the announcement that the Anti-Cruelty society, at 157 West Grand avenue, hoped to find homes for them. The paper was hardly off the presses when telephone requests began arriving, according to Dr. W. A. Young, managing director of the society. Almost 1,000 calls have been received, and Dr. Young says they are continuing. There have been in addition sixty-five letters and a number of telegrams from five states.

Well, Dr. Young says, the puppies, six other dogs, and a cat have been given to early callers. But he'll have seven more puppies to offer as soon as he gets them thawed out. They were tossed upon a flat car in a burlap bag some where between Peoria and Chicago. Zigmund Rothauake of 3221 38th street found them half frozen in the Santa Fe railroad yards yesterday. Five are part collie. Two are part fox terrier. They're all irresistible.

Justice McReynolds, 77, Gives No Hint of Retiring

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Justice James C. McReynolds, who has been the most frequent opponent of Roosevelt administration legislation on the Supreme court, became 77 years old today. His retirement long has been rumored, but he has given no indication that he expects to quit in the immediate future. He has served since 1914, longer than any of his colleagues. McReynolds, apparently in excellent health, drives his own car and frequently slips away to indulge in duck hunting.

DEMANDS ITALY EXPLAIN ATTACKS UPON ROOSEVELT

U.S. Envoy Presents Note After Fascist Threats.

ROME, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Scorching attacks upon President Roosevelt by the Fascist press provoked a note today from William Phillips, American ambassador in Rome, to Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister.

Ambassador William Phillips.

The note requested an explanation of personal slurs on the President in government controled newspapers. Phillips characterized the attacks as vicious.

The attacks were part of a hostile campaign which followed versions of President Roosevelt's meeting Tuesday with the senate military affairs committee which reported him as stating that the frontier of the United States was in France. [President Roosevelt denied he said this.]

Gayda Voices New Threat.

The Italian press attack continued today. Virginio Gayda, often considered Premier Mussolini's mouthpiece, followed up his threat of yesterday to move the defenses of Germany and Italy "up to the Panama canal." Writing in the newspaper Giornale d'Italia, Gayda declared.

"Since Roosevelt wants to push his offensive into the heart of Europe up to the Rhine and Alps, it is natural that the defense to counterbalance it be extended up to the Rio Grande as well as to the line of the Panama canal, which has been developed by the United States as one of its bases for maneuvers between the Atlantic and Pacific. Roosevelt has imposed the necessity on Italy, Germany, and Japan and other nations to close their ranks still further and organize their defense in time with greater width of vision and method."

Italian Warships to Panama.

Simultaneously it was announced that two of Italy's smartest cruisers, Eugenio di Savoia and Emanuele Filberto Duca D'Aosta, on a world cruise to demonstrate Fascist naval strength, had left Ecuador for Panama.

Gayda in his declaration wrote that President Roosevelt "was giving the world with incommensurable hypocrisy a spectacle of his own personal dictatorship." He termed the American President's decision to facilitate French purchases of American airplanes "an open, personal abuse of power" and said the world would "take note of the reality of his personal policy of absolute power and temerity which nullifies in fact the words he thunders against the so-called dictatorships."

Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, Count Ciano's newspaper, called Roosevelt "public enemy No. 1 of peace." It charged him with "interference in affairs of others and a tendency to incite France to provoke Germany with the purpose of aggravating the situation."

Chemical Blast in School Blamed for $5,000 Blaze

Spontaneous combustion of chemicals in a storeroom adjoining the third floor laboratory at the McKinley High school, 2040 Adams street, was held responsible yesterday for fire that caused $5,000 damage earlier in the day. John Howatt, chief engineer of the board of education, said repairs already are under way and that the laboratory will be ready for use again in about two weeks. Regular class work was not interrupted.

Tells Bandits His Money Is at Home; They Go Get It

Three bandits bound Abraham Clenitz and a friend last night in Clenitz' real estate office at 6657 South Troy street. The real estate man said he had left his money at home. One gunman then stood guard while the others ran around the corner to the Clenitz home at 3314 67th street and took $100 from Mrs. Clenitz.

Divorced by Heir

MRS. CATHERINE SINGLETON

Pontiac, Mich., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—John H. Singleton, heir to the $5,000,000 estate of his father, the late Col. Marvin E. Singleton, St. Louis, Mo., industrialist, was awarded a divorce here today from Mrs. Catherine Moylan Singleton, "Miss Universe" of the Dallas, Tex., exposition of a few years ago. He charged desertion. By the terms of the decree, Mrs. Singleton will have custody of their 7 year old daughter, Sylvia, and $100 per month for her support until she is 21. Singleton also agreed to pay his wife $25,000 immediately and $15,000 more in 1941.

Singleton, 37 years old, is a graduate of Cornell university. His father's fortune was amassed as an executive of the Southern Bell Telephone company and in railroads and gold mines. He died about a year ago.

The Singletons were married in Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 24, 1931, and lived together until May 30, 1936. A suit for separate maintenance, brought by the wife, was on file at the time the divorce was granted.

U. S. JURY NAMES TWO IN SEPARATE EXTORTION PLOTS

Indictments charging two men with sending extortion letters through the mails were returned yesterday before Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal district court by the federal grand jury.

One of the defendants is John Scherp Jr., 24 years old, 6940 South Racine avenue. He is accused of threatening death to the daughter and grandchild of Morris Sachs, wealthy south side clothing merchant, and demanding $10,000. The threat was in a letter mailed Dec. 18 to Sachs. Scherp was arrested subsequently by federal agents.

Edward Lee Cody, 58, a transient, who was seized by federal agents last week, is accused of demanding $200 in a threat mailed to Morris Klein, a pawn broker at 749 North Clark street.

Kerosene Blast Burns Four WPA Workers

Four WPA workers were burned severely yesterday by a kerosene explosion in a shack at 50th street and Greenwood avenue, where they were eating lunch. All were taken to the Chicago hospital. They are Lawrence Graifen, 21 years old, 11628 South State street; John Kott, 34, of 4109 25th place; Antoine Haire, colored, 25, of 3342 Indiana avenue, and John Evans, colored, 53, of 4021 Cottage Grove avenue. One of them started the blast by tossing the kerosene into a stove, police were told.

Cold Rains and Snowfall Chill Southern California

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Borne on the wings of a coastal storm, a cold rain descended today on southern California lowlands today while several inches of snow fell in foothill areas. Los Angeles shivered in temperatures that ranged in the forties all day. The storm moved into the southland on the heels of a frigid wave which threatened citrus crops earlier in the week. Snowfall impeded trafic in many places.

ACCUSED OF STEALING PURSE.

Joseph Pytel, 25 years old, a WPA worker, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Police Magistrate Henry Sandusky of Cicero for stealing a woman's purse. Pytel lives at 2639 South 49th avenue, Cicero.

WAR WILL UNITE BRITONS 'AS ONE,' HITLER WARNED

Halifax Suggests Nazis Disarm for Peace.

HULL, England, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax tonight coupled a disarmament suggestion to Adolf Hitler with a warning that Britain swiftly is "resuming its ancient strength" and that Britons would "unite as one man" in event of war.

Recalling the reichstag speech Monday night in which Hitler said Germany must export or die, Halifax declared in a speech here:

"It is not my business to discuss the extent to which the difficulties of Germany or of any other country might be reduced by action that is within the power of a single country to take.

"But I know that as long as the world remains an armed camp the present difficulties will, in a greater or less degree, persist for all."

Pledge by Duce Cited.

The foreign secretary reëmphasized the promise he said Premier Mussolini made to him and to Prime Minister Chamberlain in Rome that Italian troops would be withdrawn from Spain at the end of the civil war.

He said Mussolini pledged respect for the "existing status quo" in the Mediterranean and desired no Spanish territorial awards.

He reaffirmed Britain's intention to watch for "an opportunity to do anything in our power" to bring the Spanish war to an end.

"What the Spanish civil war is in the west, the conflict in China is in the far east, a stumbling block to any real improvement of international relations there," he said.

Halifax praised President Roosevelt's "striking expressions" of the American ideals of independence in his congressional message of Jan. 4, which Halifax described as "the voice of a people which owes its independent existence as a nation to its love of liberty."

A Trap, Says Lloyd George.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, wartime prime minister, declared today the government had "allowed the British lion to be trapped" by its "combination of foolish optimism and obtuseness" over Spain.

He told the National General council of his Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction that Germany and Italy would not leave Spain until the democracies accepted their colonial territorial demands.

The British lion, he said, "will hardly extricate himself without losing some of his mane and several of his teeth—that is what Hitler means by a long peace."

Indict WPA Timekeeper for Listing Ghost Worker

Robert Fanella, a WPA timekeeper, was indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury on a charge of filing false claims against the government. Fanella, who lives at 2201 North 77th avenue, Elmwood park, is accused of submitting the name of a nonexistent worker on his WPA time sheets, thereby collecting $261.

GLORIA'S MOTHER RETURNS; BOTH GET A NEW HOME

Mrs. Irene Marino, who abandoned her three months' old daughter last Tuesday after trying in vain to provide for her, yesterday found a home for both of them with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Faust at 5132 Deming place. Faust, a policeman at the Warren avenue station, wanted to adopt the child when she was brought there Thursday.

Yesterday, however, after Mrs. Marino came into the Chicago avenue station and told her story she offered the baby to Faust. He gently refused. "You're tired and hungry," he said. "We'll get you on your feet again and find you a job. Then you can decide."

Mrs. Marino, who is 26, was deserted by her husband while the baby, Gloria, was on the way. About a week ago she offered the child for adoption at several institutions and was turned down. Finally, on Tuesday, she gave Gloria to Mrs. Lucy Greenwald, 2433 Congress street.

On Thursday, when Mrs. Marino failed to reappear, Mrs. Greenwald, who has four children of her own, left Gloria at the Warren avenue station. Faust first took her home, then to St. Vincent's orphanage. Last night he went with Mrs. Marino when she reclaimed her child. The Fausts already have one adopted child, a son, John, 3½.

A TRAGIC FAILURE TELLS OF KILLING HIS WIFE AND SON

Dentist Turned Bartender Glad He Confessed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—A young man took stock of his world a few years ago and found it highly pleasing. He had married a college mate after a campus romance. An inheritance of $40,000 had fallen to him and he was embarking on a promising professional career. The future seemed to hold only success.

Dr. Norman Stewart II. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

That was in the pre-depression years of the late '20s. Tonight he sat in a police cell awaiting prosecution for slaying his co-ed wife and young son. Utter failure in his profession and the dissipation of his $40,000 lay behind him. He stole $300 to return here to make his conscience impelled confession.

The young man is Dr. Norman Stewart II., 34 years old, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. He had trained himself to be a dentist, but the work of a grocery clerk and a bartender has been his lot.

Given Up as Dead.

Authorities gave him up as dead when they were unable to find him following the slaying of his wife, Mary Louise, and their son, Norman III., 4 years old, in June, 1935. Yesterday Stewart gave himself up and said he had been living under an assumed name at Jacksonville, Fla., where he had married again.

"I'm glad that nightmare is over," the bespectacled, neatly dressed prisoner told police. "The thought of my wife and child haunted me. I haven't had a minute's peace."

Stewart showed little emotion as he told the story of the slayings. He told of his world collapsing about him during the depression. His dental practice a failure and his $40,000 lost in stock investments, he was forced to work in a grocery for $15 a week.

Recalls Fatal Quarrel.

"My wife and I quarreled over finances," he said. "I remember the fatal quarrel the night of June 15, 1935, everything up to the point where I killed them. My mind turned blank, I didn't know what I was doing, but it has haunted me ever since."

When he came to his senses later, Stewart said, he found his wife and son dead. They had been beaten with a hammer and stabbed with a bread knife. Three days after he had fled in terror, their bodies were found. His son had wire wrapped around his throat in addition to fatal wounds.

In Jacksonville, Fla., the girl Stewart married under the name of Fred L. Flake a year ago hunted desperately for him following his disappearance Jan. 25. Today she learned that the man with whom she had lived happily for a year had confessed he was a double murderer.

SCARLET FEVER QUARANTINES 300 IN CAMPUS HALLS

Three hundred resident students of Concordia Teachers college in River Forest have been quarantined since Tuesday, when it was discovered that three of their number had scarlet fever. Dr. Charles J. Weigel, village health commissioner who imposed the restrictions, said they would be lifted next Wednesday if no new cases developed.

The three who are ill and twelve others under observation are isolated on the top floor of one of the buildings. The others are attending classes, but must avoid contacts with the public. Fifty day students are forbidden to go to classes.

THINK SNOW WAS A HARDSHIP? CITY REALLY SUFFERS

Last Monday's snowstorm worked a hardship on the city's citizens, but it placed a greater tax on the city's finances. The figures proved it yesterday. Since Monday the city has paid $40,000 a day, or a total of $200,000, for snow removal. With no special fund in the budget for this work, the money was taken out of the street cleaning fund. During the preceding six years, said Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt, the average annual cost of snow removal was only $120,000.

POSTOFFICE SAFE LOOTED.

EIGHT FIREMEN DIE AS WALLS COLLAPSE; THREE ARE INJURED

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Eight firemen died today in a fire that destroyed a five story office building near the heart of the Syracuse business district. Tons of débris were piled on the entombed men by the collapse of the roof and two side walls of the structure.

A ninth fireman, trapped in the wreckage with the eight, was rescued an hour after the roof fell in. He was taken to a hospital critically injured. Two other firemen were treated in hospitals for injuries.

The eight men lost were District Chief Thomas J. Dugan, Lieutenants David Lavine, Albert G. Young and Raymond E. Bauder, and Firemen John W. Agan, James E. Diamond, G. Michael Dixon, and Frank Karlan.

HOUSE EXTENDS DIES COMMITTEE BY 10 TO 1 VOTE

Administration Attack Is Snowed Under.

were by their own admission members of the communist party?"

Representative Adolph Sabath [D., Ill.], one of the opponents of the resolution, inquired if Dies would investigate Nazi propaganda. He referred to a newspaper headline which stated:

"Nazis call F. D. R. bolshevist."

"We know that is a lie!" Sabath yelled.

Dies answered that the committee had not concentrated upon communistic activities, as charged by its enemies, but had spent a large part of its funds investigating Nazi and Fascist activities in the United States.

Limited by Opposition.

"Propaganda has been spread by the communists to the effect that the committee was sympathetic with the Nazis and Fascists," he told the house. "Why did they do this? It was part of the conspiracy to smear the committee and interfere with its work. We made bona fide and honest efforts to investigate Nazism although hindered by insufficient funds and the refusal of the government to coöperate by lending investigators.

"No one can deny that destructive forces are seeking to change the structure of this government by intrigue and violence. Yet I hear members of congress accuse me of seeking to hurt my administration or to hurt my party. I submit that America comes above all question of partisanship."

Keller Taken Down.

The limelight was again focused today upon Representative Kent E. Keller [D., Ill.], who was accused by Dies of inserting a speech in the congressional record which closely resembled the wording of a pamphlet written by Adam Lapin, Washington correspondent for the Daily Worker, official organ of the Communist Party of America. Both Keller and Lapin assailed the Dies committee.

Representative Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.], obtained the floor. He began by expressing the opinion that Keller had been unjustly accused of plagiarizing the words and thoughts of the communist writer.

"I do not believe the gentleman from Illinois did plagiarize or steal the words and thoughts that he used," Mason said. Keller beamed. There was a roar of laughter, however, from the entire house as Mason continued:

"I believe they were the gentleman's own words and thoughts, that he believes what he said and that he should receive full credit for the same.

"It cannot be denied that Mr. Keller's words and thoughts are of the same pattern, are in fact nearly identical with the words and thoughts of the communist writer, Mr. Lapin. They are so nearly similar that it was only natural that Mr. Keller should be suspected of plagiarizing.

Keller Demands Floor.

"It is my well considered thought that the similarity only proves that the minds, the thoughts, the ideas, the sympathies and the aims of these two men are so much alike that they naturally use the same phrases to expres sthemselves."

Keller, dumfounded, at length gained the floor and demanded that he be allowed to reply on a "point of personal privilege."

"Why, he was defending you!" exclaimed Representative John C Schafer [R., Wis.], in mock surprise.

"Now I am being accused by the leader of the Silver Shirts in this house," said Keller, red with rage. "I demand to be heard."

"The gentleman's request comes too late," Speaker Bankhead ruled.

Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.] declared that the Dies committee had been the victim of gross misrepresentation and unfair criticism. The demand was made that it proceed under the strict rules of evidence as laid down in the courts, he remarked, whereas other congressional committees were allowed the broadest latitude in the questioning of witnesses.

"The character of opposition to this committee is perhaps the strongest argument for its continuance," added Representative J. Will Taylor [R., Tenn.]. "When a conspiracy to ridicule the investigation failed, some of the outstanding executive officers of this administration descended to disgraceful tactics in an effort to discredit it.

Keller Gets One Minute.

"They say that Dies aspires to be president of the United States. As far as that goes, I think Martin Dies would make a better president than some I've seen in the twenty years I have been here and I don't mean Herbert Hoover!"

Keller then was allowed the floor for one minute. He said he was unwilling to trust Dies as chairman of the investigating committee.

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] displayed a telegram sent to every member of the house by David Lasser, head of the Workers' Alliance, organization of WPA workers which has been identified as a communist front organization. Lasser urged congressmen to vote against the Dies resolution.

"I hope the committee will expose the Workers' Alliance as a part of its investigation," he said. "If it does so, the $100,000 will be well spent."

STELLE DEFENDS PART IN DRIVE ON SLOT MACHINES

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Acting Governor John Stelle replied today to northern Illinois sheriffs who criticized the use of state highway police in the slot machine campaign. He said that the administration is not fighting local officials, but is holding its police in readiness to coöperate with them.

Meeting in Aurora yesterday, thirty sheriffs called the campaign against slot machines a buildup for centralization of police power in Springfield.

The acting governor pointed to the demand of several sheriffs for more deputies and said: "Surely no county officer who says he needs more deputies will fail to ask the coöperation of the state police in ridding the state of the slot machine evil."

Further word from the sheriffs on the slot machine subject may come next week when the state association holds its convention here.

POLICE PERMIT MODELS TO STAGE SPRIGHTLY SHOW

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A score of America's most beautiful models and the men who put them on magazine covers and in national advertisments staged their annual for-men-only show tonight—without police interference.

There were nudes, as usual, in all the acts. Bedrooms provided the settings for a least a half dozen skits. The dialog generally was of the balzac hue. But blasé Broadway producers, who attend the show with a view of buying sketches and songs and occasionally to divert a model to a stage career, acclaimed the production as one of the most artistic yet given by the Society of Illustrators.

Choice seats at tonight's performance were taken by Herbert Bayard Swope, J. J. Shubert, the producer; Bernard Gimbel, the merchant; Sir Gilbert Sassoon, Conde Nast, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and Charles Baskerville, portrait painter. The admission was $15, the proceeds going to the society's relief fund. Income from sale of skits or songs also goes to the society.

REDS' PAPER PRINTS NAMES OF OFFICERS AS REQUIRED BY LAW

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—It was just an oversight, the Daily Worker, communist newspaper, said today, that led to omission of the names of its officers from its masthead, as required by New York state law. The officers, published both in the masthead and the editorial today, are: President, William E. Browder, brother of Earl Browder, titular party leader in this country; vice president, John Lowry; secretary-treasurer, Max Kitzen; editor, Clarence Hathaway; associate editor, Sam Don. Attorney General Bennett had served the paper with a subpena to show cause why the paper should not be suppressed unless it complied with the law by publishing the names.

FIND $22,000 GEM HOLDUP CLEWS IN ASHES OF BONFIRE

Clews to a recent $22,000 jewelry robbery were found yesterday in the remains of a bonfire in a lot at Moody avenue and Bloomingdale road. Passersby saw several jewelry boxes in the ashes and called Cragin police. Detectives recovered several of the partially burned boxes, a gold wedding ring, and a partially burned money order.

Investigation traced them to the Busch Jewelry company store at 3258 Lincoln avenue which was held up by five bandits on Jan. 26, and robbed of $22,000 in rings and watches, and $200 in cash. Police said the bandits apparently had intended to destroy all possible evidence in the bonfire. The material recovered will be examined for fingerprints.

WPA WAITING LIST CLOSED BY IERC; NO JOBS TO FILL

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission voted yesterday to approve no more persons in the state for WPA jobs until they are available. The commission acted at the request of Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, who told the IERC that there is little prospect of WPA making any more assignments to jobs.

Carl H. Martini, IERC certification officer, said there were 77,103 approved persons in the state on Jan. 20 waiting for job assignments. Miner suggested that IERC employés released from certification duties be put to work reinvestigating the needs of those working on WPA

The commission was informed by E. E. Ferebee, its statistician, that 431 of the 1,455 relief administering units in the state had deficits totaling $3,816,142 as of last Dec. 31. Chicago's deficit was $1,999,920. Ferebee's report will be sent to the governor and heads of the legislature.

ROOSEVELT PROMISES LETTER TO ROBERTS IF HE IS NOT CONFIRMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt said today he would write a "quite interesting" letter to Floyd H. Roberts if the senate refuses to confirm him as United States judge for the western district of Virginia.

The senate is expected to follow the recommendation of the senate judiciary committee, which voted 14 to 3 against Roberts because Senators Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd of Virginia declared the appointment personally objectionable and obnoxious to them.

The senators charged Roberts was nominated because the President is seeking to take Virginia federal patronage out of their hands and turn it over to Gov. James H. Price.

RELIEVE NIGHT COUGHS DUE TO CHEST COLDS

To relieve night coughs due to chest colds rub Penetro on chest, throat and back. Its extra-medicated vapors are inhaled to soothe irritated, congested mucous membranes. Its counter-irritant action increases local blood supply—gives feeling of local warmth.

Penetro has a mutton suet base—more of ingredients are absorbed by superficial skin. It also has a "more medication" feature (contains 2 to 3 times as much medication as any other nationally sold salve for cold discomforts). Be sure to ask for stainless and snow-white Penetro.

"That's a Fine Home Your Son's Building!"

"Yes, it's a pretty big house for a young fellow. But I guess he can afford it, since he was taken into the firm with a sizable share of the earnings. George is coming right along. His education cost us a lot, but it was certainly worth it!"

Is your son discouraged and upset about his work? Perhaps he will never make the progress he desires until he is able to bring to his work something more than just average ability. Training for a better job, with bigger pay, may be the answer to his problem.

PROF. LINN BACKS KELLY'S PLAN TO BENEFIT SCHOOLS

Agree on Far Reaching Management Program.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Mayor Kelly has designed a plan to take the city's schools entirely out of politics, it was disclosed last night. Under the plan the mayor would appoint a nonpartisan committee to supervise and—as the case might be—approve or veto all the mayor's future appointments to the school board. It is to be put into effect at once if the mayor is reëlected.

Mayor Kelly's plan was made public last night in a radio speech by Prof. James Weber Linn of the University of Chicago. Prof. Linn is also a state representative.

Agree on Broad Program.

He told his radio audience that he and the mayor had conferred and agreed on a practical and far reaching program to insure sounder management and a progressive betterment of the school system. He said the project had been discussed as early as last November and that it was as much the mayor's project as his.

"The mayor will make his own announcement on the subject in a short time," Linn added.

The professor-representative outlined the reasons why he is supporting the mayor for reëlection. One of the principal reasons, he said, is his belief that Mayor Kelly could and would do more for the schools than State's Attorney Courtney. He explained that he had been requested by Frank Knox, Republican candidate for Vice President in 1936, to support Courtney. Prof. Linn read a letter received on Jan. 6 from Mr. Knox.

Knox Asks Aid for Courtney.

Linn read from a letter he said he received from Knox. He read as follows:

"'You will remember some time ago that I talked to you about participating in the Courtney campaign for mayor.

"'I have talked this over with Courtney himself and he is most anxious to have you do some speaking for him, particularly stressing the school situation. I presume you have seen his declaration on the school question which occurred in his radio speech announcing his candidacy. I thought the position he assumed was admirable and, if followed out, would do just what you and I both want done with respect to our public schools.

"'I hope you will get in touch directly with Courtney in regard to this matter.'"

Never Talked with Prosecutor.

"Yet I never got in touch with Courtney," Prof. Linn continued. "Why not? To show why, I must read you some more correspondence."

Linn read a letter he addressed to Mayor Kelly on Nov. 11—"Armistice day, a good day for it., I thought." In it, Linn told the mayor that his chief interest in the legislature would be the development of the schools. He said he thought that improvement in the management of the Chicago schools was "desirable, possible, and perhaps inevitable if what I know you and I both seek, the best interests of the children of Chicago, are fully taken into account."

He asked for a meeting with the mayor to discuss the school problem.

"Dear Mr. Linn," the mayor replied. "I am glad that we both seek the best interests of the children of Chicago. I shall be glad to talk the matter over with you at any time it is possible."

Hold First Conference.

Linn described the first conference in the following manner:

"I expected to offer suggestions and the mayor to offer complaints. It turned out the other way. I offered complaints and the mayor offered suggestions.

"I was for what you might call rough work at the cross roads.

"What the mayor wanted was to 'get the schools out of politics'—though that was not his phrase."

The results of the first meeting, Linn summarized in a second letter to the mayor which embodied the plan for a committee to approve school board appointments.

"I think such agreement would be not only a real significance to Chicago, but of real help to you," he wrote Mayor Kelly. Prof. Linn also included some suggestions for the makeup of the citizens advisory committee.

Announcement to Be Made Soon.

"Mayor Kelly has agreed to my suggestion," Linn said. "He has given me his word that he will appoint such a committee and will shortly make a public announcement in keeping with this agreement."

Since he was a supporter of Gov. Horner's ticket last April, Prof. Linn said he realized his declaration might make him a target of abuse.

"I may be accused, now that the mayor has agreed to this plan, of having 'sold out' to the machine," he said. "Two men will never so accuse me—myself and Gov. Horner.

"I am under no obligation to Mr. Courtney and his able Republican sponsor, Mr. Knox. I have made no commitments in or out of politics that would jeopardize my most vital and consuming objective."

Debut for Singer

(Acme Photo.)

Louisa Corchia, 17 years old, who learned to sing from phonograph records, to give concert in Carnegie hall, New York.

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Miss Louisa Corchia, 17 years old, who learned to sing from phonograph records, will make her debut as a coloratura soprano in Carnegie hall, New York, Feb. 20. Her father is a jobless furrier. Her cousin, Sereno Corchia, who operates a bar and grill, has used most of his life's savings to rent the hall and launch the girl on her career. If she draws a large audience and favorable comment from the critics the girl expects to be able to repay her cousin and to end the poverty of her family.

NEWSMAN NAMED BY LEGISLATIVE VOTERS' LEAGUE

Warren Phinney, veteran legislative correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, was chosen yesterday as executive secretary of the Legislative Voters' league. He succeeds the late Shelby M. Singleton, who held the post for twenty years.

Phinney has been an active Chicago newspaper man for a third of a century and has reported sessions of the legislature since 1921. The league was organized in 1902 by the late George E. Cole to improve the caliber of representation in the general assembly. Through its executive secretary and other observers in Springfield the league watches the assemblymen at work and makes reports on their conduct before primary and general elections.

Charges Discrimination Against Elgin Democrats

Richard J. Schnell, a Democratic committeeman, informed the Elgin city council yesterday his organization would contest the validity of the city primary Feb. 28 unless alleged discrimination against Democratic election officials is ended. Schnell said at least fifty-six Democrats should be appointed as judges and clerks of election, and added that the council had not complied with this legal requirement.

KELLY MACHINE CHICAGO RACKET NO. 1: COURTNEY

Prosecutor Tells Efforts to Improve City.

State's Attorney Courtney charged in a radio address last night that the "Kelly-Nash machine" is the biggest of all rackets on which he has been waging war in Chicago.

He read a list of tax bills which he said showed increases of from 25 to 30 per cent on homes and small flat buildings since Mayor Kelly took office in 1933. He replied to the challenge of the Republican candidate, Dwight H. Green, also made on the radio, that Courtney do something about cleaning up Chicago conditions that Green attacked.

Recalls Kelly Statement.

"Mr. Kelly," said the state's attorney, "had this to say about me last night: 'Chicago is one of the most highly praised cities in the world. Would you leave it to be torn down by this man?'

"For six years I have been fighting your battles against organized rackets and crime ranging from kidnaping and murder down. In this campaign I am going to fight, in my opinion, the greatest organized racket of them all—the Kelly-Nash machine and its boss, Ed Kelly.

"Look about you and what do you find? Real estate, a drug on the market! Building construction at a standstill! Able bodied men, willing and anxious to work, walking the streets! More relief cases this January than a year ago! Business hamstrung! Teachers terrorized! Policemen paying for their jobs! The purposes of the park consolidation act ignored by Bob Dunham! The morale of civil service employés at the lowest ebb in history! Who is responsible for this condition, Courtney or Kelly?

Says Costs Have Risen.

"In my six years to make this city a safer and better place to live have you ever heard Mr. Kelly's voice raised in support of my activity? No. But behind closed doors when he is talking to the mob or their representatives he has been double-crossing and retarding my efforts at all times."

Courtney charged that the appropriation for running the mayor's own office has increased 71 per cent, from $32,871 to $56,230, between 1934, Mayor Kelly's first year, and 1939.

Closing, he said of Green's attacks: "A few moments ago Mr. Green, Republican candidate for mayor, made the same charges I am making. He asked why I didn't do something about it. I have done a lot about it already, more than he will do. And I have retarded them in other ways. But because of the Kelly-Nash control of the judiciary, I have decided to take Mr. Kelly's administration before the tribunal of the people."

2 HEARST PAPERS SEEK $50,000 IN SUIT OVER STRIKE

Damages of $50,000 are sought in a suit filed in the Circuit court yesterday by two Chicago publishing concerns against the Chicago Newspaper guild and forty-five individuals. The concerns are the Chicago Evening American Publishing company and the Illinois Publishing and Printing company, publisher of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Three officials of the guild, Harry Wohl, Justin McCarthy, and Graham Dolan, are among the defendants. The other forty-two persons named are members of a so-called citizens' committee which has supported a strike in the two Hearst-owned newspaper plants.

The bill alleged that the defendants were guilty of libel and conspiracy; that they had made false, malicious, and defamatory statements to advertisers and subscribers with the object of causing them to refrain from advertising in or reading the two newspapers.

GREEN BLISTERS PARTY BATTLE OF KELLY, COURTNEY

Calls Democrat Fight One for Control.

Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for mayor, made equally blistering assaults last night over the radio on the contenders for the Democratic nomination—Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Courtney. Green's attack was prompted, he said, by Democratic appeals to Republicans and independent voters for support.

"In order to challenge this intrusion," he said, "I must discuss the respective records in public office of both the mayor and the state's attorney, to determine whether or not Republicans should leave their party to vote for either of them."

Assails Burden of Taxes.

"Mr. Kelly," he said, "your régime as mayor has placed the heaviest burden on the taxpayers in the city's history. During your administration the Kelly-Nash machine has made the tax rate sky rocket from $6.73 per $100 of property valuation to the alarming rate of $9.52 in 1936.

"According to tax experts and the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, this rate will reach an all-time high of $10 for 1938. The cost of operating the affairs of the city has risen under your administration from 44 millions annually to 56 millions.

Green then turned on the prosecutor.

"What about State's Attorney Courtney?" he demanded. "His sole issue is 'Smash the Kelly-Nash machine.' That has been the Republican battle cry for six years. Where were you, Mr. State's Attorney, in the last November election when the Republicans waged a relentless fight to destroy the Nash-Kelly machine?

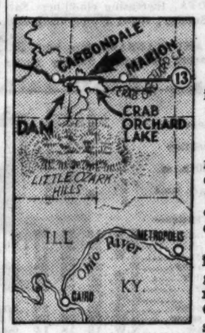
Raps Past Record.

"Your support would have gone a long way toward defeating it. Why did you not raise your voice against the machine? You supported Kelly-Nash candidates last November. You pleaded with the voters to elect the entire Democratic ticket.

"Previously, in 1933, you advocated Kelly's appointment as mayor by the city council. In 1935 you supported his reëlection. Recently, Mr. Courtney, you pleaded with the Kelly-Nash committeemen to join your forces. Your candidate for city treasurer is but a recent convert. Your candidate for city clerk was formerly the Kelly-Nash county treasurer. You are all part of the same Democratic machine. Your only quarrel with Mr. Kelly is to determine who will control the same political machine."

U. S. DAM WATER FLOODS HIGHWAY AND FARM LANDS

Marion, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—New Deal inefficiency was blamed today for the flooding of state highway 13 between Marion and Carbondale by waters backed up from a recently completed government dam.



Heavy arrow points to flooded road.

The dam is in the government's Crab Orchard resettlement project in Williamson county which has drawn criticism as "another administration brainstorm." Strong protests are being made by residents of several thousand acres of land in the area that will be turned into the largest lake in Illinois.

Today's rising flood waters focused attention on the government's dubious practice of building a dam before it has acquired the land which will be inundated by its operation.

Water backed up by the dam on Crab Orchard creek is now flowing over farm lands which the government does not own and which are the subject of pending litigation.

10 DROP APPEALS OF JAIL TERMS IN C. I. O. STRIKE CASE

An appeal in behalf of ten men sentenced for contempt of court in connection with the C. I. O. strike at the Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago last summer is to be dropped.

This was announced yesterday by Lester F. Collins of Waukegan, attorney for the men. He said he had mailed notice to the 2d district Appellate court at Ottawa, asking that the appeal be dismissed. Collins said: "I have been directed to serve the notice by C. I. O. leaders in Chicago. Other than that I have no further comment."

The Appellate court is expected to act on the motion next Tuesday. Only a few days ago the court was asked by counsel for the hardware company to dismiss the appeal because of the failure of the men under sentence to submit briefs.

If the appeal is dismissed, as it is expected, the case will return to Lake county, probably with mandates to incarcerate the strikers in accordance with the contempt sentences. One, Robert Wirtz, faces 120 days in jail; two face thirty days, and seven face twenty days. Eight of the ten are still employed by the company. Judge Ralph J. Dady, who imposed the sentences, refused in July to change them.

George F. Harding Quits Hospital After Operation

George F. Harding, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, was released yesterday from Passavant hospital, where he was operated on Jan. 21 for a gall bladder ailment. Dr. W. H. Holmes said he would convalesce at home for two or three weeks. Mr. Harding, who is 70 years old, will not be permitted visitors for a few days.

LEWIS' TEXTILE UNION IS TAKEN BACK BY A. F. OF L.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor tossed a new challenge at John L. Lewis today by restoring to the United Textile Workers union the A. F. of L. charter lost when it joined Lewis' C. I. O.

Acting quickly, the A. F. of L. council authorized President William Green to grant the textile union's plea for reaffiliation with the same jurisdiction it had before being expelled as a rebel a year ago.

In announcing the council's action, Green also disclosed that efforts would be made to bring back into the revived A. F. of L. textile organization some of the hosiery workers lost when the American Federation of Hosiery Workers swung over to the C. I. O.

CITIZENS' GROUP TO STUDY NEW PLANNING SETUP

The city council judiciary committee yesterday authorized the appointment of a special committee of representatives of various civic groups to consider amendments to the proposed ordinance for reorganizing the Chicago Plan commission. The special committee will report back to the aldermen on Feb. 17.

The proposed ordinance would clothe with official powers the present commission, which was organized in 1909. It provides for an active commission of 30 members, about the same size as the present commission. Objectors at yesterday's hearing contended that it should be a smaller group of not more than nine members. The measure was drawn by the Chicago Commercial club.

CREATIVE CIVICS

By CALEB

THE ancient world pointed proud forefingers at its own types of urban greatness—the Parthenon of Athens, the Colosseum of Rome, the Pharos of Alexandria, the Colossus of Rhodes, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon—and history could hardly belittle their pride without belittling itself.

But we question whether more startling feats have embellished any period than have been accomplished by "creative civics" right here in Chicago during the three decades from 1908 on—when a Plan of Chicago was first published and presented, with a view to making this metropolis the admiration and envy of all who are dwellers elsewhere.

Since as recently as 1910, in fact, the city of "I Will" has been topographically and transportationally transformed. Chicago Beautiful—once an artist's dream—is already a solid, citizen's reality. For while it was inspired by men who could dream, they were also men who could do. A rare combination—but, as 1939 Chicago testifies, not for a moment non-existent. And what the Plan required they do was stupendous: unification of railroad terminals; connection of central and outlying business sections; expansion and extension of streets; acquisition of more land; reclamation and conversion of waterfronts: each in itself a titan-sized task.

If these problems were gigantic, however, so were the minds and purposes pitted against them. And when the latter paused from their labors, new elevated structures—a new commercial district north of Michigan Avenue bridge—a new front yard along the Lake east of the Illinois Central—new Union Station—new Post Office—new La Salle Avenue—new South Parkway—new Ogden Avenue—Wacker Drive—Field Museum—Soldier Field—Shedd Aquarium—Adler Planetarium—new outer drive from Jackson Park to Evanston—new $13,000,000 Centennial Bridge—electrification of the Illinois Central suburban system—beginning of a new subway system . . . all these were just a few of the features which justify one's use of the word "monumental" in contemplating the possible Chicago of Tomorrow!

As for that Chicago: if it becomes only partly what the talent for creative civics inherent in its leaders has made it already—not even the wildest artist's vision of today will remotely approximate the actuality of A. D. 2039!

RUSSIA'S CLOSING OF ITS LEGATION SHOCKS HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's decision to close its Hungarian legation and call home its chargé d'affaires because Hungary decided to line up with Germany, Italy, and Japan in the anti-communist internationale pact appeared today to have taken Budapest by surprise.

A statement said that the Hungarian foreign minister, Count Stefan Csaky, twice had given assurances that Hungary's participation in the pact would not be directed against soviet Russia.

Diplomatic quarters interpreted the Russian action as a broad hint that some other countries might be flirting with the idea of joining the anti-communist internationale pact. They mentioned Jugo-Slavia and Turkey as states that may have been approached about adhering.

40 FEARED DEAD IN JAPANESE SUBMARINE SUNK BY COLLISION

TOKIO, Feb. 4 [Saturday].—(AP)—Hope for the rescue of the crew of the Japanese first class submarine I-63 waned today with the passing of 48 hours since she sank in the Inland sea after a collision with another undersea craft. The admiralty gave no news of rescue attempts and it was indicated information would be released after success or failure of salvage efforts. The submarine, with an estimated 40 men aboard, sank during maneuvers Thursday.

REFUGEE FILLED CITY BOMBED BY REBELS; 150 DIE

Thousands Flee After Raids on Capital.

FIGUERAS, Spain [by courier to the French Frontier], Feb. 3.—(AP)—Insurgent warplanes dropped bombs today upon the 100,000 refugees crowded into this temporary capital of government Spain. Repeated raids were made over a period of five hours. First estimates were that 150 persons were killed and 200 wounded, but the exact toll probably never will be known.

[Relief officials reaching the frontier estimated the casualty total was at least 500. Other reports said rebel planes flew north to the French border and were fired on by French anti-aircraft units.]

Gerona, twenty-two miles south of this city, also was bombed sixteen times. No estimate of casualties there was given.

Civilian Exodus Begins.

Houses were destroyed throughout Figueras, which normally has a population of about 14,000, but which has been so crowded recently that people spent the nights sleeping in doorways and in the streets. The French consulate, used by the French embassy staf, was hit but no one was hurt.

A general civilian exodus from Figueras appeared to be under way tonight. Strict control by Spanish government authorities, however, prevented a panic stricken rush to the French border similar to the one which followed the fall of Barcelona.

The first bombing was shortly after noon. It was the first attack made on the civilian areas of Figueras since the city became a haven for refugees from Barcelona. An hour later the planes came back and sped over the city twice to drop bombs, eluding outnumbered loyalist pursuit planes.

Censorship Office Hit.

After an hour's interval the planes reappeared and turned upon the crowded Central square where air raid refugees were packed to the doorways. One bomb struck the office of foreign censorship, killing a Spanish news agency correspondent and wounding another.

From 3 o'clock until 5 o'clock the planes came back so often that the observers lost count. Electricity and water were shut off. Volunteers dug into the wreckage, and there was a constant procession of automobiles and trucks which had been turned into ambulances.

Rebels Near Gerona.

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Border], Feb. 3.—(AP)—The rebel army's drive into Catalonia tonight had reached a point within nine miles of Gerona, important highway point twenty-five miles from France.

A government army of 200,000 men fell back steadily, rebels said, and Gen. Francisco Franco's advance guards drove beyond the villages of Santa Coloma de Farnes and Llagostera, about equidistant southwest and southeast of Gerona.

Another rebel column advanced north of Vich, and a fourth had reached the coastal town of Tossa de Mar.

Capital Bombed

(Story in adjoining column.)

Spanish loyalist refugees crammed into the city of Figueras (indicated by arrow) were bombed yesterday in rebel air raids on this temporary capital of government Spain. Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel troops, meanwhile, continued their northward advance, reaching Tossa de Mar and passing Llagostera and Santa Coloma de Farnes. Another column was north of Vich.

PROTEST JAPAN'S WARNING TO QUIT CHINESE RESORT

SHANGHAI, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A Japanese warning to foreigners to leave Kuling, summer resort southeast of Hankow, brought a storm of condemnation today from Kuling refugees in Shanghai. They said that many of the sixty-five foreigners now at the resort are either aged persons or invalids, and unable to leave.

"It will mean death to these persons if they are forced to undertake to descend the mountain," asserted one foreigner who had come to Shanghai from Kuling.

The Japanese warning, presented to foreign consuls yesterday, asked that the foreigners be removed before Feb. 10 because of an imminent offensive against Chinese guerrilla troops around Kuling. Twelve Americans are at the resort.

The American and British consuls general in Shanghai have referred the matter to their home governments and to the Hankow consulates, in whose district Kuling lies. Reports of sharp engagements between Chinese guerrillas and Japanese troops in the Yangtze valley indicated that leaving Kuling might be difficult.

Nazis Move to Increase 'Striking Power' in Air

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Sweeping measures affecting the administration of the German air force were announced tonight. It was said these measures will serve to increase the "striking power" of the force. The measures also will effect an economy.

MME. VERNA'S CARDS DECEIVE HER IN A CRISIS

Mme. Verna, a seeress, was waiting for business at 905 North State street yesterday when Helen Bowden of 113 West Chicago avenue appeared. Miss Bowden knocked at the door and said she wanted her fortune told.

"Come in, and 50 cents, please," said Mme. Verna warmly. Then she took out the cards. She shook her head at the first one.

"You're having domestic trouble," she said.

"Wrong," corrected Miss Bowden, "I'm single."

Mme. Verna. [Mabel Boss.]

Mme. Verna apologized, saying the cards were sometimes temperamental. Then she turned up another card, a spade.

"This is bad!" exclaimed the seeress. "It means police. Be careful, they're after you."

"Wrong again," corrected Miss Bowden. "The police are after you, not me."

Thereupon Miss Bowden identified herself as a policewoman and arrested Mme. Verna, whose real name is Mabel Swales Boss, on a charge of telling fortunes for money. She took her to 113 West Chicago avenue, which is the address of the Chicago avenue police station.

"FIFTH COLUMN" AIDS FRANCO NAB BARCELONA FOES

BARCELONA, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's "fifth column," which worked secretly for him in Barcelona while the government held the city, today openly helped rebel authorities round up persons sought as their enemies.

It was believed about 5,000 of these Franco sympathizers soon would appear in military khaki or the blue uniforms of the state party, the Falange Espanola Tradicionalista, in recognition of their espionage services.

During the thirty months the government held Barcelona, the "fifth column" smuggled out information helpful to the insurgents. Now they are helping identify persons wanted by rebel police and are expected to have a voice in deciding which "enemies of Spain" will be punished.

The late Gen. Emilio Mola gave the "fifth column" its name in 1936, when Franco's forces were approaching Madrid. "We have four columns marching on Madrid," he said, "and a fifth column within the city ready to rise when we reach the gates."

Three Visiting Gentlemen Learn a Lesson.

Hiding your money in your shoe's no good unless you keep the key to your hotel room.

That's the conclusion of three visiting business men who told police yesterday they learned about life in the big city from two blonde young women they met in front of a night club.

The young women are Miss Marge Howe, 27 years old, and Miss Le Claire Cotton, 30. The visiting business men are W. N. Pflug and John H. Friden, both of Hillside, N. J., and Edward Hegeler of Danville, Ill.

Invite Women to Room.

The young women were locked up after the business men told this story: They invited the young women up to the La Salle hotel room shared by Hegeler and Pflug Wednesday night. There were cocktails. When Friden decided to go back to his room at the Bismark hotel, he suggested that he take along for safekeeping all the surplus money Hegeler and Pflug had. His money and theirs made $250. He went to his hotel and hid it.

The rest went to a cocktail lounge at Randolph and Wells streets. Presently Miss Cotton went out to get some fresh air. Miss Howe went out to look for her. When the young women failed to return, Pflug and Hegeler went back to their room and discovered that Hegeler's $350 watch and Pflug's $50 one were gone.

Finds Shoe Is Empty.

They telephoned Friden. He reported some one had entered his room and that the money was gone. He suspected that a young woman who had the key had been there.

Detectives Harry Gleason and John Shine showed them a picture of Miss Howe. The visiting business men said they recognized her. The detectives took the visitors to her home at 2738 Pine Grove avenue, where they found watches the visitors said were theirs. Miss Howe said the other young woman was Miss Cotton. The detectives and visiting business men went to her apartment at 111 West Division street, where they found $215 they said had been in Friden's shoe.

Miss Marge Howe, also arrested, accompanied Miss Le Claire Cotton on party which resulted in the visitors losing their money.

LIE TEST BREAKS NERVE OF AGED WOMAN'S KILLER

Lie detector tests shattered his confidence and Charles Garcia, 30 years old, confessed yesterday to Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall police district that he beat Mrs. Johanna Shoberg, 88 years old, to death in her flat at 3262 North Clark street, last Wednesday.

Garcia is a laborer, but has had little work in recent months. He told O'Connell he had broken windows in Mrs. Shoberg's home several times. He also admitted several burglaries in the neighborhood.

O'Connell said Garcia's story indicated he had moronic tendencies. His police record showed that he had served three terms of a year each in the Bridewell, for robbery, larceny, and tampering with an automobile.

BRITISH OFFICER HERE FOR QUIZ ON SEAPLANE CRASH

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Vernon Brown, wing commander in Great Britain's royal air force, arrived in the Aquitania today to study the accident which befell the British Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier, Jan. 21, and cost three lives.

Representing the British secretary of state for air, Brown said he would study mainly the cause of the failure of the four engines when ice formed in the carburetors, with a view to preventing such accidents in the future. His inquiry will supplement an investigation by Capt. G. C. Pirie, air attaché of the British embassy.

The Aquitania struggled for three and a half hours against a flood tide and a down river wind before she was warped into her Hudson river pier by sixteen tugs.

JOB RACKETEER GETS YEAR IN JAIL FOR SWINDLING 32

Confronted in Felony court by thirty-two persons who had given him an average of $10 each on the promise of a job, Joseph Parson Jr., 815 Dakin street, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan sentenced him to serve one year in the Bridewell. Parson admitted to the court that he loitered in the vicinity of employment agencies and then offered to find jobs for the applicants for an advance fee. He was arrested Jan. 26 at Wells and Washington streets.

'MODEL COP' GETS ONE YEAR TO LIFE FOR $45 BURGLARY

Philip E. Reiman, who was known not long ago as Evanston's "model" policeman, pleaded guilty to a burglary charge before Judge William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court yesterday and was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary. Judge Lindsay, however, immediately entertained a motion to vacate the sentence and set a hearing on a motion for probation for next Friday. Reiman was taken to the county jail under $5,000 bond.

Philip E. Reiman.

Reiman admitted to the court that he looted the cash register of an Evanston sports shop of $45 on Jan. 21. Then he said: "I have two sons, and one of them got into trouble and I needed money. I took several drinks on my day off, then something cracked. I don't know why I did it." Numerous character witnesses testified for him.

Judge Lindsay said he would investigate the case personally before ruling on the motions to vacate sentence and for probation.

Wife Killer Dies of Poison in Chester State Hospital

Charles Doyle, who shot and killed his wife, Margaret, in their Chicago home in 1928, died yesterday in the state hospital at Chester of poison he took Jan. 11. Doyle, 74 years old, was found insane at the time of the murder and sent to the state hospital. In 1934 he was adjudged sane and released from the institution. At his request he was allowed to remain in the hospital as an employé.

REFUSES TO FREE N. U. STUDENT AS HE DEBATES FATE

While Municipal Judge James Corcoran of Evanston studies his case, Harry Elton Albright, 21 years old, former Northwestern university engineering student, must remain in the county jail. Albright was charged with the burglary of an Evanston tea room, but pleaded guilty to petty larceny yesterday after negotiations between the state's attorney's office and and university law department. A motion for probation was continued.

"Let him stay in jail two weeks," said Judge Corcoran, in refusing Albright his release on low bail. "I don't think society demands vengeance for this act, but I don't condone it." The judge asked for Albright's grades in the university as well as in the Liberty, Mo., high school where he graduated with honors. The youth stated he robbed the tea room for food because he was hungry. He had been forced to leave school because outside work cause him to fall behind in his studies.

U. S. Jury Finds 3 Guilty in Untaxed Liquor Case

A jury in Judge Charles E. Woodward's federal court found three men guilty of possession of untaxed alcohol last night. They are Frank Hodorowicz, 42 years old, of 11823 Michigan avenue; his brother, Peter Hodorowicz, 33, of 12410 State street, and their nephew, Clem Dowiat, 19, of 12410 State street. Sentencing was withheld pending disposition of motions for a new trial.

U. S. RESTS CASE AGAINST 34 ON WPA CHARGES

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The government abruptly rested its case in the WPA mass conspiracy trial late today and agreed to the dismissal charges against Fred G. Healy, former state WPA administrator and one of thirty-five defendants charged with playing politics with relief. The government has presented ninety-four witnesses who told of alleged political coercion and money tribute from WPA workers. The defense will open its case Monday.

The government's last witness, William S. Rundell, a former WPA supervisor, testified regarding conversations with Stanley W. P. Miller, son-in-law of Senator Dennis Chavez and a former assistant United States district attorney, and with Lot Gonzales, another defendant, concerning contributions from WPA workers to help Chavez's political organization.

HINES' ACCUSER KILLED SELF, 10 TESTIFY AT QUIZ

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Testimony of ten witnesses that George Weinberg, important state witness in the first policy racket trial of James J. Hines, died a suicide went unchallenged today at a departmental inquiry into the gangster's death conducted by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey.

The state prosecutor acted to settle the nature of the death after his political foe, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, said he assumed such an investigation was being made. Dewey replied that the assumption was correct and suicide had been incontrovertibly established.

Meantime the reading of testimony given by Weinberg in Hines' original trial continued in General Sessions court, where the veteran Tammany district leader is being tried a second time on charges of having sold political protection to the Dutch Schultz underworld mob.

DECIDES TO LIVE; FREED.

Anthony Grenko, 25 years old, of 3626 West 61st street, who tried to kill himself after a domestic quarrel on Jan. 30, told Judge George Weiss yesterday that he now wants to live. Disorderly conduct charges were dismissed.

County Building Kibitzer Returns to Game—and Jail

James Macek, 1914 South 49th court, Cicero, used to be a hanger-on in the County building, gratuitously advising taxpayers as to where they should pay their taxes. Two years ago he allegedly stole $43 in taxes from a citizen. For two years he stayed away from the County building. Yesterday he returned there for the first time. Sergt. John Kelly arrested him. "What a memory!" moaned Macek as he was held at the detective bureau last night.

Autobiography Keyed to World Scene of Today

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"Days of Our Years," by Pierre Van Paassen. [Hillman Curl, $3,50.] Published Monday.

This autobiography, chosen by the Book of the Month club, is not a record of the personal life of the author, but of his observations. Beginning with the Dutch Calvinistic town of Gorcum, Pierre Van Paassen knew and talked with men who had been in the Franco-Prussian war and who had been humiliated in the Boer war. Though trained for the ministry, he became a newspaper man in this country, later acting as foreign correspondent in France, Germany, Morocco, Palestine, Syria, Ethiopia, and Spain during critical times.

Pierre Van Paassen.

What he saw during "days of our years" from 1903 to 1938 were events affecting humanity, as individuals, not as cogs in any epochal movement. He says succinctly the world war was "a ditch four years wide cut across the lives of millions of men. In that ditch they crawled through mire and filth, physically and spiritually."

Threat of death, torture, and prison walls have not swayed Mr. Van Paassen's convictions that man's desperate lot must be improved. The revelation of world events which he witnessed produced one conclusion summed up in the old saying: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn."

The tempo of this autobiography changes during the progress of the book as though the impressions were recorded at great intervals. First quietly modest and philosophical, kindly and sincere, the narrative then turns to the sensational, and finally to an appraisal of events leading up to the Munich conference and a discussion of the conference itself.

Mr. Van Paassen forecasts the decline of civilization to a "new barbarism and slavery far blacker than old time Egypt" unless "the muzzled and propaganda-drugged peoples" awaken and ask the meaning of huge armament campaigns and "put an end to the monstrous imperialist game of guile, greed, and blood." With all its tremendous fund of opinion and often of startling information of world events, a kindly human quality is still uppermost in this book. It is the reflection of the inspiring intellectual integrity of a world citizen.

Edna Ferber's Own Story

"A Peculiar Treasure," by Edna Ferber. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.] Published yesterday.

Here is the success story of a small town girl who made good in the big world. Edna Ferber has written her own life story with the same heartiness, simplicity, and intelligence found in all her short stories and novels.

From her baby days in Kalamazoo, Mich., to her penthouse apartment on Park avenue she swings the reader along easily and jauntily, every page revealing her tremendous zest for life and her interest in all types of people and her great love—her writing. If you've wondered how an author goes about his work, read "A Peculiar Treasure" and see. You'll find that sheer inspiration and sheer drudgery are bout equally mixed!

Besides being an autobiography, this is a warm, human record of an American Jewish family. Grandfather and Grandmother Neumann and Julia and Jacob Ferber are described so vividly one can almost reach out and touch them. The unhappy years in Ottumwa, Ia., are contrasted with the pleasant ones in Appleton, Wis., where the author, her parents, and sister spent thirteen years.

The Milwaukee period, when Edna ran herself ragged working on a newspaper, the years in Chicago, early successes, and the fame that blossomed after the Emma McChesney stories lead up to the later years in New York and the amazing sales of "So Big" and "Show Boat." Both those books sold more than 300,000 copies and are still selling. The theater, too, added to the golden hoard.

There are glimpses of many celebrities: Winthrop Ames, Ethel Barrymore, Louis Bromfield, William Allen White, Charles Winniger, Alexander Woollcott, Noel Coward, Barrie, and others. There are European wanderings and joyous returns.

"A Peculiar Treasure" is an energetic, happy, tonic book, the diary of a busy life.

D. H. Lawrence Again

"A Poet and Two Painters," by Knud Merrild. [Viking, $3.50.] Published Monday.

There is never a last word to be said or written, apparently, about such enigmas as the Sphinx of Egypt and D. H. Lawrence. One is about as eternal a riddle as the other.

Since the death of the famous English author there have been dozens of accounts of his life and work, most of them highly emotional because written by intimates, and some of them highly colored, bitter, and cruel. Writers have even written about each other writing about Lawrence! Verbal brick bats have been hurled back and forth. And last year a novel, "Impassioned Pygmies," took up the saga, depicting Lawrence as a miserable weakling, driven nearly frantic by his satellites who gave him no peace, and who were all waiting, pen in hand, to write their version of his life the moment he died.

In the light of all this geyser-like spouting about the novelist and poet it is interesting to see that one person who knew him well can talk about him calmly and dispassionately and can, therefore, give the reader a candid camera picture that has some value—not great value, but some.

Knud Merrild, a Dane, and another Danish friend, spent a winter with D. H. and Frieda Lawrence high in the mountains of New Mexico. Mr. Merrild describes these snowy months, day by day, informally, simply, and frankly.

Distrusting his memory over a span of fifteen years, he quotes Lawrence from published works, for he says all their discussions, and all Lawrence's ideas are embodied in his writings. What these quotations lack in spontaneity they make up for in accuracy.

There is more than one mention of Mabel Dodge Luhan and her relations with Frieda and Lorenzo. Walter Ufer, the painter, and other residents of Taos also wander through the pages. Mr. Merrild's descriptions of the country in both winter and summer bring the whole scene before your eyes. Lawrence himself emerges as the paradox Mr. Merrild says he was—gentle and kind, cruel and high handed, loving his fellow men and hating their ways, temperamental, undependable, vacillating. Yet always appealing, arresting, stimulating.

Mr. Merrild values his friendship with Lawrence deeply and with the utmost sincerity. We think, on the other hand, Lawrence was pretty lucky, out of the welter of egoistic celebrities with whom he found himself, so often surrounded to have come upon just one person as genuine, kindly, and sympathetic as Knud Merrild.

Almost Forgotten 1918 Treaty and Its Significance Analyzed

"The Forgotten Peace," by John W. Wheeler-Bennett. [Morrow, $5.]

As timely as an interpretation of the Munich "peace" is John W. Wheeler-Bennett's masterful "The Forgotten Peace." Few Americans now recall the treaty at Brest-Litovsk in March, 1918, yet its implications are far reaching enough to affect our lives today. It was the predecessor of Versailles.

They met at the conference table—bolshevik Russia, desperately trying to consolidate a revolution; exhausted Austria-Hungary, her people starving and without hope, and blustering Germany, in the hands of the militarists, the puppet of Field Marshal von Ludendorff, Germany's real master.

For the first time the complete story of the armistice, the treaties, the personalities, perfidies, and strategy of Brest-Litovsk are revealed in detail. Wheeler-Bennett, basing his work on exhaustive research and personal conversations with the surviving principals, has turned out a fascinating chronicle. J. H. T.

Relics of Writing

"The World's Oldest Writings," by Henry James Reynolds. [The Antiquities corporation, $4.95.]

Henry James Reynolds has spent a lifetime of valuable service to his fellows—86 years, to be exact. Foremost are his years spent in medicine, but the past sixteen have been devoted to travel, research, and writing, and the product of those years is this book.

On the assumption that the writings of man are among the best indices to his character and development, Dr. Reynolds has collected information on all the known existing relics of man's literary urges. The clay writings and the stone carvings, the manuscripts and the papyrus, the pottery and the scratched rocks are discussed briefly and to the point. The book is universal in scope. Necessarily each item is given a brief discussion, but one thorough enough to inform the intelligent reader. It may well indeed be "the only authoritative digest of the whole subject under one cover." W. D.

Doctor's Problem Wife

"Doctor Norton's Wife," by Mildred Walker. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.] January choice of the Literary Guild.

Not so very cheering, but with that quality of compelling the reader from page to page, is Mildred Walker's novel about a sick woman, the formerly stout hearted wife of a doctor with whom she had had the nicest possible kind of companionship and with whhom she had shared twenty years of happiness.

Dr. Norton's wife, stricken with an incurable disease, becomes before the reader's very eyes suspicious, petulant, jealous, and tyrannical; makes her husband's life miserable and almost drives him into the arms of her younger sister who has come to watch over the house during her illness. Her disintegration is done convincingly, both psychologically and medically. The author is herself the wife of a doctor and she knows too much to resolve the knot by either her heroine's death or miraculous cure. The psychological resolution is logical and convincing—awakening both the husband and the wife and restoring their mutual confidence. F. B.

New Elmer Rice Play

"American Landscape," by Elmer Rice. [Coward McCann, $2.]

"The Best Short Plays of the Social Theater," edited by William Kozlenko. [Random House, $2.50.]

This three act play, now current on Broadway, reads well. It is the drama of a New England family founded on solid tradition and ideals of service, with the foundations now threatened by union difficulties and the desire of a Nazi organization to get its "homestead property for a camp.

The ghosts of ancestors and old friends—revolutionary and civil war heroes, Moll Flanders and Harriet Beecher Stowe—return to lend their voices for another try at keeping this family and its home the one fixed point in a changing world. Rising above vicissitude, the sons and daughters of the old folks decide to carry on the fight.

Ten plays are included in "The Best Short Plays of the Social Theater." The best, perhaps, are the first two: "Waiting for Lefty," by Clifford Odets, and "Bury the Dead," by Irwin Shaw. There is plenty of propaganda and much good dramatic theater. An effective contrast is obvious between the contents of this volume and Mr. Rice's play. S. M. K.

Jungle Night Episode

"You Can't Get Away by Running," by Whitman Chambers. [Doubleday-Doran, $2].

The author of "Thirteen Steps" has produced another of his tight little stories—and in the manner of Hemingway and James M. Cain. This time the locale is Mexico, where a strangely assorted party goes to an isolated state on the western coast south of Acapulco ostensibly to hunt deer. Actually the leader plans to murder Larry March, the narrator, who is a former suitor of his wife. Among the other characters is an aviator, a poetess, a broken down movie actress, a bibulous photographer, and a half-American, half-Mexican Negro—the cook for the outfit. All are actors in a wild jungle night episode which has enough climaxes for a dozen mysteries. P. W.

Another Doctor Book!

"Consultation Room," by Frederic Loomis. [Knopf, $2.50.]

Will there be no end to this laying down of the knife and taking up of the pen?

Dr. Frederic Loomis is an obstetrician, so, of course, his memoirs are full of babies. He writes in an informal, easy fashion and his book is as full of anecdotes as a rice pudding is full of raisins. This physician has an unfailing sense of humor. He has an eye for drama, too, as he tells of saving the life of a young woman and delivering her baby at sea.

Nothing weighty nor depressing in "Consultation Room." If you are one who gobbles up doctor books you'll want to read this. E. W.

South Is Theme in This Worthy Group of Books

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Their southern theme is responsible for the grouping of these volumes in a single review, but in purpose, locale, and style they differ vastly. They are of universal appeal and each is outstanding.

John Wilkes Booth

"The Man Who Killed Lincoln," by Philip Van Doren Stern. [Random house, $3.]

This portrait of John Wilkes Booth is important. Here for the first time the dramatic elements in the assassination of President Lincoln are given their true values. Mr. Stern sees the emotional, misguided Booth—whose act murdered all hope for the south—as the vital, active character in the tragedy. Lincoln's part was purely passive. There is no attempt to excuse Booth, only to analyze and explain his motives.

No fictionist could improve upon the high drama of the assassination scene and the events that followed. On the stage and off Booth was an actor and on the evening of April 14, 1865, he saw himself as playing his greatest rôle—that of deliverer and savior of the south. It was typical of him that he chose a theater for the deed itself.

And the fate that led him madly on was perversely considerate in the end by giving Booth the lurid glare of a burning barn to light up his last great scene.

The Race Problem

"After Freedom," by Hortense Powdermaker. [Viking, $3.]

Dr. Powdermaker discovers in her book what southerners have known for a long time: that both the whites and the Negroes are the victims of an unhappy situation in the south; that the whites don't know what to do about it, and that the Negroes wouldn't dare suggest a remedy even if they knew one. Dr. Powdermaker was able to have herself accepted by both the whites and the Negroes of a small Mississippi town and during the year she lived there she observed both races as an anthropologist would. [That is not strange, however. Dr. Powdermaker is an anthropologist.]

The conditions and attitudes she found will shock some northerners. Her study, as a whole, should make interesting reading for most any one. It is a distinct contribution to American sociology, but probably will have little effect in solving the problem of which she speaks.

The South Evaluated

"Segments of Southern Thought," by Edd Winfield Parks. [University of Georgia press, $3.]

The chapters by Edd Winfield Parks are brilliantly definitive of the south that was and is and point the way toward a south that is to be. They evaluate life and literature below the Mason and Dixon line and picture clearly some of those ancient forces that still are at work in the region.

Collection of these essays into a single volume was in the manner of an answer to President Roosevelt, who recently labeled the south our "No. 1 economic problem." Read with that in mind, the book is revealing. The chapters on Mark Twain and Sut Lovingood are of timely interest in Chicago because of Franklin J. Meine's current exhibition at Newberry library of southern frontier literature and humor.

James Joyce's New Book Completed After 16 Years

PARIS, Feb. 3.—(AP)—James Joyce, Irish author, after laboring 16 years, has finally completed his new book called "Finnegan's Wake." It is his first book since "Ulysses" caused a literary sensation in 1922. The new manuscript was shown to friends last night at a party in honor of the author's 57th birthday at the Paris home of his son, George Joyce. It deals with life in Joyce's native city, Dublin. When and where the book will be published was not made known.

"I Married a Nazi!"
The true story of a Chicago girl's experience in present-day Germany

"You are a trouble maker. You speak English and people think that I—a German—am a silly foreigner. Like all Americans, you are extravagant. You cannot cook, and you cannot keep house like a real frau."

Margaret Porter Reinke left Chicago to marry and live in Germany. Gradually, she saw her tolerant and charming husband turn into a Nazi fanatic—watched him come to despise America and all it represents—realized there was no place for her love in the creed of a Nazi.

Let her tell you in her own words of the suffering and heartbreak she experienced in trying to be a Nazi's wife. Be sure to read this true life story, beginning tomorrow in the Color Graphic section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

JAPAN IS DIVIDED ON HOW TO SHAPE ITS U. S. STAND

Many Believe China Need Become No Issue.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 3. — Japan's policy towards the United States is splitting the country into two camps.

One group, led by extreme rightists, holds the United States is indissolubly aligned with Great Britain, France, and soviet Russia against the so-called totalitarian states and must be regarded as Japan's foe.

Opposed are proponents of American-Japanese friendship. This group is gaining tremendous strength.

No U. S. Ambition Suspected.

Holding that the rôle of the United States in far eastern affairs is irreconcilable with that of Great Britain, soviet Russia and France, advocates of better relations with the United States say that while these countries have territorial possessions and political interests in the orient, the United States, having decided to leave the Philippines, has no territorial or political ambitions.

What the United States seeks in Asia is mainly trade. Japan and China not only welcome, but need American trade, it is stated.

Supporters of better relations with the United States stress that although this country is becoming totalitarian, this does not mean it is a foe of democracies. Japan has no intention of being involved in a free for all between the democracies and the totalitarian states. She is determined to stop any country which threatens her position as "the stabilizing force in East Asia," it is contended.

Europe Has Ax to Grind.

Japan welcomes third powers in the trade and economic development of China, it is pointed out, but insists that the old order, wherein the orient was under European control, has passed.

Proponents of friendship with the United States argue that while Americans will eventually recognize this act, Great Britain, soviet Russia, and France will not. These countries have one foot imbedded in oriental soil and are determined to stay, it is said.

It is widely believed here that the United States, through clever British maneuvering, is being made the catspaw of England in Asia.

The principal reason why the Japanese government is hesitating to adopt a pro-American stand is because it is uncertain whether such a policy would materially alter the stand of Washington. Should such a course fail, Tokio would have further alienated London, hurt the feelings of the totalitarian states, and made itself friendless.

The attitude of the masses towards the United States is one of uncertainty.

U. S. Ideas Adopted.

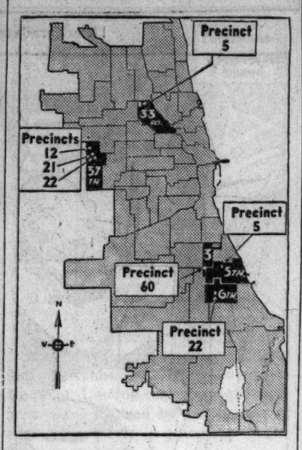
From tap dancing to mass production in factories, Japan is adopting American ideas and methods. The Japanese people like and get along better with Americans than with any other people. They also have highest respect for Americans.

The recent hostile attitude of the American government has mortified the masses here and they seem convinced the United States regards Japan as its enemy.

Son of Representative Killed by Hit-Run Driver

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—A hit and run driver today ran down and fatally injured Millard F. Caldwell III., 12 years old, whose father is a representative from Florida. The boy was struck soon after he left the home of his parents to take a bus.

Liquor Vote April 4



The seven precincts indicated in five wards (shown in black) will vote at city election on question of barring retail sale of alcoholic beverages.

Seven Chicago precincts will vote in the city election of April 4 on the question of barring the retail sale of alcoholic beverages. The deadline for filing local option petitions passed at 5 p. m. yesterday, according to City Clerk Peter J. Brady.

Petitions for the seven precincts were filed according to the precinct boundaries of 1932. They are: The 60th precinct of the 3d ward, 5th precinct of the 33d ward, 5th precinct of the 5th ward, 22d precinct of the 6th ward, 12th precinct of the 37th ward, 21st precinct of the 37th ward, and the 22d precinct of the 37th ward.

BIBLE STUDENT IS ARRAIGNED ON HIT-RUN CHARGE

David Boyd, a student at the Moody Bible institute, charged with leaving the scene of an accident, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Jay A. Schiller in the Safety court. Boyd's car injured Frank Finan, 53 years old, of 6233 Ingleside avenue, at Wells and Oak streets. Finan is in the Henrotin hospital and faces the possible loss of an eye. Boyd, who is 21 and lives at 153 Institute place, was arrested by police who traced him through his license number. In court yesterday Boyd told Judge Schiller that he became "panicky and drove on" after the accident. The case was continued to Feb. 21 to await the outcome of Finan's injuries.

3 Killed in Collision of Auto and Truck at Chenoa

Chenoa, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Three men were killed and a fourth was critically injured tonight in an automobile-truck collision on route 66, one and a half miles south of here. The dead were: Paul Trunk Sr., Carl Weymouth, driver of the car, and Nelson Francis, all of Chatsworth, Ill. The injured man was Claude Sea, also of Chatsworth.

Warn Motorists to Move Snowbound Cars by Today

Motorists who abandoned their cars along park boulevards and drives during the heavy snowstorm have until 4 p. m. today to move them. After that, Police Chief James A. Kerr of the Park district said yesterday, police tickets will be given those whose cars have not been taken away.

3 CRASHES IN DAY BRING STATE IRE DOWN ON 'L' LINE

Commerce Board Moves to Force Safeguards.

The Illinois commerce commission acted yesterday to force the elevated railway line to improve its cars, equipment, and structure to safeguard passengers.

It cited the company and its trustee, Col. A. A. Sprague, to show cause why the company should not be required to install an adequate system of block signals, substitute metal for wooden cars, repair existing structures, and take other steps necessary to safe operation. The company is required to answer on Feb. 15.

Action Follows 3 Wrecks.

The commission acted following investigations of three elevated wrecks during the snowstorm last Monday One person died as a result of injuries. Thirty-two others were hurt.

The citation charged the company with failure to carry out in full a safety program agreed on two years ago after a wreck at the Granville station, on the north side division, took eleven lives.

Representatives of the company had assured the commission that wooden cars would be reinforced with steel beams and that signal and safety devices would be installed, the citation said. The company carried out these assurances only in part, it was charged.

Inquiry Is Indicated.

A commission investigation and hearings, to determine what improvements may be necessary to make the properties safe, were indicated.

The commission found that the company operates regularly 1,420 cars, of which 456 are all steel, 528 steel underframed wooden cars, and 436 all wood. The citation pointed out that the North Shore and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroads operate high speed trains over some of the tracks of the elevated company.

PROPOSE $50,000 FUND FOR USE IN MINNESOTA QUIZ

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3.—(AP)—A public investigation of state departments by a ten man legislative committee empowered to hold open hearings and to correlate existing inquiries was assured today when threatened deadlock ended in compromise between senate and house conference groups: Under the proposal, $50,000 would be given the joint committee. Existing investigations by the state controler, attorney general, and the Ramsey county attorney would be "supervised and correlated."

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

TRUCK UPSETS; RIDER KILLED; DRIVER JAILED

Joseph Novak, 75 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when the truck on which he was riding overturned in Mundelein. He died in the Cordell Memorial hospital at Libertyville. Novak, a retired Chicago tailor, lived on Ellison road, Mundelein. The driver was Max Pytlak, who lives on Shady lane in Mundelein. He was locked up in the Lake county jail at Waukegan on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Joseph Tracy, 74 years old, 755 Buena avenue, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at Kenmore and Buena avenues. Alvin Kromer, 692 Irving Park boulevard, the driver, was questioned by the police.

Lester Buhr, 25 years old, a farmer of Grant Park, in Kankakee county, died last night in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, of injuries suffered Wednesday in a collision between his car and a cattle truck on the Dixie highway near Beecher in Will county.

Two persons were injured early yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding skidded against a street car at Belmont and Ravenswood avenues. They are Merle Schoben, 3544 Diversey avenue, the driver, and Miss Eva Hutula, 520 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park. Several passengers on the street car were shaken.

There were no automobile fatalities in Cook county for the twenty-four hour period ending at 4 p. m. yesterday. At that time 95 persons had been killed in the county since Jan. 1. Of these 77 were killed in Chicago, where 1,844 were injured in the same period.

Motorists Pay $2,311,114 in 1939 City Vehicle Fees

The city already has collected $2,311,114 this year in fees for vehicle licenses, records showed yesterday. This is slightly less than half of the total for all of 1938. If collections continue at the rate of the past month, officials said, there may be no necessity for a police drive on delinquent motorists.

Swans on New Diet.

February 3, 1939.

THE swans on the Tribune's Du Page county farm daily are registering approval of their new diet. The food they are getting every day is the same as that given to the big birds in the Brookfield zoo. It's a combination of several grains, including whole barley, millet, wheat, cracked corn, whole corn, and kaffir corn. In addition to these grains, the birds also receive greens in the form of lettuce and spinach. They are given a little raw meat occasionally, and plenty of oyster shell grit.

The flockmaster reports that the swans were a little hesitant about this new diet at first. They sort of picked over the different grains and didn't eat much of their ration. But now they gobble up everything given to them. In former years the big birds were fed celery tops. Now they prefer the lettuce.

Red Squill for Rats.

Sunflower seeds treated with red squill is being tested as a rat bait on the farm. More than 12 pounds of these seeds were mixed thoroughly with red squill and then placed in the farm buildings so the rodents could eat all they wanted. To trick the rats into thinking the sunflower seeds were all right we first baited the buildings with many pounds of seeds which had no squill on them. A few nights after the rodents had eaten most of this new treat, the poisoned sunflower seeds were distributed.

All the seeds were soaked in water first. Then while they were still wet red squill was sifted over them and they were ready to be fed to the rats.

This is the best time in the year for farmers to exterminate rats in their buildings. The animals may scatter widely during summer months when food is abundant and the weather is warm.

We have found on the experimental farm that the few rats that may survive the red squill routine during the cold months always leave the barns. Sometimes they will travel a long distance through the fields.

Easily Reached in Winter.

But when temperatures are low and there is snow on the ground these destructive farm pests hole up in buildings so the farmer has little difficulty in reaching them with red squill poison.

Their runs in the barns, the holes they dig, and their habits may be noticed easily and a generous supply of red squill baits can be placed where the animals are bound to find them and eat them.

REPUBLICAN PREPARATION IN 1939 FOR 1940.

If the primary law had not been nullified by interpretation in the spring of '38 to permit Republicans to vote in the Democratic primaries it wouldn't have been necessary for the legislature to pass a new law allowing them to return to their own party this year. To get them into the Democratic primaries last spring the primary law had to be stretched just a little bit, but it was so stretched and the Republicans who switched were left stranded in the Democratic party. The legislature obligingly opened the door to let them get back to Republican primaries this year if they want to.

These are Republicans who thought their civic duty required them to take advantage of the opportunity given them in 1938 to support one of the Democratic factions, thus abandoning their Republican affiliation. They have in Dwight Green a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor with whose record and character they can be entirely satisfied and to whose organization they may be proud to belong. By supporting him they again qualify themselves as Republican voters for purposes of nomination and party organization.

They will again become eligible to vote for delegates to the Republican national nominating convention. If they again vote Democratic they are again stranded. The Republican nomination for President, as political prospects shape themselves now, may represent one of the most important decisions the party has been called upon to make since the civil war. There are many uncertainties in both parties, but there is no doubt whatever that the Republican decision will be an answer, good or bad, to one of the most momentous questions the party has been called on to face.

The Republican who has allowed himself to be disqualified from taking part in his party's decision will have surrendered a privilege he should have safely guarded.

BUILD THEM IN THE MIDWEST.

All naval ships which can proceed to the ocean through the Welland canal, the New York Barge [Erie] canal, the Mississippi and its main tributaries ought to be built on these waters. They will not represent a large expenditure compared to the amounts spent upon the great ships or the main auxiliary fleets. But it is only fair, considering the profit that comes to the seaboard from naval maintenance, that some share of the expenditure be allotted to the midwest. There can be no objection on the ground of competence—for there is no better shipbuilding of its kind in the United States than is done on the lakes—and any of the types which are small enough to get to the sea by inland waters if assigned to midwestern builders would be of high grade.

The types, of course, would be the smallest in the navy. The St. Lawrence locks are restricted to craft of 250 feet length, 44 feet beam, and 14 feet draft. On the Erie canal there are certain restrictions of clearance. The Mississippi channel is limited to about 9 feet depth.

These limits would pass gunboats, patrol boats, submarine chasers, ocean going tugs, mine sweepers, and coast guard cruising cutters and special craft.

The total cost of these auxiliaries would amount to little compared to that of capital ships and the larger craft of the navy, but they can be built to the very highest standards in midwestern yards and will give some employment for skilled labor and for moderate investment in the midwest, which bears a heavy share of the national expenditure on naval defense. The midwest should be recognized as a participant in national defense, naval as well as military and aeronautic. The seaboard states, which have the more immediate interest and the more direct economic advantages from the naval establishment, can well afford to concede so small a share to midwest building.

FRAUD IN FEDERAL HOUSING.

The dishonesty back of the federal government's housing reform was disclosed, probably unconsciously, by R. A. Crane, counsel for the United States Housing authority, when he told the Milwaukee city council that any housing project under the Wagner-Steagall act would have to be free from local taxation.

Federal housing was conceived as an example to private investors of the possibility of providing better homes for the lower income groups. Even with the advantage of unlimited capital, mass buying, and wholesale construction, federal housing has been a colossal failure as a yardstick to private industry.

Where its projects have been completed huge capital costs have been written off. Tenants have been selected from income groups well able to pay private landlords. The tenants have been regimented and pauperized by requiring such local services as schools, fire and police protection, and sanitary care paid for by taxes of those not selected as tenants of the government.

As a correction for slum conditions it has accomplished nothing.

The current real estate tax in Milwaukee is $37.83 per thousand dollars of property valuation. On a small $6,000 home this means a tax load of $226.98 a year, a cost of $18.91 a month, that must be added to the rent of any privately built home whether occupied by the builder or leased for a profit.

A gross return of 6 per cent for the private builder would mean an additional $30 a month the hypothetical $6,000 home would have to return to the owner. If the federal authority is not figuring this overhead into its rent scale it is because the taxpayer will have to assume it.

If the federal tenant does not pay a local tax it means that his neighbor in a privately built home pays it for him, and, human nature being what it is, usually despises him.

Milwaukee offered to accept the terms of the federal authority if the government would frankly designate its projects as works of charity and pick its tenants from those unable to pay or to adjust its rents to the incomes of WPA workers.

The housing authority admitted the fraud in its program when it refused to consider those terms.

AN INJUSTICE EXPOSED.

Congressman Parsons of Illinois has again introduced a bill to authorize an increased flow in the Illinois waterway. In accordance with the Taft decree, the flow in the Chicago river has now been reduced to 1,500 cubic feet a second. Mr. Parsons' bill would permit 5,000 feet. This is, of course, much less than the 8,100 feet which is the average diversion for the last 30 years. Five thousand feet is the minimum for safe and efficient operation of the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

Mr. Parsons' bill was made the occasion for extensive hearings at the last session and if congressmen can be persuaded to read the record or any fair summary of it they can have little doubt about the fairness of the proposal. The selfish and ill-founded claims of those who are seeking to hamper the Illinois waterway were fully exposed.

Regardless of any action which congress may take at this session, the effort should be made to reopen the case before the Supreme court. Fortunately, the court has retained jurisdiction over the matter and accordingly it should not be too difficult to obtain a reëxamination of the merits of the controversy. The whole case against the diversion at Chicago was based upon the assumption that the lakes had been lowered permanently with consequent damage to shipping. In fact, as the government's records show, the level of the lakes has fluctuated in cycles and in recent years has been about as high as it was when the canal was opened.

Obviously the experts who testified as to the damage done by the canal were in error. There has been no such damage as was claimed and the decree based upon the assumption of damage is, therefore, grossly illogical.

Chief Justice Hughes is thoroughly familiar with the case. In the interval between his terms on the Supreme court he served as special master in hearing the testimony in the lake level case. Unfortunately Mr. Hughes' recommendations were largely disregarded by Mr. Taft when he wrote the decision. Subsequent events have proved that Mr. Taft, like many of the hired experts, was at least mistaken. The court should be asked to reopen the case to correct a false conclusion based upon a false premise.

A. F. OF L. SEES A NEW DEPRESSION COMING.

The number of unemployed at the beginning of the year is estimated by the American Federation of Labor at 10 million 380 thousand. In the six months' rise in business which got under way last July, 1 million 200 thousand employés won back their jobs, but the number unemployed did not go down by that much because meanwhile the number of job seekers had been increased by 250,000 due to graduations into the working population. The A. F. of L. is heartened by the reduction in the number out of work and is confident that there will be some further gains in job opportunities this year. But allowing for a stiff gain in business in 1939, the federation sees nothing in the industrial outlook which will reduce the number of unemployed below 9 million by the end of the year. The A. F. of L. believes that the increase in government spending has had much to do with the revival so far realized. It therefore concludes that since the government's spending, even at the peak now being attained, has failed to get private business to put men to work and produce goods to capacity, disaster faces the country next year when the present wave of government spending exhausts its stimulating effect.

The federation is convinced that a new depression will be faced next year, a depression in which the number of unemployed will start at 9 million, and end no one knows where. The labor organization has no enthusiasm for the alternative of a greatly increased armament program. "Excessive armaments lower living standards, and anyhow a government cannot forever go on piling deficit on deficit."

In 1933 the problem which confronted the country was to get out of the depression. An administration came into power promising to do just that. After that administration has been in office for a full four year term, and half of another term, the problem of getting out of the depression still confronts the country. The central labor organization fears that even such minor recovery as we have had will soon disappear. The experiments since 1933 have convinced this great employés' organization that the means which have been pursued will result in a greater failure in the future than in the past.

First the farmers became painfully aware of the failure of the Roosevelt measure to restore their pre-depression income. Now it is evident that leaders in organized labor understand that the New Deal cannot restore the jobs in industry.

To one group after another is is becoming clear that the administration which came to office with a mandate to recover us from hard times has actually been prolonging hard times. Our government has been in the hands of men interested in creating not jobs but a new social order.

Almost every move taken since 1933 has been an obstacle to the expansion of commerce. If the government will only get off the neck of business employment will come back over night. The bitter repression of private enterprise over the past six years and some foolish legislation in years preceding it have been the cause of the troubles from which we have suffered, and from which we shall suffer more unless congress takes it into its own hands to give relief.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Ret. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS RIDES A HOBBY.

Feb. 4.—Upon finding it is the fashion to go about the town collecting small articles of no value, such as match boxes, bars of soap, lumps of sugar, street car transfers, and Lord knows what, and to show these things with pride to friends, saying "This is the greatest collection of match boxes, etc., in the world," I did decide to get myself a hobby. I gave great thought to this matter, for I have been too busy in life to indulge in such amusements, and have never thought of collecting anything but coin of the realm, and only small amounts of that.

So I did say to myself, "It must be an expensive hobby to outdo my fellows and cause their mouths to gape with admiration and envy, and it must also be a pretty hobby, having a pleasing effect on the eye." In the end I did decide to collect the labels off bottles of rare foreign wines, these containing pictures of lions, unicorns, castles and whatnot and words in strange tongues. These will amuse me in old age, I thought, if they do not first slay me with gout; and maybe I can learn from them what auslese, spätlese, and feinstebeerenauslese mean in the High Dutch.

To collect the label, you place the bottle, after it has been emptied by one's self or otherwise, in a bucket of hot water and let it stay for ten minutes or so. Then the thing comes off easy enough, except on certain bottles of a Greek brandy, which seem to have been put on with cement. Dry between two blotters, smooth out, and then put in a scrap book and admire.

So if you see a strange solitary fellow in a tavern, commanding the waiter to bring him a cask of hot water, that will be Mr. Pepys, the well known collector of wine labels.

A SCHOLAR ENVIES NEW YORK.

(Horace, Odes: I, 29. "Icci, beatis nunc Arabum invides.")

Iccy, my boy, does your eye fill with envy
When reading of "Tiffany," "Broadway," or "Best's"?
The stock market stirs up a nostalgic frenzy?
You think you can fetter the market place pests?

What Ritz Tower damsel, her swain all outsmarted,
Will mix you your highballs with Scotch or with rye?
What Russian in exile, from affluence parted,
Will smooth off your top hat and hand you your tie?

Why, Iccy, I know that the river which muddies
New York would flow backward to Mohawk's green vales,
Before, for a moment, you'd run from your studies
And change cap and gown for a white tie and tails.

G. M. Murray.

(The Linemaster applauds this revival of the tradition of Horatian paraphrase in rime, and on comparing it with the Latin original finds it is a good job.)

Ice Cakes on Parade.

The flow reduction into the Chicago river from Lake Michigan has robbed the city of its annual procession of ice cakes.

Formerly, at this time of year, the frozen pageant was usually at its best. Ice chunks became battered and nicked into fantastic shapes; lacy fringes formed on their edges due to the rubbing and jostling of one cake against another; and some of them staged entertaining contests now and then, apparently fighting for first place in the line to the gulf.

We recall seeing a most amazing parade one Feb. 14. The ice cakes had developed unusually definite fringes because of a thaw and a light fall of snow. As they slid leisurely along, they looked like an array of huge candy valentines!

Lazy gulls apparently enjoyed riding the cakes, but that pleasure is denied them now. In places, the river is frozen from bank to bank, shutting off part of the birds' favorite feeding area and casting a dull, leaden silence over expanses that formerly were dynamic with motion and occasionally exciting as a hungry gray gull dived into the bottle green water.

Chicago has lost one of its most novel divertissements. The ice cakes no longer are on parade!

Newcomer.

BRIGHT ARDEN.

(On rereading "As You Like It.")

Bright Arden forest rings again with mirth
And blithe Orlando laughs whilst Jaques rails,
Whilst pungent Touchstone girds in words the earth,
And melancholy Jaques motley hails!

Time's seasons here are halted; there's but one,
A summer's life with happy days empearled
Where carelessly they fleet the time undone,
As they did, certes, in the golden world.

And I do laugh with them, and love them, too;
Sweet, womanly Rosalind, crowned in charm and youth;
Poor simple William, Audrey fain to woo;
Dear Celia, faithful as Naomi's Ruth.

Forever streams the sunshine's flowing gold,
And none in Arden ever shall grow old.

Arthur Harris Cronin.

Problem for Slang Analysts.

This dullard, a jest analyzer, is puzzled about the origin and meaning of the expression, "to lay an egg," which is now used ad nauseam to denote the recounting of stale jokes. The dullard knows nothing about the origin of the egg laying metaphor, but has theories regarding its meaning: [1] The telling of an aged joke is called "laying an egg," because the only one who cackles over it is the creature that "lays" it, or [2] because the joke resembles its predecessors as closely as one chicken egg resembles the millions that have preceded it, or [3] because it is not born of originality and spontaneity, but merely of habit. For days the dullard has brooded over this problem to the exclusion of virtually all other important matters. Indeed, he has now but strength enough to remark that the entire situation has long ago ceased to be a yolk. . . . Ralph Noel.

[Note by Linemaster: "To lay an egg" seems to have begun its career in theatrical slang. Perhaps the idea was that the show, by its badness, attracted an egg, or several, from the audience.]

Sometimes I wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea to give the out-of-work vaudeville jugglers a chance at balancing the budget. Shanty Al.

February is a famous month for birthdays. In addition to those we celebrate—Lincoln's and Washington's—it contains the natal days of Charles Dickens, Thomas A. Edison, Longfellow, and Lindbergh. CHARLES COLLINS.

A CLEAN MOUTH HELPS THE TEETH.

OTHER than the infirmities of old age—which we all must face at the proper time of life—we may look upon dental caries as our most inevitable disease. Every one is afflicted long before changes due to "length of days" appear upon the horizon. Because the condition is not attended with fatalities some are likely to regard it with indifference and proceed with remedial measures only after it has given rise to a good deal of suffering or when a crumbling molar has lost its power to function. If the difficulty presented an emergency like pneumonia or typhoid fever it would be attacked speedily and the patient surrounded with every means of saving life.

Curiously enough, about five per cent of the world's population is completely immune and much to our astonishment we learn that some of the finest teeth are found among savage tribes. However, when these natives become civilized with the adoption of a modern diet, their ivories decay promptly.

We can scarcely comprehend the amount of crippling that accompanies the malady—not only to the masticating machinery but in relation to general health. A weakness in the enamel permits bacteria to enter, travel to the pulp canal, and then invade the tissues about the root tip. Thus there is opened a pathway for the migration of germs to the blood stream. It is safe to state that if we could control this ailment the decrease in the incidence of joint trouble, kidney disease, blood vessel injury, and intestinal irritation would total more than fifty per cent.

Few of us realize how stealthy, yet vigorous, is the assault upon our chewing apparatus. Not only must it perform grinding operations under great pressure and withstand wide variations in temperature but it is exposed to all sorts of dissolving acids. Trouble never occurs on a clean surface, one that is persistently free from foreign substances. It comes about whenever food is allowed to decompose and break down into compounds sufficiently powerful to soften hard bone.

Strangely enough, it is not the foul, infected mouth that is alone responsible, although we can understand that a smooth area will provide but little lodgment for edibles. The chief factor seems to be the number and variety of bacteria within the mouth which can act upon food residues, transforming them into corroding chemicals. Regardless of the quantity of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D which we may imbibe—if these organisms are at hand—we will be forced to fight for good teeth.

Only by a well balanced diet can we establish a stronger systemic resistance to decay. But here we are faced with an anomalous situation. There are many examples of good teeth among undernourished children and bad ones among those who have had every advantage as far as nutriment is concerned.

In spite of much contradictory evidence we must admit that sugar, candies, and pastries accelerate acid formation and probably caries. All of which means that we may wisely lower the consumption of sweets on the part of children and advise that after eating the mouth shall be cleansed—rinsed thoroughly—followed by the use of a soft brush.

Few of us need quite so much starchy material as we consume ordinarily; in fact, the suggestion has been offered repeatedly that some reduction in the intake is desirable not alone because of the lessened strain upon the pancreas but because of the effect on oral hygiene.

We must not overlook the washing rôle of the saliva. Perhaps gum chewing may be of value after all. At any rate we must recall that the salivary glands obtain their secretions from the blood and if the circulating fluid is loaded with toxins or other deleterious substances such products will bathe the teeth.

ACQUIRING A TAN.

M. T. writes: In using the ultraviolet lamp my skin has a tendency to redden rather than brown. How can this be overcome?

REPLY.

Tan must be acquired gradually. If the skin remains red several hours after the exposure you are getting too much. Start with one-half minute and increase by 30 seconds daily until the exposure is twenty minutes. Of course, lamps vary in their intensity and ability to produce ultraviolet rays. Increasing the distance between the body and the lamp will also prevent burning.

SUBNORMAL TEMPERATURES.

G. H. writes:

1. What does a subnormal temperature in a middle aged person indicate?

2. How much fluctuation is there in a 24 hour period?

REPLY.

1. This may be of no significance. Temperatures are usually lower after a night's rest. A rise often indicates the response of the body to infection. During illness a subnormal temperature may be a bad sign.

2. Usually there is a variation of from 1 to 1½ degrees.

FROSTBITE.

H. P. C. writes: A friend of mine was frostbitten last winter. Now his feet are bothering him again. What can he do?

REPLY.

He must avoid long exposure to cold. Before going out he should rub into the skin a thin layer of oil. We have a leaflet on chilblains and frostbite which can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

DOES NO HARM

Mrs. W. writes: Is it advisable to give X-ray treatments to a 6 month old child with an enlarged thymus gland?

REPLY.

As a rule this is a wise procedure. At any rate—if expertly administered—it can do no harm.

4 PLUS.

E. S. writes: In a blood test what does 4 plus mean?

REPLY.

When syphilis is present the degree of reaction is represented by the plus sign—1 plus indicating a slight reaction, and 4 plus a considerable one.

FOOD FOR ELDERLY PERSONS.

T. T. writes: 1. Is oatmeal a good food for elderly persons? 2. May all types of fruit be included in the diet?

REPLY.

1. Excellent, in moderate helpings.

2. Yes, provided no irritation of the large bowel is present.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Great Britain will take a great stride toward the Fascist corporative state idea when the expected nationalization of transport takes place.

Already a lion's share of private enterprise operates under the direct or semi-direct control of the government. The present dilemma of the four great railway companies, the trucking companies and coastal shipping probably will be solved by the government stepping in to coördinate and then control them, economic observers believe.

With Britain preparing for war by coördinating all phases of agriculture, industry, transport and labor, such a step seems inevitable.

Already the commercial air lines have been consolidated into a public corporation similar to the British Broadcasting company. The government recently took a keen interest in the status of the merchant marine with a view to military needs.

Public marketing boards for agriculture have been in existence for some time, and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has indicated further action in this field as one of the aspects of his farm program.

The National Service Register, approved in the last session of parliament, will survey Britain's man power for both military and industrial uses. Opponents of the register fear this will lead to both civil and military conscription. They have formed the No-Conscription league to combat it.

The railways are waging a publicity war in an effort to ease laws affecting freight charges. They complain they are placed in unfair competition with trucks which are not so severely restricted by statutes.

The transport advisory committee has shown itself not averse to merging highway and rail services as well as the fusion of the big four railway corporations — London Northeastern, London Midland and Scottish, Southern and Great Western.

Coastwise shipping companies cannot be omitted from any such program, because they, too, are having financial troubles. There were 3,433 ships employing 24,000 officers and sailors in 1911. Today there are only 904 ships employing 10,000 officers and sailors.

Coastwise shipping has a strategic importance in war time. Congested ports are relieved, troops are transported and ships act as auxiliary naval vessels.

Eventually all forms of transport, rail, highway, water and air, will be welded into a huge public utility controled by the government. Such action on a small scale has been accomplished in London with the London Passenger Transport board.

Although the government has not nationalized the munitions plants and other industries vital in war, such as has occurred in many continental countries, its program in this field is pointed toward the same effect of complete control.

It has established an advisory council composed of interested munitions manufacturers to facilitate the rearmament program.

Recently Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, which issues the national currency, obtained control of a 40 million dollar sheet steel corporation.

Britain, whose economists so vigorously enunciated the theory of free trade, private enterprise and unfettered competition, is moving toward the pattern of the authoritarian states.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

GARNISHMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise what procedure of service of papers, etc., an employer should expect with reference to garnishment of an employé's salary to make same legal?

2. Just what legal value has a garnishment demand, this demand being signed by the plaintiff's attorney and having come to the employer through the regular mail?

3. There is no notarization on said demand, but [4] it shows a judgment number.

5. Is the present exemption for a married man $20 a week?

6. How long must an employer hold amounts in excess of $20 per week and [7] is he obliged to make contact with any one to arrange for payment of same, or [8] is he simply to hold these amounts until called for by the plaintiff? J. C.

1. The first step would be the service of a garnishee demand on the employer, but this would be improper unless the creditor has first obtained judgment against the debtor. After service of the notice the next step would be garnishment suit involving serving of summons on employer.

2. If such a notice is served before judgment is obtained against the employé, the attorney should be reported to the Bar association.

3. This is not customary on the copy with the person being served.

4. This implies that a judgment has been obtained. There is a chance of contesting on the method of service, but we see no other basis for contest.

5. Yes.

6. He should hold it in accordance with the wording of the printed form notice.

7. The next step will be for the creditor to start garnishment proceedings as above stated.

8. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ILLINOIS MARRIAGE ACT.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In what state is marriage between first cousins legal? C. E.

Under section 1 of the Illinois marriage act "Marriages . . . between cousins of the first degree [and closer relatives] are declared to be incestuous and void." Our Supreme court has held [281 Ill. 123] that such a marriage [presumably celebrated here] is not merely voidable, but void.

As to marriages celebrated elsewhere, the general rule [38 C. J. 1276] is that "The validity of a marriage is determined by the law of the place where it is contracted. . . . An exception to the general rule, however, is ordinarily made in the case of marriage repugnant to the public policy of the domicile of the parties, in respect of . . . incest." Cousin marriages being incestuous by statute would seem to come within the exceptions and be void.

While the issue of such marriages may be legitimate under section 18 of the marriage act, we advise that the parties make such provision by will, adoption, etc., as they would make if the marriage were invalid and the children illegitimate.

INCONSISTENCIES.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 30.—Not long ago the present administration wanted certain spy trials to be played up largely for political ends. It was found that the secrets these guilty spies peddled could be found in documents open to any one. Now an accident discloses that our chief executive and his henchmen abuse their office in disclosing military secrets to a foreign power that has an alliance with the soviet government. We are not at war and they are not our allies. Whither is our administration going?

Last fall our President sent a letter of congratulation to the soviet government on the first anniversary of its rise to power—a power that massacred twenty million Christians and closed more than 90 per cent of Russia's churches. In his message to congress he tried to arouse our people to a "holy" war for religion against the Fascist states. What hypocrisy!

L. CARLSON.

THE COST OF RED TAPE.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—At 9 a. m. today I telephoned to the elevated railroad at Wilson avenue and asked if there was any hope for work to shovel snow. I was told yes. When I got there I was rejected because I only had my social security card number. The elevated railroad company wanted to see my blue social security card itself.

I went to 173 West Madison street and got a duplicate card. I went back to Wilson avenue and waited for work until we were sent away without employment.

I have shoveled snow before. After a few hours of shoveling, your clothes get wet, so will the security card, making the same illegible. At 173 West Madison street, where social security cards are issued, I was told that your social security card number is sufficient.

UNSAFE SAFETY ISLANDS.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Now that the storm is over and the city is digging out, what about the cleaning off of the so-called safety islands? The plows and sweepers have helped to pile up the snow and slush. All we need is a good freeze to make them slippery; then one of these days a headline will appear in the paper telling of a man running to catch a car who slipped and lost a leg. Why not let the regular street sweepers start on clearing off these islands and make it safe for the public who must use the cars? WM. E. STOREY.

OF BIRDS, ETC.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—A little late to mention that in the flock of grackles seen in our yard the early part of October there was one with a white tail. Has any one else seen such a bird? Also we now have cardinals and titmice at our back door feeding box, along with blue jays and the other birds. The squirrels take the cake for being greedy, and I will have to arrange a box that they cannot get into, so the birds will get a better break. MAZIE H. BAKER.

AND CONTENTS NOTED.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 30.—I would like to thank the person who pasted a note on the windshield of my car, which was parked on Devon avenue near Western avenue. It is surprising that he could take the time to write such a friendly note just because I had my brakes on. For his information I would like to say that I have no desire to park my car in one spot and come back to find it half a block down the street, maybe even in the car tracks or in a store window, where he most likely would have pushed me and the other cars so that he could have Devon avenue to himself. I don't know who did it, but I do know it was no gentleman or lady who wrote the note. V. H.

GERMANY'S DEMOCRATIC EXPERIMENT.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 28.—If anybody stands up to defend Germany nowadays there are a half dozen to knock him down, as in the case of your correspondent, A. Korf Jr. It seems they don't know that Germany tried out democracy for over twenty years. The communists were too numerous, causing strikes and working against the success of democracy. The same thing will happen in this country if we allow the communists to get too powerful. W. S.

TO AVOID COLLISIONS.

Berwyn, Ill., Jan. 31.—If the elevated trains were equipped with windshield wipers surely many of these collisions could be avoided. We who drive our cars need wipers in rain or snow in order to avoid accidents. G. S. VRBA.

IT SEEMS PROBABLE.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Is the Max Schmeling who was reported in your paper of Jan. 15 to be under "protective arrest" in Berlin the same Max who was in Paris Jan. 27 and who is now en route here? CURIOUS.

RULES FOR HAPPY WEDDED LIFE LOSE BY A NOSE

Only One Slip from Grace; Divorce Granted.

If Carl A. Berg had broken only the commandments that had been laid down for him by his wife, Freda, all might have been forgiven. But he broke her nose also. She went straight to Judge Daniel Trude in Circuit court.

The commandments—eight of them—were issued when Mrs. Berg, who is 35 years old, agreed last April 5 to withdraw her suit for separate maintenance. Mr. Berg, 40 years old and a wholesale cheese dealer, said he would obey each and every one of them, as follows:

The Eight Commandments.

He would not [1] leave the house without his wife's permission [2] be gone longer than 30 minutes, even with her permission, [3] use the car unless she went along, [4] visit his mother without his wife's permission, [5] keep in his employ a certain truck driver Mrs. B. didn't like. [6] conduct his business from any site save the garage behind their home at 4806 Concord place, [7] continue his system of bookkeeping without instructing his wife in the mysteries thereof, and [8] attempt to exercise any control whatsoever over his bank account.

He obeyed all the commandments—for three weeks. Then on April 27 he fell from grace. He had permission to leave the house, but he dawdled too long over the bock beer of springtime.

Wallops Home a Point.

When he reached home much, much later Mrs. Berg was standing on the doorstep to receive his explanation. All she received was a smashing wallop on the nose, she told Judge Trude yesterday.

The judge rubbed his own nose reflectively. Then he said he would grant Mrs. Berg a divorce Monday. Berg agreed to pay $390 in lieu of alimony and to deed his wife their home at 4806 Concord place and other real estate.

Then Judge Trude had his say. He ordered Berg to pay $300 in "liquidated damages" to his wife for breaking her nose. This was said to set a precedent in divorce courts. Never before has a husband been compelled to pay damages for injury inflicted on his wife.

Slap Would Have Been Cheaper.

Judge Trude explained that the blow broke Mrs. Berg's nose and that she requires a surgical operation. Under the law no spouse can sue the other for damages, except when the injury occurs outside of the marital relation. But Berg struck his wife after their initial separation, and in addition, the court feels that it is his fault that the operation is necessary.

"The point is," said Judge Trude, "he didn't have to break her nose. He could have slapped her without additional expense."

Cousin of Viscount Allenby Missing from N.Y. Hospital

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Police were on the watch today for Miss Viviane E. Allenby, a third cousin of the late Viscount Allenby. She is a student nurse and has been missing since Jan. 18. She walked away from the nursing home of St. Luke's hospital after being reprimanded for studying late at night. She is the daughter of James E. Allenby, an industrial engineer of the Bronx. Viscount Allenby, British army commander, was one of England's war heroes.

SHOOTS AT TAVERN CEILING; FINED.

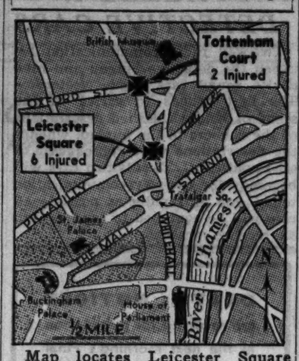
Bomb London Subway



Map locates Leicester Square and Tottenham Court subway stations in London, where eight persons were injured by explosions of time bombs left in suitcases in the luggage rooms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Ten thousand detectives and police were posted at vulnerable parts of London tonight waiting for the next move of the terrorists responsible for the bombing of two subway stations and the injuring of eight persons this morning. An all night guard was maintained at electric and gas plants, public utility stations, and transport centers. Extra precautions also were taken to guard the Bow Street police station and court following a telephoned threat to blow up the buildings.

The blast at the Leicester Square and Tottenham Court subway stations shattered windows and blew blocks of masonry from the walls of the luggage rooms where time bombs had been concealed in checked suitcases.

Late tonight an airplane parts factory at Slough, 15 miles from London, caught fire following a series of explosions.

Coincident with the renewed outrages, it was disclosed that Northern Ireland [Ulster] secret police had seized documents detailing a widespread terrorist plot allegedly fomented by the outlawed Irish Republican army group in Dublin.

Police tonight raided more than 100 houses in a hunt for the terrorists. Seven bombs were discovered in a house in north London and a caché of ammunition was found at Croydon.

BUDAPEST BOMB INJURES SCORE AT SYNAGOGUE

BUDAPEST, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Twenty persons were injured by a bomb explosion today in the courtyard of Dohany Street synagogue, Budapest's largest Jewish temple, where thousands of worshipers had gathered for evening services.

Nine of the victims were injured seriously, one probably fatally.

The bombers escaped, but police arrested six radical Fascist students.

The bomb was exploded as Premier Bela Imredi was offering a parliamentary committee amendments to liberalize a bill for stringent control of Hungarian Jews. He proposed to define a Jew so that a half-Jew, under complicated conditions, might be regarded as non-Jewish, and suggested elimination of a proposal to restrict the franchise of Jews.

DIVORCE JUDGE POINTS WAY TO WOMAN'S HEART

Absence nothing—it's money makes the heart grow fonder, Judge Philip J. Finnegan told Vito Freda yesterday.

Mrs. Rose Freda was demanding that Freda pay the $30 he owed in temporary alimony or go to jail. Freda, who is 55 years old, said he wanted to woo her back and wasn't going to pay until he'd told her he still loved her.

"Pay up," the judge told him. "The way to a woman's heart is through money." Freda, who lives at 2829 Orchard street, paid. The judge then ordered Mrs. Freda's attorney, Charles C. Cooley, to bring her back next Friday to give Freda a chance to do his wooing.

FOSTER HOMES FOR DELINQUENTS URGED BY JUDGE

St. Charles School Hit as Crime Breeding Spot.

Ninety per cent of the dependent and delinquent youngsters sent to the St. Charles School for Boys and the Geneva Home for Girls could be better supervised in foster homes under the care of local probation officers, Win G. Knoch, county judge of Du Page county, said yesterday. He made this assertion at a meeting of the Illinois County and Probate Judges' association in the Hotel Sherman.

Judge Win G. Knoch.

Other judges at the meeting have described the St. Charles school as a breeding spot for crime. They have urged that the institution be transformed back to its original purpose as a place for dependent boys. Many of its present 500 population are young thieves and hoodlums who are described as potential dangerous criminals.

300 in Home for Girls.

The Geneva Home for Girls has about 300 inmates. In 1934 a scandal resulted from the disclosure that some of the girls had escaped and been taken in by a vice ring.

"County judges throughout the state should have ample funds available for the care and placement of delinquent children outside of these two institutions," Judge Knoch said.

Judge Knoch and many of his colleagues expressed opposition to a proposal for legislation to set up state and federal aid for dependent children, who would be placed in the care of one of twelve specified relatives. The measure was advocated by Francis Scully, chairman of the child welfare committee of the Illinois department of the American Legion. It would require the state and counties to raise $6,000,000 a year, which would enable them to receive an additional $3,500,000 from the government.

Disapproves of Proposal.

"I disapprove the proposal," Judge Knoch said, "because it doesn't provide for the care of delinquent children placed in foster homes and institutions. These wards of the state are the real juvenile problem. The counties would have to raise part of the funds by an additional real estate tax, and pay it into the state treasury, yet the counties would have nothing to say about how the money is spent."

Justice Clyde E. Stone of the Illinois Supreme court spoke at a luncheon meeting. He said a free democracy has been preserved in this country solely through the independent position taken by the United States Supreme court in preventing the operation of unconstitutional laws.

G. A. DEVENEAU, FORMER ILLINOIS JOB EXPERT, DIES

George A. Deveneau, assistant director for the Panama canal, a former Chicagoan, died yesterday in the Gorgas hospital, Balboa, Canal Zone. Death occurred apparently from the shock of a kidney operation. Mr. Deveneau was 49 years old.

Mr. Deveneau had years of experience as a personnel director and a technical expert. He was appointed executive secretary of the Illinois state committee on unemployment in 1933. Later he was associated with the Public Works administration in Illinois. In March, 1935, he entered the canal service. He formerly lived in Flossmoor. He served on the school and community church boards there.

A native of Chicago, Mr. Deveneau was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1912. Later he served in the library division of the University of Illinois, and subsequent years with industrial houses as a technical expert. Surviving are his widow, Gertrude; three daughters, Phyllis, Marion, and Eleanor; a son, Nelson, and a brother, Willard of New Haven, Conn.

UNDULANT FEVER GERMS KILL ONE STUDENT; 21 ILL

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Michigan State college officials were trying tonight to locate the source of undulant fever germs which took the life of one student and caused the illness of 21 others and as many residents of East Lansing.

Dean Ward Giltner of the college's veterinary science division said the trail apparently led to a third floor laboratory in the building which houses the world's largest collection of cultures of the undulant fever micrococcus.

He added, though, that the trail ended there and did not seem to continue to the basement room where Dr. I. F. Huddleston, research professor in bacteriology, manufactures brucelin, a vaccine for the fever. The student who died was A. Arthur Goldberg, 22 years old, of Newark, N. J.

Attempt Washing Machine Theft; 1 Shot, 2 Captured

One man was shot and two were captured last night by River Forest police after they had allegedly tried to steal a washing machine from the basement at 7360 Lake street, River Forest. The wounded man escaped. Those arrested were Vincent Zaleski, 18 years old, 5200 South Lorel avenue, and Edward Janonis, 32, of 4851 South Justine street. Sergt. George Rausch and Policemen Walter Gray and Robert Carr interrupted the attempted theft. Carr fired at the man who eventually escaped. Blood stains in the snow indicated he had been wounded.

John Gunther, who is talking today at the Council of Foreign Relations, is having one of the dizziest lecture tours on record, sleeping on trains twenty-six nights out of the thirty-five days he is devoting to lecturing. And he is leaving for San Francisco via Kansas City, Cincinnati, and Cleveland. . . . Gunther's new book on Asia will be out in April. Famous Life Masks.

The story of the life masks of the founding fathers and other Americans famous in history, which were boxed up for years in a Highland Park, Ill., attic, is out in a small brochure called The Mask of Fame, by James O'Donnell Bennett and Everett L. Millard. The masks themselves have been removed to a locked room in the Rosenwald museum. Everett Millard, great-great-great-grandson of John Browere, who made the masks, is seeking a permanent home for them, since Chicago will give them none.

"Nearly smothered Mr. Jefferson, that's what he did, with his plaster and his secret process. . . . The family ought never to have let him into Monticello. Taking a life mask of a man 82 years old . . ." So ran excited gossip in the streets and taverns of Charlottesville after Browere had taken a life mask of the third President of the United States, according to the first page of the little book. Photographs of the life masks of Jefferson, Madison, Lafayette, John Adams, De Witt Clinton, Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Johny Quincy Adams, Dolly Madison, Henry Clay, Martin Van Buren, and others are in the book. Browere once hoped for a national gallery. His great-great-grandson would have liked the masks kept in Chicago, but hopes they may some day find a permanent place in a government building or in a great university.

Louise Brydon to Be Bride of Charles Coffin

BY JUDITH CASS.

A ROMANCE that had its beginnings in the annual Service club revue last fall is revealed today with the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. John Crosby Brydon of the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to Charles Howells Coffin Jr., son of Mrs. Charles Howells Coffin and the late Mr. Coffin of Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Brydon, who moved here from Baltimore several years ago, are giving a family dinner tonight to celebrate the engagement. The wedding will take place this month.

Miss Brydon has become especially well known in hunting and horse-show circles since she came to Chicago. She is a member of the Du Page hunt and rides in almost every horse show in Chicagoland. A graduate of Rosemary hall in Greenwich, Conn., Miss Brydon made her debut at the Bachelors' cotilion in Baltimore in 1931. She had another debut in Pittsburgh that winter. Besides her activities in the Service club, she is a member of the Chicago Junior league and of the junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital.

Mr. Coffin, a graduate of the University of Illinois, is a fourth generation Chicagoan, and, like his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather, who was Charles Fisher Coffin, is in the investment banking business. He has a brother, Robert, who is at Yale, and a sister, Miss Irene Coffin.

Picture Auction to Pay for Party.

An exhibition and auction of paintings by Chicago artists next Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Shepard in Burton place is the signal for a gay party rather than a serious meeting of art collectors.

Some of the Shepards' artist friends and Mrs. Shepard, who paints under her maiden name, Eleanor de Laittre, will meet in the afternoon to paint the pictures that will be auctioned during the evening.

The Shepards gave a similar party last year and found that the proceeds from the auction met the expenses of the entertainment, making the affair rather a Dutch treat one. Edgar Miller, Taylor Poore, and Joseph Seher are soom who will contribute to the Shepards' "gallery" of next Saturday.

The Donald F. McPhersons are entertaining at luncheon tomorrow for Mrs. Henry G. Boston of England who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Granger Farwell, in Lake Forest.

Mrs. George R. Nichols' dinner guests tonight are looking forward to chatting with Cornelia Otis Skinner later in the evening. Miss Skinner has been invited to join the party after her closing performance in "Candida" at the Grand Opera house.

The George Lills are entertaining from 5 until 7 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at cocktails at the Racquet club.

Guests at the Tavern club tomorrow will see a program of folk songs and dances to be given by a group of Polish entertainers from the Tatra mountains. The entertainers will be the special guests at the breakfast-luncheon. They are here under the auspices of the Kosciusko Educational foundation.

Children who skate at the Winter club in Lake Forest hope that the cold weather will last for the annual skating carnival at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Many Chicagoans Go to Sun Valley.

Though Chicago is having its share of snow Sun Valley, Idaho, continues to attract sports enthusiasts. Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Miss Ethel Johnston, and Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Scudder left on the same train Wednesday for the resort. They will be away for about two weeks.

Miss Ruth Brown, Miss Peggy Hixon, Donald R. McLennan Jr., and Irving Peck are leaving next Friday to join Miss Johnston at Sun Valley. Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins left last Saturday for Sun Valley, with plans to go on to Ojai Valley, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift are planning to go to Idaho later this month.

Miss Lucy Harrison returned last week with a broken leg. Her skiing accident will limit her activities for the rest of the winter.

Miss Hixon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hixon of Lake Forest, recently purchased a farm near Brattleboro, Vt., which they are doing over and furnishing with early American furniture. They hope to spend a part of Good Morning!

Timely, topical. Highly intelligent adult fare, and, withal, sparkling entertainment that never gets too highbrow for the masses, is this screen adaptation of Robert E. Sherwood's play.

At a time when the whole world is war conscious, and nations are regarding one another with the dour, suspicious eyes of strange bulldogs in adjacent yards, it was no sinecure to turn out a picture whose subject matter might easily give offense. But "Idiot's Delight" has emerged, saying its say and making nobody mad.

The action starts upon the conclusion of the recent war that was to make the world safe for democracy, and ends with the dreaded outburst of another war, the rumblings of which have formed a deep, ominous accompaniment to a love story that develops in amusing, tragic, and surprising fashion.

The hero, Harry, is a soldier—once an actor—who, the war over, turns his talents to anything that will bring him bread. . . . He hoofs. He "barks" for a patent medicine show, he is stooge for the gin sodden mind reader, Mme. Zuleika. . . . While acting in the last capacity he meets Irene, an unpredictable girl, who adores him slavishly, and who intrigues him with her remarkable stories of a hectic past. . . . She is, among other things—she says—an escaped Russian noblewoman. . . . What she wants is to form a stage alliance with Harry. . . .

But this is not to be. . . . The two separate. . . . Years later they are to meet again at a hotel just across the Swiss border. . . . And now Harry is traveling with "Les Blondes," a sort of Floradora sextet, and Irene is a phoney countess, companion to a wealthy and mighty munitions man, Achille Weber, whose activities are largely responsible for the advancing war. . . . Irene, now the last word in synthetic hauteur, pretends never to have laid eyes on Harry before—but HE KNOWS. . . .

Deserted by her paramour, Irene finds herself alone at last with Harry—who has sent his blondes on ahead—in a forsaken hostelry. . . . The two find happiness in crashing tumult that descends about their ears. . . . They discover that, in a world run by idiots, they are the only sane people.

I didn't see Lynne Fontanne in the play, but I can't believe she topped Norma Shearer's performance, which is a subtle and compelling one.

Clark Gable proved himself a master comedian in "It Happened One Night," and in "Idiot's Delight" he again wins your applause through the raciness of his repartee, the suavity of his pantomime, and his swift, sure "feel" for the requirements of a demanding rôle.

Fine contributory work from an A1 cast.

Sets, scenery, photography—and Miss Shearer's gowns!—are something to set the eyes popping, and I personally give thanks to Director Clarence Brown for evolving one of the most beautifully rounded movies that I have ever beheld.

See you tomorrow.

Green Is Best Bet for Spring Fashion Color

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The town is full of previews of spring fashions that tempt the unwary and fashion shows add to the pressure for something new for the clothes collections.

If there ever were any doubts as to the fashion success of green and shades of yellow, green, and gold, these doubts have vanished. Almost everything you see that's especially tempting comes in green.

Some of the best looking daytime dresses, made with exquisite detail in handwork, tucks, ruching, clever draping and shirring, come in enough varying shades of green to please the most demanding shopper. Clever green suits, the very thing to wear under dark winter coats, come with easily flared skirts and form fitted jackets. The jackets are cut with high necklines, so high that the skirt and jacket give the impression of a perfectly cut two piece dress. Tender leaf green, cypress green, and mixtures of green come in soft, spongy textures, as well as the smoother suedelike or flannel weaves.

Green blouses of linen novelty materials, crisp taffetas in plaid green color schemes, crêpe, and combinations of satin and dull crêpe are especially good for the copper brown suits and the smart dull black suits, providing the necessary gay bit of color is added.

Green gloves, bags, hats, belts, flowers, and handkerchiefs are the most plentiful in years. Kidskin and doeskin together with stunning soft fabric gloves all go green in practically every tint or shade. Felt hats, crêpe turbans, trick knitted hats, and those made of rough silks and beautiful suede all can be found in green.

Museum Tours.

"Coal and Oils," at 3 o'clock on Monday, will be the subject of the first of next week's guide lecture tours in the Field museum. On other days at the same hour the tour subjects will be: Tuesday, "Plants with Curious Habits"; Wednesday, "Burial Customs"; Thursday, a general tour, and Friday, "Animal Families."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Real brain waves that actually do produce something new under the sun are surprisingly scarce. But this week we had the exhilarating experience of stumbling across something the exact like of which we'd never seen before.

It's a deodorant cologne for winter use. The most exciting feature of it is its invigorating quality. The skin actually tingles and feels warm as well as refreshed after it is rubbed on. What produces this warm tingle we can't say because we can't be certain but we have an idea that there is a little menthol lurking somewhere in its fragrant composition. It tones and warms the skin—and that's a new feature for cologne. It should be perfectly wonderful for people who are ill, especially those with a circulatory disturbance that makes them feel cold all the time. As a matter of fact it's pretty wonderful for any one these cold days. After a rubdown with it you have a most comfortable, glowing sensation.

All good colognes have some merit as a deodorant but it's claimed for this winter cologne that this feature is present in a superlative degree. There are three fragrances, a pine, a heather bouquet, and a floral blend. The pine is an elegant version—and that, from us, is high praise. We can easily skip most pines. The heathery bouquet is just right for our personal tastes.

These are inexpensive as can be, but of ideal quality. The package is a triumph. Very simple, but smart, with a hand decorated design distinctly suggestive of ski slopes and the winter activities that bring roses to the cheeks of pale faces.

Bar Association to Hear Attorney General Cassidy

John E. Cassidy, attorney general of Illinois, will speak on the work of the attorney general at the luncheon meeting of the Chicago Bar association, 29 South La Salle street, at 1 o'clock today.

Two Weddings to Take Place in City Today

Three weddings of interest are taking place today, two in Chicago and one in New York. Miss Joan Ford and Harger Rollo are being married at 4:30 o'clock in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church, with the Rev. Dudley S. Stark officiating.

Miss Elinor Griffenhagen and David B. Truman will be married at 7:30 o'clock in the John Timothy Stone chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church. The marriage of Miss Rosemary Sauer and Trevor A. Cushman Jr. will take place at 8:30 o'clock at the Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York.

Only relatives and close friends will attend the Rollo-Ford ceremony and a reception will follow at the home of the bride's father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Ford. For something old the bride will wear a lace wedding veil that belonged to her late mother, the former Florence Brigham.

Miss Eleonore Thompson will be Miss Ford's only attendant. Gregg Cummings will be best man for Mr. Rollo, who is the son of Mrs. J. Clarke Dean and Van Schaick Rollo. The ushers will be Robert Wolff, Charles Ford, a brother of the bride; Ernest Eversz, Homer L. Dixon Jr., Ernest Byfield Jr., and Ralph W. Applegate. After a short wedding trip Mr. Rollo and his bride will be at home in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Griffenhagen will wear the veil her sister, Mrs. Newton Du Puy, wore for her wedding last spring. Only members of the two families and a few friends will witness the ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson. A reception will follow at 8:30 o'clock at the Elm street home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Griffenhagen.

Mrs. Du Puy will be her sister's only attendant and Claxton Howard will be best man. Raymond Griffenhagen, the bride's cousin, and John Truman, the bridegroom's brother, will usher. After a short wedding trip south, Mr. Truman and his bride will be at home on the south side. Mr. Truman is the son of Mrs. Malcolm G. Truman of Evanston.

Capt. Edward A. Duff, chief of naval chaplains, will officiate at the wedding of Miss Sauer and Mr. Cushman. A reception will follow. William E. Sauer will give his sister in marriage.

Miss Jule Cavanagh will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Jane Brummel and Miss Jean Kellogg of Chicago, and Miss Barbara Bentley and Miss Josephine Cullen, who are at school in the east.

Mr. Cushman and his bride will spend several days in New York before going to Binghamton, N. Y., where he is engaged in business.

Miss Sauer is the daughter of Mrs. William A. Sauer of Chicago. Mr. Cushman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor A. Cushman of Melrose, Mass.

Extra Sweater for Wardrobe Is in Eyelet Design

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Whether you take a winter or summer vacation now is the time to start knitting that extra sweater that comes in so handy when you are casting about for a change of sweater scenery. This garment is a simply knitted string sweater with an interesting and not difficult eyelet pattern. Chalk or suede finishes are popular this year, and knitted in either material, this sweater is bound to "ring the bell."

For knitting the sweater in the eyelet design, No. X-192, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Embroidery Materials Requested.

Mrs. B., who lives in a small town outside of Chicago, is anxious to obtain odds and ends of stamped embroidery work and thread. As a result of illness, she is weak and unable to walk well, and her physician has warned her that it will be some time before she can be active again.

Her husband is working, but debts accumulated during her illness and a temporary lay-off for him must be met, and they have little money for extras. She will be glad to pay postage on packages mailed to her.

Romance Fails This Sensitive Boy in 'Teens

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright, 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Vincent has fallen victim to a young woman of rare charm and beauty, who returns the compliment by telling the young man he bores her. It was only a few months ago he laid eyes on the fair one for the first time. There followed an interval of companionship which had poor Vincent in a dither of hopes and dreams.

Vincent hasn't a cent to spend. His small savings went during that perfect interval. His dad won't finance his romantic venture further.

His real problem is that his dad is trying to persuade him off to college so as to make something of himself. Vincent thinks he will lose out forever if he goes. He did talk to his parents about his heart dilemma. They told him to stop acting so foolish and forget that he'd ever seen the girl. The parental advice hurt, Vincent tells, but he knows that they meant all right. "I fully understand why they made such a statement," Vincent confides. "Of course, they are old and can't put themselves in the place of an 18 year old man."

We must interrupt Vincent here to advise him that the parents of an 18 year old man are a long way from being ready for the old folks' home. That parents are fairly uncanny in their understanding of youth's first romances.

Having been through them themselves, and their memories not being appreciably impaired, it is just surprising how they can size up a situation, Vincent.

They see that the girl is disinterested, which may be no reflection on you whatever, Vincent. So, why don't you just take yourself off to school and forget her for the time being?

GASOLINE ALLEY—NO CAN DO

Young Pianist Successful in a Hard Program

Herbert Donaldson, a pianist not yet 21, played a program of extraordinary difficulty in Kimball hall last night. It comprised a Bach Prelude and Fugue, Beethoven's "Appassionata" Sonata, three ticklish Debussy pieces, and no less than fourteen Chopin Etudes.

A listener who jumped to the conclusion that no inexperienced boy could play such a program and get away with it would be about 70 per cent wrong on the basis of last evening's performance. Mr. Donaldson got away with two movements of the sonata. He gave the first great depth and sonority and an insistent, exciting air of passion and direction. The second was glorified by meaningful tonal effects and sometimes by a fluent legato.

He got away with many of the Etudes, particularly the G flat major from Opus 25 [which was quite intoxicating in its lightness and verve and in the exquisite rubato of its ending] and the E flat major from the other set [whose skylike serenity was beautifully realized].

The Debussy group and the last movement of the sonata lacked the necessary sense of utter ease, the feeling that technical difficulties do not exist and that the performer is simply communicating the music's meaning to his listeners. Sometimes mechanical problems were solved by slowing the tempo to an unreasonable level, as in the C major Etude. The E major Etude was spoiled by extremely erratic tempi and by the lack of the calm, songlike line which its first and last sections demand.

The Housewife

There's a new gadget for your kitchen water faucet which will interest you. It's a small, neat contrivance which you put on the end of the faucet and which is so made that the water flows through an aerator. That is, vents on the side let in air which is mixed with the water. Then the water goes through fine mesh screens which remove sediment. The water comes out clean, with absolutely no splashing, and oxygenated.

These hundreds of tiny air bubbles are an aid to quick lathering of soap, the makers claim. Soap suds are made more rapidly and with less soap. And drinking water is made more pleasant.

No chemical or gases are used in this faucet appliance. There is nothing to repair or replace. And it's inexpensive.

EDITH WEIGLE.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. When Matilda finds him there she fires the nurse. Charles and Mary are to be married next morning. Detective Clancy appears after the wedding, just as word comes that old Pete has died.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

GUN-PLAY THREATENED.

Charles had turned away before the next car drove up. I had to do the honors. In it were Josephine and Sheriff Tom Johnson.

Josephine spoke first. "Mr. Johnson is taking me to the Harvey hotel in Clovis. I'll be waiting for you there, John, until after the funeral and——"

"Say, wait a minute," interrupted Clancy. "We gotta go with you, sheriff."

"Ain't got room for yuh in this coop o' mine," declared Tom. "Besides I don't see how John can leave now with his father just dead."

"I think I can arrange things with Mr. Clancy," I said. To the detective I explained. "There are plenty of extra cars here at the ranch. We can get one any time." To Josephine with my hand out I said, "Believe it or not I hate to see you go. You've been a lot of sane help in a very confused situation."

She looked at my hand as she took it. "Thanks for the compliment. You're the kind of a man I wish I'd met sooner." She gave my fingers a friendly squeeze. "Remember what I said about watching your step."

"I think you're mistaken about the necessity for that."

"Yeah? You like to have your villains snarl and hiss, to you, so there's no chance of getting 'em mixed with the heroes? Well, all I can say is 'Look out.' The other kind is more dangerous. And put this in your hat, Sir Galahad, I'll be back in a hurry if you need me."

I grinned at her, but appreciatively. "I believe you mean it."

"Of course I do. I've fallen for you more than a strictly business woman should. So yell if I can help."

"Yuh might need me, too," Tom offered. "Telephone the sheriff's office and I'll be right over—with a posse if yuh say so."

"That will scarcely be necessary," I told him. I was wrong, but I couldn't know it then. "Thanks just the same, and goodby to both of you—my only friends around here, I guess—unless I count Clancy."

They drove away. I turned back from looking after them. "Well, how about it, Clancy? Will you play ball with me—just for a little while?"

"You know I can't, Mr. Bowman—or whatever the name is you go by around here. I kinda like you, too, and it looks to me like you was in a funny spot, but I'm just a dumb cop, so dumb that I'm even honest. It wouldn't do no good to offer me coin."

"I wasn't thinking of that," I said abstractedly. "I was going to appeal to your better nature."

"You'd be wastin' your time. I ain't got one. I got a duty to perform and I'm damned if I ain't goin' to do it no matter what happens."

I sighed, not with resignation but because I knew I'd have to find some other way to make Clancy change his mind. That had to be done—I couldn't leave Mary alone there.

The last few cars of departing guests were leaving. Six or seven of the ranch cow-hands with their foreman, whom Charles called Jim, at their head were watching them off the premises.

One of the men, at an order from the boss, rode over to us.

"The ranch gates will be closin' in thirty minutes," he said.

"Well, what of it?" I asked, still thinking of other things.

"This man doesn't belong here," he pointed to Clancy, "and he'll have to leave."

Clancy was looking at the mounted man sharply. Finally he said: "Hello, Tony, I been wonderin' where you was coolin' off."

"Do you know this cowboy?" I asked surprised.

"Cowboy?" Clancy laughed. "Sure, I know him. Meet Tony, the Clam, trigger man for the Marchetti gang in Chicago. And there's his partner T-Bone Hanson in that outfit over there."

"Can the chatter, copper, and get t'hell out o' here."

"Or what?"

"I'll make you."

"All right, commence."

"Wait a minute," I was saying.

But Tony had no intention of tackling the job alone. He signaled to the others who had been watching from a short distance and they came up.

"What's the trouble?" the foreman asked.

"This mug won't leave."

"I'm sorry, mister," said the foreman, "but you'll have to go. Them's our orders."

"Whose orders?" I asked.

"Mr. Ferdinand's."

"I'm changing the orders, then."

"You'll have to see Mr. Ferdinand first."

"I said I was changing the orders."

"Not to me you ain't. I'm workin' for Ferdinand and——"

I didn't like the way he said it. And I suddenly realized that he was sneering at me. That meant that he had been deliberately instructed to disobey me if a question of authority arose.

That's why I didn't let him finish his speech. That and because I was born Irish.

I'm a pretty tall man and I was able to reach high enough to yank him from his horse. It is only fair to say that Jim wasn't expecting that kind of trouble or I probably could not have done it.

He lit on his feet and reached for a gun. But he wasn't quick enough. I let him have all the force of a fist right on his chin. He fell backward against his own horse which reared and plunged a couple of times and then ran away.

Jim still had the gun in his hand, but I kicked that clear across the patio.

There was a movement among the other horsemen but it stopped.

Clancy was speaking. "Keep your hands in sight, you mugs. I can shoot faster than anybody else here."

That might have been an idle boast, but the Chicago detective undoubtedly had a police service revolver in his hand and he acted as if he intended to use it. At any rate no one questioned his statement.

"Thanks, Clancy," I said out of the corner of my mouth.

"It's a pleasure, Mr. Bowman."

Charles came out just then. He laughed when he saw his foreman lying on the ground.

"Put up your gun, Mr. Clancy," Charles advised, and then to Jim, who was getting up sullenly: "Take your men to the bunkhouse. This is a little out of your line. I'll talk to you about it later."

As they all went away, including the foreman on foot, Charles looked after them. "Stupid damn fools."

I wondered if he called them that for letting two men get the best of them, but I didn't ask.

He continued muttering, "I'll fire the lot of them tonight if you say so, John."

"No," I answered decisively. Perhaps I had acted too hastily. "We'll let everything ride as it is until after the funeral."

I think Clancy regarded me with a new respect as we started toward the ranchhouse. I know I had a very high opinion of his bravery in standing off half a dozen armed men and thus, incidentally, saving me from, at the very least, an ignominious mauling.

Readers Send English Suet Pudding Recipe

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I didn't expect such generous response to my recent request for a genuine old English nonsweet suet pudding recipe. A dozen readers have sent in their formulas, some of which have been in their families for years. What surprises me is that the recipes are almost all alike, calling for flour, suet, baking powder, salt, and cold water.

All of these recipes are going into our files, and each contributor will receive a personal letter of thanks. My request was made because a reader had asked for this recipe and we hadn't it in our files.

Here's the recipe which came out of the hat when we drew lots to see which of them would get into print:

Suet Pudding.

12 ounces flour [about three cups]
6 ounces finely chopped suet
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Cold water to mix

Mix flour, suet, baking powder, and salt together and add water gradually until a rather stiff paste is formed. Shape into a roll or ball and wrap it in a pudding cloth previously scalded and well dredged with flour. Tie firmly. Place in boiling water and cook about 2¼ hours. Serve with jam, treacle, stewed fruit, or, if preferred, good gravy. Sufficient for six or seven persons.

Another recipe called "Kentish suet pudding" calls for an egg as levening instead of baking powder. One of the contributors emphasizes the importance of leaving room for expansion when the pudding is tied into the cloth. Of course, there will be some swelling.

This note was appended to the recipe which a Chicago reader found in her old English cookbook: "When there is a large family of children it is a most economical plan to serve up the pudding before the meat as, in this case, the consumption of the latter article will be much smaller than it otherwise would be."

And we've received a number of contributions of English pork pie recipes this week, too, many of them very different from the one we published last week. To the donors, our thanks. These, too, will go into our files of English "family recipes."

Nearing her eightieth birthday, and long out of cookery because she now lives in an old people's home, a reader recalls for us her method of making lemon pie: "I never have cooked my filling or used flour or cornstarch for thickening it," she says. Her pie, which she describes as follows, is of the baked chiffon type and should be very good.

"I used a very deep plate and always half baked the crust before the filling was put in. I beat four egg yolks with about three-fourths cup of sugar. After this I grated a large, juicy, thin skinned lemon, skin and all, and added it. Then the whites of the eggs were beaten very stiff. A part of the beaten egg white was put into the filling and the filling in the half baked crust. Then it was baked until it was set, and the rest of the egg white was put on top. It went again into the oven for browning."

Good humoredly our 80 year old correspondent apologizes for her "shaky hand" which we found more legible than much of our mail, and tells us that she is obliged to use lined paper "otherwise I'll start the letter on the north side of the paper and finish on the south side." I shall publicly thank her for her cheerful letter and her suggestions for lemon pie, for since she didn't wish to sign her name, we can't write her personally.

The Monastic Mode Revamped

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Here are the popular monastic lines revamped for the new season. If you like, wear the folds as you always have, distributed as your fancy dictates under a wide belt. But if you want a more tailored effect, hold the fullness down by tailored-looking tucks that extend just as high above the waist as they do below it. The fullness is released in the bodice and just below the hipline.

The neckline of this spring frock may be either V or high and round. If it is to be V, leave it plain. If high and round, give it a Peter Pan collar to contrast. A slide fastener may be used in the bodice, if you like.

Both light and dark colors, and prints and plain shades make up well in this simple frock that may be worn virtually anywhere. The wide belt may contrast in either dark or light colors. The collar, if you have one, may match it.

Style 3263 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 39 inch contrasting for the short sleeved dress with collar and matching belt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Emotions of Childhood Can Mar Maturity

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

How childhood memories and experiences live in the minds and hearts of people! And how strongly their lives are colored by these early years!

Even though we parents know this, we don't quite realize that these days with our children will become a book of memories to be read and re-read all the years of their lives, to be felt and refelt after childhood is past. Listen with a hearing ear to the conversation of your contemporaries, whether you are in your twenties, forties, or fifties and you will be struck by the fact, I believe.

Here is a woman whose present unhappiness, loneliness, and inferiority [at the age of 65] are traceable to a loving but sharp-tongued mother who decried her daughter's ways and looks. She should, you say, have combated this; but her particular nature was crushed by this association of almost a lifetime.

Here is another, surrounded all her young days before her marriarge with love, fun and a perfectly delightful home life. Those years impart to her a glow, humor and sweetness even now in the midst of present loss by death and actual poverty. Some natures grow, conquer and assimilate unhappy childhood experiences, some cannot. But it is our duty to see that as far as our relationship with our children is concerned, we should give them no cause for bitterness or resentment.

What brought this subject to my mind today is the many personal contacts I've had recently which have emphasized it, and this letter from a grownup son, which I am going to quote:

"I often read your articles in the paper. I thought the following example of how human nature works might interest you.

"I am reminded of my mother who died in January of this year at 95 and never outlived her resentment of her father who lavished all his love and attention on an older daughter, making remarks of praise for her at the expense of the rest of the family, calling attention to her inferiority to her sister, and so forth. It left a scar no number of years could efface.

"She had a wonderful mother who eased her wounded pride. To cause children to feel inferior is to do a great wrong to them, or as it is sometimes put, 'pull them down a peg.' Children need all the courage and poise they can get to meet a cold world.

"Nothing gives them so much ease in life as the knowledge that they are in the good graces of their parents, who are behind them. In spite of her father's way, with the help of her mother my mother became a woman of poise and dignity."

A summing up of these thoughts is to be found in our "Mothers' and Fathers' Litany." Send postage only with your name and address for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.

There are two distinct kinds of psychic bids. There is the psychic that is made on a trickless hand, such as:

♠ 10 8 6 5 4 2 ♥ J 3 ♦ 8 5 4 ♣ 6 2

Although this type of psychic is not nearly as prevalent as it was years ago, many good players make a spade bid on such a hand as this, especially when playing duplicate and particularly in third hand position. It will be noted that even in this case, the player has length, if not strength, in the "psyched" suit.

The other type of psychic bid, which enjoys greater favor among experts, is what may be termed a lead-misdirecting psychic. Note the following hand, taken from a recent duplicate:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ A 8
♦ A 10 7 4 3
♣ 9 2

WEST
♠ J 10 6
♥ K Q J 7 5
♦ 9 5

EAST
♠ 9 4 3
♥ 9 6 2
♦ Q J 8

SOUTH
♠ K 8 2
♥ 10 4 3
♦ K 6 2
♣ A J 8 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Attention is directed to South's original one heart response. This was one of those lead-misdirecting bids to which I have referred. Naturally, I am not defending this sort of bid for general practice, yet I would be telling something less than the truth were I to say that all such bids are bad or silly. When they are used with great discretion, and at extremely wide intervals, they may pay handsome dividends. I warn readers, however, that they are loaded with dynamite and that, if they use them, they do so at their own peril.

In this case, West probably suspected that the heart bid was "phony," hence ventured an optimistic penalty double of the final three no trump contract.

The heart king was the opening lead, and declarer promptly stepped up with dummy's ace. Then, since there was a chance that the queen and jack of diamonds would fall, he played the ace and king, but when nothing sensational happened, he turned his attention to the spade suit. A 3-3 break permitted him to run four spades and he discarded his own last diamond on the fourth round. West had to make a discard also, and apparently weakened in his previous judgment that South had "psyched" the heart suit. He must have thought that South had started with four hearts to the 10-9, because now he discarded a heart in order to keep the K-Q of clubs guarded. Declarer made shrewd use of this discard. After cashing dummy's last spade, he led the eight of hearts. East covered with the nine, and declarer with the ten. West won and cashed the queen and seven spot. But then West had to lay down the club king and declarer made him a gracious present of the trick. The forced club continuation from the queen went up to declarer's A-J tenace and gave him the two tricks necessary to the fulfilment of his contract.

Predict New Hair Styles May Go Over with Bangs

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Wonder how much truth there is in the prediction that bangs will be our next big interest. It's reasonable to assume that the exposed forehead will lose popularity along with the upswept coiffure. It does take a well-shaped forehead to appear with hair skinned back tightly. A classic brow you'd need.

We think it will turn out to be a bang that you never thought of calling a bang before. Just any little ornament of hair will be deemed bangs.

Hair authority Joan Clair has it figured out that way. She tells us that, in all history, only four periods knew bangs, although, she affirms, the fifth period is dawning.

"Bangs," she says, "afford women the opportunity to do something about the contours of their faces. The high, wide forehead, normally a defect if the rest of the face is oval, can be counteracted by soft curls framing the brow, hiding the height and width. A short forehead can be given the illusion of height by bangs that arise high on the head, as bangs are sometimes cut today. But as a relief from the severity of the upswing, they are welcomed.

Miss Clair says, too, that by bangs one need not imply the straight cut fringe, or the Dutch bob coiffures of Garbo or Joan of Arc. Any swirl, cluster, or curl that dips over the forehead comes into the new bang category for want of other definition.

"I've seen the style taken up in smart European places," says Miss Clair. "It evidently is inspired by Queen Elizabeth, who wears a bangs hairdress. I talked with the queen's private hairdresser in London, who reports that the queen favors bangs because they balance her tiaras and crown worn in state occasions."

Bangs add a feminine, soft note to hair and face, it is argued, and they are more easily cared for than pyramided front hair. The new style already has converts among theatrical persons. Margo has been seen with a lovely bangs coiffure.

RAMBLERS ROUT C. C. N. Y. FOR 14TH STRAIGHT

Butler Five Hands Demons 5th Defeat.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Loyola university's basketball team, winner of thirteen straight games this season, made it fourteen in a row last night. In so doing they gave the famed Nat Holman's City College of New York team a convincing lesson in how the game is played in these parts. The final score was 52 to 27.

The Ramblers ran up their record of no defeats in the second game of a double-header in the Madison street armory, witnessed by a crowd of 6,500, the largest attendance at the twin bill program in the armory this season.

Butler Checks Neu.

De Paul's Blue Demons didn't have quite as much good fortune in the opener, succumbing to Butler, 39 to 29. Bob Neu, De Paul scoring star, was limited to a total of five points, while Neat of the visitors made 18. It was De Paul's fifth defeat of the season.

Loyola didn't go to work until the second half, leading by 18 to 9, thanks to long Mike Novak, who collected eight of his total of seventeen points in the first half.

The De Paul-Butler game saw only two points scored in the first four minutes, both free throws by Neu. Then Neat sank the first of his nine field goals, a one-handed effort, to tie the score, and presently whipped in an overhand try to send the Hoosiers into a lead they kept.

Neat Hard to Stop.

Neat added three more baskets to pace Butler to an 18 to 16 lead at the half. Ed Norris kept the Blue Demons in the fight with three baskets and two free throws. Butler added 14 points in the second half before Elmer Gainer hit for the Chicagoans on a pair of free throws.

The De Paul squad will board a train this morning for Toledo, where it will meet Toledo U. tonight. Next Wednesday Loyola and De Paul will renew their intracity rivalry in the annual game conducted by the Catholic Youth Organization in the Chicago Stadium.

NOTRE DAME, 38; ILLINOIS, 24

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Notre Dame won its eighth straight basketball victory by beating Illinois, 38 to 24, tonight. Notre Dame led, 19 to 8, at the half. Illinois was hampered by the loss of Capt. Tom Nisbet, who is ineligible.

Lewis [Pick] Dehner, Illinois center, was closely guarded by Mark Ertel during the first half, but began hitting the basket late in the second period and took scoring honors with 14 points. Paul Ducharme, guard, led the Irish with eight points.

Dehner's basket in the third minute was the only field goal Illinois made in the first half. Seven minutes of the second period elapsed before Jay Wardley broke through Notre Dame's man for man defense to get the second of six Illinois' field goals.

It was Illinois' third defeat in thir-

LOUIS WATCHES GALENTO STOP BROWN IN 4TH

'I Think I Could Take Him,' Says Joe.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Tony Galento, the Orange [N. J.] barkeeper and the National Boxing association's No. 1 challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, tonight knocked out Natie Brown of Washington in 1 minute and 13 seconds of the fourth round.

The roly-poly Galento had the battle scarred Brown on the floor ten times before dropping him for keeps with a roundhouse left to the chin.

He Keeps Getting Up.

While Louis himself watched, Galento came from his corner in a rush, backed Brown to the ropes with a series of lefts, then dropped him with a club-like right to the jaw four more times in the same round.

The only semblance of an attack Brown showed came in the second, when he rose from his feet and doubled Galento with a series of right hand smashes to his midriff.

Galento's jabs and roundhouse rights put Brown on the floor twice in the third round.

Tony Spurns Joe's Hand.

The knockout blow came after a right to the stomach had doubled the Washington boy.

Louis was introduced from the ring and walked over to Galento, but Two-Ton Tony refused to shake hands with the champion. Louis' only comment after the fight was: "He didn't look so good to me. I think I could take him."

The crowd of 8,547 paid $16,318 for the scheduled ten round bout.

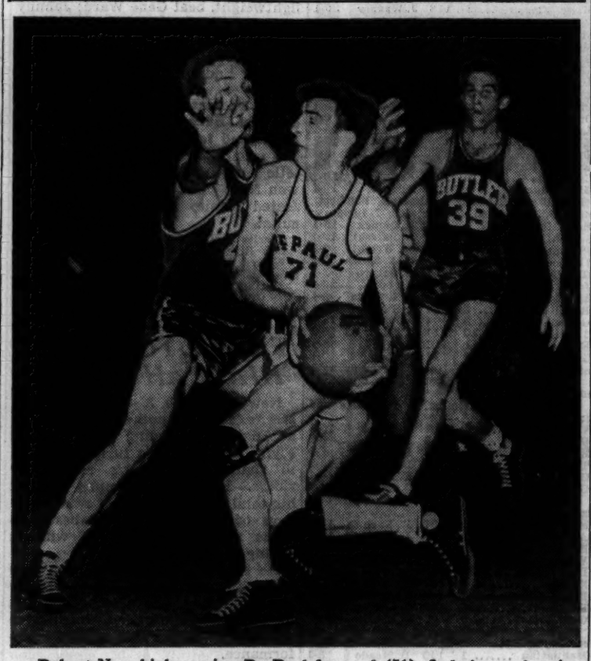
BETTINA STOPS FOX

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Melio Bettina, a hairy little fellow with a lot of heart and dynamite in both hands, won the New York version of the world's light heavyweight championship tonight by stopping the highly favored Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., in the ninth round of their 15 round bout in Madison Square Garden. Bettina weighed 172½, Fox, 174¾.

A 3 to 1 underdog against the long armed negro, the Beacon, N. Y., clouter floored the coast fighter with a vicious left hook in the eighth round and had him helpless on the ropes at the bell. Then he continued his one sided punching spree in the ninth until Referee Eddie Josephs halted the proceedings at 1 minute, 22 seconds of the session.

A crowd of 7,947, including nearly 1,000 fans from Bettina's hometown, who had marched up Broadway and into the Garden headed by a band, howled and cheered as the upstater achieved his surprise technical knockout victory against the man regarded as one of the stiffest punchers in the division in years. The gross gate was $18,189.85.

Handcuffing De Paul Basketball Star



Robert Neu, high scoring De Paul forward (71), finds it tough going as Charles Richardson prevents him from making shot. No. 39 of Butler is George Perry. De Paul was beaten, 39-29, in Madison street armory.

SCHEDULE MEET WILL LURE CUBS OFFICIALS EAST

Deny Rehersing Trade Pep Talks.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There will be an assemblage of Cub officials—the Cubs have them in quantities—in New York next week, but they insist they have not rehersed pep talks for rival managers and owners.

The Chicagoans—six of them if Scout Jack Doyle shows up—will be there solely to look after the routine business which might arise next Tuesday when the National league meets to adopt its 1939 schedule, which couldn't be changed even if some magnate did protest that he had been cheated a bit on choice dates.

But despite their insistance that there is no prospect for trades or the possible outright purchase of a needed athlete there is always a chance for anything in baseball, hence the presence of President-Owner P. K. Wrigley, Vice President Charles Weber, Manager Gabby Hartnett, Clarence Rowland, the trade expert, and Charles Drake, who functions as spreader of facts for the ball writers.

May Revive Mize Negotiations.

The Cubs recently announced that they had abandoned their effort to buy John Mize, the Cardinal slugger, and to complicate the matter, General Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis club declared he never had discussed the subject with Cabinet Member Rowland. Rickey either has a poor or a convenient memory.

The Cubs' declaration that they are no longer interested in Mize was one of those tongue in the cheek affairs. They merely tired of continuing the "We Want Mize" campaign, figuring that the longer the proposition was kept on the fire the higher the price would soar. By professing lack of interest in Mize they reasoned that St. Louis might suddenly burst forth with a suitable price for its slugging chattel. Since then more than a week has elapsed and neither the suave Rickey nor President Sam Breadon has broken down. But Rowland will mention the subject, casually, of course, to them in New York and won't hurry them for an answer.

New Cub Roster Out.

After weeks of careful editing of the subject matter, Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis yesterday produced the first run copies of his 1939 Cub roster. The multi-colored booklet, which modestly refrained from mentioning that the Cubs are league champions, furnishes data on thirty players, head pictures of each, and brief mention of their individual specialties on the diamond.

Lewis even figured out, and guarantees that it is correct, that the squad will cover 5,815 miles on the training trip. The outward journey will be made over the North Western railroad and the homeward jaunt on the Southern Pacific and Rock Island.

ETTORE THROUGH AND KNOWS IT—SO HE QUITS RING

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Al Ettore, once a contender for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, today quit the prize ring.

"I'm quitting," said Ettore. "Because the time has come for it. I know I'm through. I wanted to quit months ago, but—"

Ettore said he never quite recovered from a right hand punch Joe Louis landed in their fight here in September, 1936. Louis won by a knockout in the fifth round.

"Since then," Ettore added, "I have been making a thousand here and a thousand there, but it wasn't easy money. I am very glad to quit."

Ettore's last fight was at Des Moines, Ia., against Johnny Paychek. Paychek scored a technical knockout in the sixth round.

A Famous Sports Partnership

Last Call for Chicago Entries in Golden Gloves Tourney

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the last day to enter Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament. Applications mailed before midnight will be accepted. All boxers now will be assigned to the final preliminary physical examination next Friday evening in Trafton's gymnasium.

This examination will be held from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. in the gymnasium at 180 West Randolph street. Those who pass the physical test and bring their consent cards, signed by parent or guardian, will be assigned to either the northwest tournament in Marigold Gardens or the north side tournament in Loyola university gymnasium.

South Side Meet Next.

The list of competitors for the south side tournament which opens Tuesday night in White City has been completed. Nearly 300 boxers have passed examinations and are eligible to seek the qualifying medals which will be awarded in both the novice and open divisions. The south side bouts will continue on Wednesday and Thursday. On those nights the west side tournament will be concluded.

The west side's eight novice winners, who will be determined Thursday night, will join the groups to be named later in the other sections in the semi-finals on Feb. 28 in Chicago Stadium. Chicago's novice tournament semi-finals and finals are held in conjunction with the Tournament of Champions which opens on Feb. 27 and is concluded March 1.

Interest Continues to Mount.

Chicago will be represented in the Tournament of Champions by 32 open division boxers, eight from each section, and the eight champions of the Catholic Youth Organization who won their titles last December.

In the immediate vicinity Elgin is preparing to hold its tournament on Monday and Tuesday. The Elgin winners then will compete in the Rockford, Ill., tournament and those champions then will compete in the Tournament of Champions.

Through this system, more than 200 tournaments are held each year although only 47 teams come to Chicago. With the exception of Detroit, where the Detroit Free Press holds the metropolitan championships, the state of Michigan is organized through the Grand Rapids Press. Preliminary tournaments are held in Flint, Bay City, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Benton Harbor, Pontiac, Port Huron, Boyne City, Alpena, Albion, and Battle Creek.

Championship teams from these centers then assemble in Grand Rapids for the Michigan finals. The eight winners will come to the Tournament of Champions.

CHINESE WINS TITLE

Cleveland, O., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Georgie Toy, Chinese-American youth, led a parade of eight youngsters to Golden Gloves championships as the Plain Dealer's eleventh annual tournament was completed before a crowd of 10,000 tonight. Toy captured the lightweight title by knocking out Nathaniel Robinson in the second round. It was his second knockout in four fights.

Max Schindler of Lorain, who was born in Bavaria, Germany, won the featherweight championship when he knocked out Bobby Root in the third round. Steve Malinky, brother of a former tournament champion, won the middleweight crown by defeating Bobby Berry.

Paul Almy, flyweight, will be the only member of the team to appear in the Chicago Tribune's Tournament of Champions for the second successive year. He retained his title by beating Benny Calla. Other champions crowned tonight:

Tony Algeri, bantamweight; Jim Bivens, lightweight; Jimmy Reeves, light heavyweight, and Mike Zampini, heavyweight.

Memo to Boxing Fans:

Elimination bouts already have begun in the Golden Gloves tournament. Some of the good tickets also are being eliminated in the daily rush of mail orders for seats to the Tournament of Champions and the Finals. Get your order in without delay and assure yourself the thrills this great show can give you.

Address Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, making checks or money orders payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Prices:

Tournament of Champions: Feb. 27 and 28—40 cents, 68 cents, $1.10; March 1—75 cents, $1.10, and $1.65.

Finals: March 10—$1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30. All 55 cent seats for the finals have been sold.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO PROMOTER, 56

Creator of Bunion Derby, Pro Tennis.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—C. C. [Cash and Carry] Pyle, most colorful promoter of the final years of sports' golden decade, died unexpectedly in his home here today. Death was caused by cerebral thrombosis. He was 56 years old.

Pyle first achieved nation-wide attention in 1925 when he took Harold [Red] Grange off the University of Illinois campus and guided the Galloping Ghost's career in professional football and other business ventures which grossed a million dollars in three years. In 1928 and 1929, Pyle promoted transcontinental bunion Derbies and suffered financial reverses in each. The first Derby, billed as a $50,000 attraction, with a $25,000 purse going to the winner, led to numerous law suits, which reputedly cost Pyle $50,000. Professional tennis also was a creation of his fertile imagination.

Pyle is survived by his widow, Elvia, the former Elvia Allman of radio, whom he married on July 3, 1937, and a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Malan of San Francisco. A former wife, Effie R. Pyle, divorced him in Chicago in 1936. His mother, Mrs. Sidney Pyle, died last Sunday at the age of 81.

Recoups His Fortune.

Much of his fortune was recouped in two nonsporting ventures. At the time of his death he was president of a radio transcription company and director of a world's fair sideshow of freaks. His entertainment project was launched at the Century of Progress fair in Chicago and it continued in various other cities. He had planned to stage the show at the New York world fair this year.

Pyle's promotional instincts first were stirred when he watched Grange, the "Galloping Ghost," run wild on Western conference gridirons. Grange left Illinois after a spectacular career in the fall of 1925 and Pyle, owner of a Champaign movie theater, became his manager.

A Profitable Trip.

Grange made his professional football debut in Chicago on Thanksgiving day, 1925, as a member of the Bears. During the winter, with Grange as the main attraction, Pyle and the Bears launched a tour that was highly successful both as to crowds and money.

Grange galloped up and down football fields in the east, west, and the south. When he returned to Chicago early in February of 1926 Pyle and Grange had harvested more than $100,000 since the partnership was formed, which meant the promoter had profited likewise. While the football troupe was in California Grange was signed to a film contract, but his career as a movie hero was a brief one. It did, however, pad his rapidly growing bank account.

Formed New Football League.

The football venture was considered such a success that Pyle and Grange formed the American Professional Football league in February, 1926. It was formed after the National league had refused to grant the pair permission to sponsor another club in New York.

William H. [Big Bill] Edwards, one time Princeton football star, was named president of the American league at a salary of $25,000 a year. It was the promoter's dream to model the circuit after the major baseball leagues. At one of the meetings in Chicago Pyle said:

"We expect to do big things today; things that will astonish the National league. We are planning this new football association on a comprehensive scale. The football we will give the fans will be unrivaled. Our organization will mean something. The men who obtain franchises will be responsible men, not fly by night promoters."

The league lasted only during the 1926 season, however, and Pyle suffered financial reverses as head of the New York Yankees. The National league gave the Yankees a franchise as a traveling team in 1927 and 1928, after which the club disbanded.

Bunion Derby.

Pyle's most unusual promotion was the famous "bunion Derby" of 1928, in which close to 100 runners, both young and old, started out on a transcontinental run from Los Angeles to New York, with the promoter riding comfortably alongside.

When the seventy-one cross-country runners straggled into Chicago on May 5, 1928, Pyle wasn't with them. He was in Joliet, where his $25,000 bus, termed a "land yacht," was being held by a receiver for a defunct bank which had one of Pyle's notes. He rescued the machine by paying $5,000 on the note.

The runners were quartered in the First Regiment armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. Grange, coming to the assistance of his former manager, was the master of ceremonies for the curious crowd. Programs sold for 25 cents. A young lady in a bright red dress attempted to pin a button attached to a ribbon on every man's coat, at the same time plead-

ST. PHILIP FIVE BEATEN, 26-24, BY ST. IGNATIUS

Fails in Bid for Catholic Section Lead.

The St. Ignatius senior basketball team defeated St. Philip, 26 to 24, last night to retain its lead in the north section of the Catholic High School league. The victory was the sixth in division competition for St. Ignatius, which was defending its undefeated record against the likewise unbeaten St. Philip quintet.

The De La Salle juniors kept their south section lead with a 33 to 13 conquest of St. Mel. It was De La Salle's fifth triumph.

Lake View, Crane Win.

Lake View and Crane scored their sixth victories to remain the undefeated leaders in the senior division of the north and west sections, respectively, of the City High School league.

Crane practically eliminated any hope that Tuley might have had of taking the sectional title by winning, 29 to 21, and Lake View strengthened its hold at the expense of Lane, 28 to 22.

The Harvard school heavyweights defeated Luther institute, 47 to 10, for their 12th straight victory and seventh consecutive triumph in the Private school league. The Luther-Concordia game scheduled for today was postponed because of a scarlet fever quarantine.

Morton Beats Highland Park.

Morton took a firmer hold on first place in the heavyweight division of the Suburban league when it defeated Highland Park, 27 to 26, while Oak Park was losing to Waukegan, 28 to 26.

It was the seventh victory in eight starts for the Cicero quintet and the second loss in seven games for Oak Park. A 9 to 2 rally in the final quarter gave Waukegan victory.

Bloom defeated Blue Island, 35 to 27, and Thornton routed Calumet City, 42 to 19, in South Suburban league heavyweight games.

Glenbard's heavyweights increased their lead in the West Suburban conference by beating Downers Grove, 33 to 11, in Glen Ellyn. Malm led the Glenbard attack with eleven points. Senior lineups:

GULFSTREAM HAS SLIGHT GAIN IN BETTING, CROWD

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Gulfstream Park, the Miami area's third race track, registered a slight gain in attendance and wagering today over yesterday, and President John C. Horning expressed complete satisfaction with operations since it opened Wednesday.

The third day's pari-mutuel handle was $69,424, as against $65,419 for yesterday, while attendance rose from an estimated 3,500 to about 4,700.

Gulfstream officials emphasized that while a month of their forty day season conflicted with Hialeah Park, they had no intention of trying to compete with Joseph E. Widener's famed track, either for horses or customers. Hialeah was patronized today by 8,960 persons who bet $380,593.

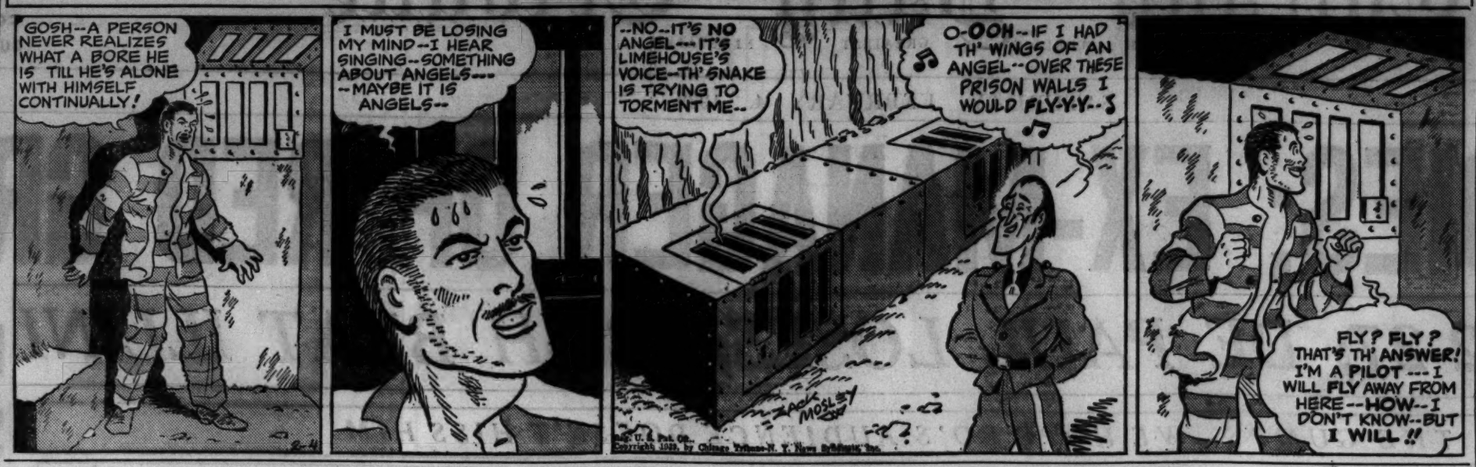
SMILIN' JACK—ONLY A BIRDMAN IN A GALVANIZED CAGE



124th Artillery Plays Falcons for Polo Lead

The lead in the senior division of the Metropolitan Polo league will be at stake when the Detroit Falcons and the 124th Field Artillery clash in the 124th armory tonight. The Chicago Shamrocks and the Ranchers, contenders in the four to six goal division, meet in the other game of the double-header program.

The 124th's best scorers, Lieuts. Don Rice and Bill Fergus, will get their supreme test against Jay Secor, Detroit defender, and Volney Bayley, Falcon captain.

Detroit, rated at eight goals, will be given a two point handicap. The Chicagoans form a ten goal combination.

Fear that coordination in the 124th's attack would be disrupted because of injury to Capt. Romeo Mura, the injection of Capt. Bill Everett into the lineup, and the shifting of Lieut. Fergus from defense to No. 2, proved unfounded when this combination beat the Evanston Polo club, 15 to 7, last Saturday.

The Shamrocks and Ranchers will put four-goal teams on the field.

EVELETH SENDS 3 GENUINE FANS TO HOCKY GAME

Goalies' Mothers, Their Prep Coach to Attend.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Three residents of the little town of Eveleth, Minn., where the kids swing homemade hocky sticks at tin cans before they learn their A B C's, will see the National league battle between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Boston Bruins in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

These Evelethans will have more than a passing interest in the contest, despite the fact that they hail from a corner of the land where hocky commands an enthusiasm as great as basketball does in Indiana. One of them is Clifford Thomson, coach of the Eveleth High school team. Cliff should be almost as wrought up about the game as his two companions, Mrs. John Brimsek Sr. and Mrs. Ann Starkovich, although they must be given a slight edge in their attitude toward the battle.

No Wonder They're Interested.

It so happens that Mrs. Starkovich and Mrs. Brimsek are the mothers, respectively, of the two goalies in tomorrow night's argument—Mike Karakas of the Blackhawks and Frank Brimsek of the Bruins. Mrs. Starkovich remarried after the death of Mike's father about fifteen years ago. Thomson coached both boys during their prep careers at Eveleth long before Mike thought of guarding the Hawks to the Stanley cup last season, and even longer before Master Brimsek became the hottest doorman to come up to the big league in years.

The trio will arrive at the Chicago and North Western depot at 8 o'clock this morning. They have been sent here through a popular subscription among Eveleth citizens conducted by Edward J. Coen, sports editor of the Eveleth Clarion.

They're Both Good.

Mrs. Starkovich comes in the hope of seeing Mike repeat his performance of Thursday night in Montreal, where he held the Canadiens to two goals, while Johnny Gottselig, Joff Desilets, and Mush March were scoring four goals for the Hawks.

Mrs. Brimsek, on the other hand, will be cheering for a son who has been setting shutout records right and left since he joined the Bruins, who happen to be leading the whole league off by themselves.

Pairings Made for 27 Nations in Davis Cup

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The names of twenty-seven challenging nations were drawn out of the Davis cup today in the annual ceremony of pairing up the countries which seek to win the big silver trophy, emblem of international tennis supremacy.

The list, including three more nations than there were challenging in 1938, was divided into three zones of competition. With the reëntry of Brazil, the South American zone was revived. Brazil, the only South American challenger, will meet the survivor among six challengers in the North American zone.

As usual, the European zone drew the largest number of entries, 20, with Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia in the upper half of the draw and Germany and France in the lower half considered the strongest. They were paired as follows:

Upper half: First round—Jugo-Slavia vs. Ireland, Rumania vs. Hungary. Second round (first round byes)—Czecho-Slovakia vs. Norway, Belgium vs. India, Italy vs. Monaco.

Lower half: First round—Poland vs. The Netherlands, Germany vs. Switzerland. Second round—Sweden vs. Denmark, Great Britain vs. New Zealand, France vs. China.

Parings in the North American zone were Australia vs. Mexico and Cuba vs. Canada in the first round with the Philippines and Japan drawing first round byes.

Winners of the European and American competitions will fight it out in the interzone final in the United States for the privilege of challenging the United States for the trophy.

The site of the challenge round matches probably will be decided tomorrow at a U. S. L. T. A. meeting.

PESKIND GAINS SEMI-FINALS OF BADMINTON MEET

Seymour Peskind of the Lawson B. C., third ranking player in the Midwest Badminton association, advanced to the semi-finals last night in the men's singles division of the Hamilton club open tournament. He won, 15-5, 15-5, from George Valenta, unattached.

In the women's division Mrs. Glenn Markt of the Chicago B. C. ran up 22 straight points to triumph over Betty Mathews of the Chicago Town and Tennis club. The semi-final and finals rounds will be played this afternoon.

Pyle, Former Manager of Grange, Dies

ing, "Give the poor runners something, mister."

Earlier in the day thousands had lined the route of the athletes into Chicago. They took highway No. 4 out of Joliet and entered the city on Ogden avenue, turning into Roosevelt road, and eventually running up Michigan avenue.

The race finally was won by Andrew Payne of Claremore, Okla. The 1929 winner was John Salo of Passaic, N. J. The Derbies universally were voted the strangest events in sports history.

Pyle also was the first to see the possibilities in professional tennis. On Oct. 9, 1926, he presented the late Suzanne Lenglen, Mary K. Browne, Vincent Richards, and other stars in Madison Square Garden as his initial effort in this field of activity. The gate receipts were announced as $40,000.

GREAT PROMOTER—GRANGE

Harold Grange last night paid tribute to his one time manager, C. C. Pyle.

"He was the greatest promoter of all time," Grange said of the man who started him on his professional career. "The greatest promoter—but not the greatest business man. He had more ideas than any man I ever knew. He was always completely honest with me."

Grange estimated that during the three years—1925, 1926 and 1927—he was managed by Pyle, the two attracted $1,000,000 at the gate—half of which found a way into their pockets. They split the profits, which would place Grange's earnings under Pyle's direction at $250,000.

"I guess he lost most of his money in those transcontinental Derbies," Grange said. "And we both dropped plenty trying to get that American Professional Football league going. I believe it would have been a success had it not been for the weather and some other unexpected bad breaks."

George Halas, part owner and coach of the Chicago Bears when Pyle and Grange joined the team, expressed sorrow when told of the promoter's death.

"On our trips to the Pacific coast in late years we always looked Charley up and reminisced over old times," Halas said last night. "It was through Pyle that we signed Grange for the Bears."

EIGHT SQUASH LEAGUE TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT

Eight city league squash racket teams will play today in the final matches before the national squash championship meet opens next Saturday.

In the Chicago "A" league the Dartmouth Alumni club will defend its first place rank against the Chicago Town and Tennis club, which can take the lead by winning. The Chicago Deaborn club and the Chicago Athletic association will play the other "A" league match, with escape from the league cellar depending on the result.

The Lake Shore Athletic club, defending "B" league champion, has clinched a berth in the junior league title playoffs and today's matches will decide the two other teams which will meet the Lake Shore squad on Feb. 18. The Alman's gymnasium team, now in second place, will play the Chicago Dearborn club and the University club is matched against the Evanston Y. M. C. A.

Morton Wins Over Springfield Five, 60-19

Morton routed Springfield, 60 to 19, last night in an Illinois Junior College Conference game. Morton led, 16 to 8, at the half. Ed Jelinek scored sixteen points to lead Morton's attack.

BOZEMAN BEATS HALL TWICE IN CUE TOURNAMENT

Jay Bozeman defeated Allen Hall in two games in the world's championship three cushion billiard tournament yesterday, winning the afternoon game, 50 to 31, in 30 innings and taking the night match, 50 to 39, in 39 innings. Each player had high runs of six in both matches.

Bozeman fell one inning short of tying the best game record for the current tournament in the afternoon game, a record of 29 which he holds.

THURNBLAD WINS TWO.

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Art Thurnblad, Kenosha's contender in the three cushion billiard meet, boosted his percentage today with a pair of victories over Charles McCourt of Cleveland. Thurnblad won the afternoon match, 50 to 23, in 31 innings, but required 49 innings to win the evening match, 50 to 31. He had a high run of seven in the latter.

16 YEAR OLD GIRL TAKES LEAD IN FIGURE SKATING

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Sixteen year old Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg took a big step toward the women's title in the biennial North American figure skating meet today with a performance in compulsory figures that combined assurance and grace.

The Canadian women's champion compiled an advantage of 861.9 to 849.1 over 17 year old Joan Tozzer of Boston, the United States champion, in the school routine. Montgomery Wilson of Toronto, who won the men's North American championship in 1929 and has held it ever since, was as smooth as ever in his compulsory figures and scored an aggregate of 1,027.9 to 995.3 for Robin Lee of St. Paul, Minn., American champion.

Cunningham Is Favorite in Millrose Mile

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Glenn Cunningham, talented miler, will face six other runners tomorrow night in the feature of the Millrose A. C. meet in Madison Square Garden. Seeking to win his sixth Millrose victory and to clinch the Rodman Wanamaker trophy, he will face a great field. The 29 year old campaigner is the overwhelming favorite, however.

Topping the list of challengers is Josef Mostert, Belgian, who ran a mile in 4:11 and is second to Stanley Wooderson in continental rating. Mostert will run with a pair of badly torn feet as a result of his 2:06.8 half mile exhibition Saturday at Jersey City.

John Munski, another newcomer from the University of Missouri who holds the Big Six mile title with a 4:15.9 mile, plus a 4:10.5 relay leg, is heralded as the greatest midwest product since Cunningham.

Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin's Big Ten mile king, who finished a disappointing fifth last week, hopes to hit a better pace tomorrow. And Archie San Romani is determined to come back.

DU PONT SPENDS 21 MILLIONS TO IMPROVE PLANTS

Plans to Expend as Much More This Year.

Lammot du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., reported yesterday that the company spent $21,000,000 in 1938 for plant extensions and improvements. The company's 1939 budget, he said, calls for an expenditure of comparable size.

Lammot du Pont.

Du Pont asserted that industry generally can make an important contribution toward solution of the unemployment problem by a policy of continuously developing new and improved products.

He said that if the existing deficiency in durable goods, which has grown during the depression years, were corrected it would give jobs to 3,000,000 unemployed for five years.

Vast Expenditure Needed.

Du Pont cited the estimate of the Brookings institution that 25 to 30 billion dollars would be required to bring the country's industrial system up to par.

He said that his own company has had a long standing policy of bettering its manufacturing facilities and adding to them.

"Such expenditures," he said, "for the years ahead 12 per cent of the investment in plants and properties. From 1932 to 1937 the average was about 9 per cent, and in 1938 about 6 per cent."

Urges Constructive Investment.

The need of the country, he asserted, is enterprise and constructive investment. Without "venture capital," he said, obsolescent plants will not be rebuilt and new plants will not be constructed.

Wise tax laws and carefully considered regulatory legislation are necessary to entice enterprising capital into new investments, he added.

"Such capital can be obtained only out of surplus funds, the income not consumed by current needs, and from the savings of people who can afford the delays and possible losses of experimentation," du Pont asserted.

REYNOLDS, CIGARET MAKER.

Investors' Guide: Tobacco stocks strike me as good investments from what I know in a general way about tobacco companies' earnings and dividends. What can you tell me about R. J. Reynolds? Has the 10 cent cigaret drive hurt its business much? Does the company have to borrow very heavily to keep its operations going?—T. P.

Answer: Increased competition from low price cigarets plus higher tobacco costs and a heavier tax burden caused a drop in the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company's profits for 1938. Net income slipped to $23,734,000 or $2.37 a share in 1938 from $28,216,000 in 1937 and $29,253,000 in 1936. The company's net income of $33,675,000 in 1931 was the highest in history. It fell sharply to a depression low of $21,154,000 in 1934, and then climbed until 1938.

J. A. Gray, president, told stockholders in the 1938 annual report that the business recession had caused some smokers to turn to lower priced cigarets to economize. The company's "Camel" cigaret, is, of course, one of the big three and leads Chesterfields and Lucky Strikes slightly in sales. Reynolds' "Prince Albert" is a leader in smoking tobaccos.

Sales amounted to $217,320,000 in 1934 and increased steadily to $302,996,000 in 1937, but slipped to $282,265,000 last year. Helping all tobacco companies has been the general increase in the cigaret smoking habit.

In 1937 Reynolds borrowed $24,500,000 through short term notes to finance the heavy inventories required by the character of the tobacco business. President Gray announced last month that these notes had been refunded with ten year notes falling due in instalments. Interest is 2.45 per cent on the new notes.

The company has no bonds, and all stock outstanding is either common or B common. The only difference between the two stocks is that the B has no voting power. Dividends were $3 a share each year from 1930 through 1937. They totaled $2.90 in 1938.

The stock is a business man's investment—good grade now but should be watched closely.

LIKE PASTRY?

Investors' Guide: A friend of mine said yesterday: "Danish bonds are just like Danish pastry—never sour." How about it?—I. B.

Answer: Bonds of Denmark have a good debt record. Interest has been paid regularly on the three chief issues held in this country—the 6s of 1942, 5½s of 1955, and 4½s of 1962. The bonds are considered high grade.

PROPOSE LITTLE RFC AS FINANCE AID TO CARRIERS

Would Buy Up Rails' Bonds Below Par.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—Another prescription was offered today to cure the suffering railroad industry. This one calls for the creation of a railroad reconstruction finance corporation to buy carrier bonds.

Representative Lea.

Representative Clarence F. Lea D., Cal.], chairman of the house interstate commerce committee, placed the plan before the committee. He did not reveal the author of the proposal, but said that it was submitted to him confidentially by "a very modest man."

Lea said that the proposal is to form a railroad RFC, controled by the present RFC, and permit it to sell 3½ per cent preferred stock to obtain funds. These funds would be used to buy railroad bonds on the market "below par only," and the carriers would agree to redeem the bonds as rapidly as possible.

Part to Amortize Debt.

The railroad would pay 6 per cent interest on the securities taken over by the government. Of this 6 per cent rate 2½ per cent would be used to amortize the debt to the government.

The memorandum Lea inserted into the record of hearings on aid for the railroad industry said that the plan would reduce fixed charges of the railroads, restore credit, convert carrier bonds into cash where needed, facilitate reorganization of those in default, prevent other railroads from going into bankruptcy, and permit the government to help the railroads without loss.

"The purpose of the operation is to reduce the funded debt by taking advantage of low market prices," according to the memorandum. The purchase price paid by the government would be substituted in the final settlement between the government and the carriers for the face value of the bonds.

Fear Government Dictating.

Critics of this proposal oppose it on the same grounds on which they would fight an outright government subsidy. They assert that it would place the government in a position to dictate to the carriers, increase restrictions, and possibly lead to government ownership.

Lea did not assume sponsorship for the proposal but merely submitted it for record. His own transportation bill met attack earlier in the meeting from George M. Harrison, representing railway labor executives. Lea's "omnibus" bill calls for reorganization of the interstate commerce commission.

Harrison said that the Lea measure would "shake down the existing railroad plant but not the other existing mushroom growths in the transportation industry." He proposed that the power of recommending consolidations be vested in a new transportation board rather than under a special administrator within the I. C. C. as Lea proposed.

Criticizes Truck Policy.

Harrison also criticized the railroads for not using motor trafic earlier to supplement business by rail. He said that the railroads could have helped themselves "tremendously" in 1926 and later years by acquiring truck lines and meeting competition from that source. He said that the railroads are now trying to get into that field, but "find a squatter already in business."

"Let's get together and stabilize the industry or we're all going to perish," Harrison told the committee. "The railroads will fall into the lap of the government and the people will be taxed to pay their losses."

Meanwhile Representative Walter Chandler [D., Tenn.] introduced a bill to provide for a simpified form of financial reorganization of railroads without disturbing their operation by present managements.

Chandler, who is chairman of a judiciary subcommittee on bankruptcy, said that the bill would provide for railroad reorganization proceedings before special three-judge courts and require that reorganization be completed within a year after started. He said that public hearings on the bill would be held soon.

LIQUOR AND BEER OUTPUT LOWER, TAXES INDICATE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Uncle Sam collected stamp taxes on fewer gallons of distilled spirits and fewer barrels of beer in 1938 than in 1937, the bureau of internal revenue announced today.

The tax was collected on 112,799,371 gallons of spirits produced in the United States, 11,813,036 gallons imported, and 34,422,195 gallons rectified. In 1937 the figures were 117,386,878 gallons of domestic spirits, 16,276,307 gallons of imported liquor, and 37,603,867 gallons of rectified spirits.

The tax was levied on 51,315,496 barrels of malt liquor in 1938 and 55,685,464 barrels in 1937.

The bureau's report showed declines in production of cigars and oleomargarine, and increases in playing cards, cigarets, manufactured snuff, and chewing and smoking tobacco.

Farmers Lay Woes to Crop Cutting Policy

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Half a dozen farmer witnesses criticized the crop curtailment features of the federal farm program, today declared that as a result of reduced crops and low prices farmers faced a new wave of mortgage foreclosures. The testimony was given at a hearing before the senate agriculture committee on a bill to fix farm prices.

Sterling G. Bixler, Westminister, Md., farmer, told the committee he could not afford to comply with the present crop reduction act because 200 of his 300 acres of farm land would have to be left idle.

A similar complaint came from Robert Spencer, Monticello, Ind., who estimated that 50 per cent of the farmers near him had lost their lands and now were tenants because of low farm prices.

Foreclosure Gain Likely.

Haven Davis, Clark's Hill., Ind., testified that farm foreclosures would greatly increase in the next two years unless congress put "a floor under prices."

George Brettschneider, Chelsea, Mich., testified low farm prices forced him to wear "the suit I was married in eleven years ago." Brettschneider said he feared the government by curtailing use of farm land was "trying to force us out of farming, take over our lands and then hire us as WPA workers to operate them."

Bert Williamson, a dairy farmer from Oakland county, Mich., replied that "Secretary Wallace now has fifteen to twenty employés in every county. You could cut them in half and do the job."

Senator Norris [Ind., Neb.] advised the farmers against trying to change the present farm program "until it's had a fair chance." He said he believed the proposed law would "take a great army of employés to enforce."

Fights Seed Racket.

A nation-wide "seed racket" which, it is charged, annually extracts $40,000,000 from American farmers, is the target of a bill which will come before a house agricultural subcommittee next week for hearing.

Representative Harry Coffey [D., Neb.] introduced the bill aimed at the seed racketeers. He is an owner of farms and ranches in western Nebraska and for years has sought passage of a federal law which will adequately control interstate commerce in crop seeds.

Dishonest seed dealers, he asserted, have represented alfalfa seed produced in Argentina as coming from Utah. Farmers in the west who have used the seed have lost their crops because it could not stand the climate.

HOPSON EMPLOYE SAYS HIS BOOKS ARE AVAILABLE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Lillian M. Nickl, so-called "Hopson" bookkeeper, told the federal power commission today that long-sought books and records of the H. C. Hopson private enterprises between 1924 and 1939 could be produced.

Furthermore, she said, there was no reason they could not be assembled for the current federal-Pennsylvania state investigation of the billion dollar Associated Gas and Electric system.

Commission aides said these were the documents alleged to have been denied the Pennsylvania public utilities commission for three years. The federal commission says it seeks to determine the nature and reasonableness of charges collected by Hopson companies in selling accounting, tax, and corporate services to Associated gas utility operating companies in Pennsylvania.

Miss Nickl testified operating companies were billed for twice the amount of the salary paid employés of the companies which served them.

BLOCK RAIL RATE CUT ON COAL FOR TRANSSHIPMENT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today denied six railroads permission to put into effect immediately lower freight rates on bituminous coal shipped to Chicago from the fields of western Kentucky, southern Illinois, and western Indiana for transshipment via lake.

The commission suspended until Sept. 4 schedules. In the meantime, the commission said, it will make an investigation.

Numerous requests for suspension of the proposed rates were filed with the commission. The protestants included other railroads and various organizations representing coal producers in western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia.

There are no transshipment rates to Chicago at present. The track delivery rates, however, are considerably higher than the suspended transshipment schedules.

Business Books

"Government Price Fixing," by Jules Backman. [Pitman Publishing corporation, New York. Price, $3.]

In this timely volume Jules Backman, a member of the staf of New York university, examines several phases of government price fixing both in the United States and abroad. He devotes separate chapters to the NRA, AAA, international agreements, and direct and indirect price fixing.

The author concludes that "price fixing is rarely a satisfactory solution for the ills it attempts to cure, yet it is unlikely that resort to this device will be abandoned." Price fixing has failed in the past, he says, "because it has been partial—the economic system won't work half free and half controled."

A practical program of price fixing, according to the author, is a task for the economist rather than for the politician.

Latin America Opposes Nazi Barter Scheme

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Germany's efforts to increase her world trade through barter agreements are running into increasing difficulties, Henry Chalmers, commerce department expert, said today. Latin America is putting up particularly strong opposition to German trade, Chalmers said.

Chalmers said that Germany's export sales, despite the barter arrangements, have not increased as much in recent years as those of either the United States or Great Britain. He made his statments in a review of last year's world trade.

U. S. Trade Not Hurt.

Even in such Latin American countries as Brazil, Chile, Peru, Equador, and Mexico, Chalmers said, German sales gains in recent years have been made at the expense of countries other than the United States. He added that Germany has made no significant gains in the "important markets of Argentina, Uruguay, and Cuba."

Germany's chief gains, the commerce department expert said, have been made in southeastern Europe. These gains, he added, have been largely offset by losses in northern and western Europe.

Chalmers said "the fact that the recovery in the value of total German exports to all countries from the depth of the depression has not been as great as that of the United States or the United Kingdom suggests that on the whole only relatively moderate results have thus far been attended the exceptional German methods."

More Barriers to World Trade.

The world tended to put more barriers in the way of world trade last year, Chalmers said. He attributed this to adverse economic conditions, particularly the business recession in the United States.

About a dozen countries put restrictions on trade in wheat and other grains and feed, he said. Tarif increases were instituted by France, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, The Netherlands, Switzerland, Italy, Jugo-Slavia, and Greece.

Efforts to free trade were highlighted, Chalmers said, by the United States' conclusion of trade agreements with Great Britain, Canada, Czecho-Slovakia, and Ecuador, and a tentative agreement with Turkey. Tarifs were reduced by Mexico, Venezuela, Uruguay, Finland, and Turkey.

COURT DEFINES AUDITOR DUTY IN ACCOUNTING CASE

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—The Appellate division of the Supreme court today asserted it is the duty of an accountant to satisfy himself that the books show the true financial position of a company, if that be his contract. It ordered a new trial in an action by the National Surety corporation, charging three accounting firms with liability for negligent auditing. The case involved accounts of Halle & Stieglitz, a stock brokerage firm, alleged to have resulted in losses of $329,300.

The accountants named in the litigation were as Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery, George R. Bowden & Co., and McHeffey & McDonough. The proceedings followed the discovery by Halle & Stieglitz in May, 1934, of a shortage of $329,300 in the bank accounts due to defalcation by Sampson Wallach, the cashier.

Foreign Currencies Rise in Terms of U. S. Dollar

Foreign currencies advanced yesterday in terms of American dollars. The Holland guilder closed 0.01 cent higher at 53.85 cents. The British pound rose 3-16 cent to $4.48. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced that gold amounting to $3,228,000 was engaged in England for shipment to this country.

U. S. Lends 191 Millions on 4 Million Bales Cotton

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today loans totaling $191,239,027 had been made on 4,171,628 bales of cotton through Feb. 2. Loans through the same date under the 1938-'39 corn loan program totaled $75,084,454.45 on 131,883,393 bushels.

BUTTER RECEIPTS SET NEW RECORD; FEDERAL BUYING IS INFLUENCE

Butter receipts on the Chicago Mercantile exchange last month were the heaviest for any January in the twenty-two years in which official records have been kept, market officers said yesterday. They totaled 19,106,509 pounds, or 3,547,509 pounds in excess of average January arrivals in the last ten years

Traders said that the new peak in receipts reflected the unusually high levels of milk production caused by liberal feed supplies, and the heavy buying done by federal agencies in their effort to bolster butter prices. During January the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation and the federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association purchased about 2,800,000 pounds of butter in the Chicago market.

Butter futures yesterday were ⅛ cent a pound lower to an equal fraction higher in thin trading. The FSCC was required to buy more than 390,000 pounds of top quality cash butter to maintain its pegged prices.

The egg market also was irregular.

ROYALTY TRUST HEAD ARRESTED ON FRAUD CHARGE

New York, Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Albert Henry Bramson today was arrested on a mail fraud charge in connection with alleged bucket shop activities. William Power Maloney, assistant United States' attorney, described Bramson to a federal jury, as "the biggest crooked operator of his kind in the east."

Maloney, who is investigating the affairs of the Royalty Investment Trust, which Bramson operated here, obtained warants for the arrest of twenty other defendants. Maloney said that Bramson's principal confederate was Benjamin West Bunker, who headed B. W. Bunker & Co., 79 Wall street, and acted as Bramson's "front."

Bramson, according to Maloney, appointed the Commonwealth Trust company of Wilmington, Del., trustee of the royalties to give his venture an appearance of being legal. The trust company was in reality "a hole in the wall, run by three men for the convenience of persons like Bramson," he said.

"The defendant," Maloney explained, "would buy an oil royalty for $1,000, throw it into the trust at $1,600, and sell certificates against the larger sum to the public."

ITALIAN BANK'S NEW YORK UNIT TO BE LIQUIDATED

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Manufacturing Trust company, a leading Wall street commercial bank, announced today it had concluded an agreement for taking over "substantially all the assets and liabilities" of the Banca Commerciale Italiana Trust company of New York.

The latter, with about $7,500,000 in deposits, will be liquidated as a separate concern, it was said. It has been controled by the Banca Commerciale Italiana of Milan, rated the largest commercial bank in Italy.

Banking circles suggested the liquidation may have been prompted by diminishing return on bank loans and investments, a decline in commerce between this country and Italy, and increased restrictions on banking operations in this country.

WEEK'S OUTPUT OF AUTOMOBILES DIPS 11 PER CENT

The output of automobiles in American and Canadian factories this week fell to 79,410, Ward's Automotive Reports said yesterday. This was a decline of 11 per cent from the total of 89,200 turned out last week. Production was almost 65 per cent above the output of 51,443 cars in the corresponding period of 1938.

The agency estimated January output at 368,000 cars and trucks. It forecast that February production would exceed 300,000 units. Earlier estimates of a first quarter output of a million units will be realized, it was indicated.

Treasury Asks Bids on 515 Heavy Duty Motor Trucks

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The treasury asked bids today on 515 heavy duty motor trucks to be used by the Civilian Conservation corps. The offers will be opened Feb. 21.

Mo. Pacific to Buy Two Streamliners

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Purchase by the Missouri Pacific railroad of two streamlined trains and other equipment at a cost of $4,623,000 was authorized today by Federal Judge George H. Moore.

L. W. Baldwin says streamliners will boost income.

The streamlined trains, to cost $672,000 each, are to operate between St. Louis, Kansas City, and Omaha. Their proposed 9 hour schedule compares with present running times of 11½ to 13½ hours.

Each streamliner will consist of a 2,000 horse power Diesel locomotive, a mail-baggage car, a mail-storage express car, two coaches, a diner-cocktail lounge car, and a parlor observation car.

Delivery of the two trains is expected six to eight months after the orders are placed.

L. W. Baldwin, chief operating officer, testified at a hearing before Judge Moore that the new equipment would result in an increase of $175,000 annually in revenues and would effect an annual economy of $103,000 in operating expenditures.

Other equipment authorized included two $99,000 diesel road locomotives to be used between Union and Lincoln, Neb.; five diesel switch engines costing $63,000 to $85,000 each, and 1,080 flat bottom coal cars.

[Judge Moore last month approved for all of 1939 the expenditure of a total of $8,561,000 for improvements of Missouri Pacific road and equipment. Specific allocations were not made at that time, however.]

M'KESSON UNIT ASSETS ARE SAID TO BE VALUABLE

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Rowley W. Phillips, a director of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., and of McKesson & Roberts, Ltd., of Canada, said today that in his opinion the Canadian company "has several valuable assets." Chief of these are the profit guarantee by the American company and the license for McKesson products for the British empire.

William J. Wardall, a trustee of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., said that the guarantee was that the Canadian company would make a profit of at least $100,000 a year.

Phillips said that reports that the company's assets were valueless were incorrect.

"It is my opinion that the guarantee and the other possessions of the Canadian company will provide net values which should cause no loss to the stock holders of the Canadian company," Phillips said.

OIL CONSPIRACY SECOND TRIAL SET FOR OCT. 2

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday set Oct. 2 as the date for the second trial of the midwest oil conspiracy case in Madison, Wis.

Judge Lindley said present plans were to retry only eighteen of the thirty individuals and sixteen companies convicted by a jury before Federal Judge Patrick Stone at Madison. They were charged with conspiracy to raise and fix gasoline prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Judge Stone sustained the convictions of only seventeen, set aside the verdict, and freed eleven. He granted new trials to the other eighteen on the grounds they were linked to the alleged conspiracy only by circumstantial evidence.

Stockholders Take 69 Pct. of North American Issue

Underwriters of the 696,580 shares of North American company preferred stock offered Wednesday reported yesterday that 69 per cent of the issue was taken by preferred stockholders of the North American Edison company. Rights were issued to the North American Edison preferred holders to purchase the stock at $52 a share. The rights expired at 3 p. m. Thursday.

UTILITY STOCKS SHED GLEAM IN MURKY MARKET

Most of List Moves Irregularly Lower.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 3.—Firmness in power and light shares featured an irregularly lower stock market today. Gains in that group were mostly fractions. Industrial stocks showed losses running to a point and more. Most carrier shares declined fractionally.

Dealings were light, the total turnover amounting to only 543,270 shares. In all, 659 issues were traded, of which 214 advanced, 282 declined, and 163 closed unchanged. The bulk of activity was ascribed to week-end evening up operations.

Chief reason for the apparent lack of interest was the further complication in the international situation arising out of President Roosevelt's charge that his secret statements on foreign policy to the senate military affairs committee were misrepresented.

Rally Occurs in Afternoon.

Except for favorite utility shares, morning prices were mostly lower. In the afternoon there was slight improvement from the day's lows.

Power and light shares pushed higher in the forenoon trading. Consolidated Edison, Commonwealth and Southern common and preferred, and North American were features, rising substantial fractions. Others encountered resistance as the session progressed and their advances either were pared or wiped out.

Steels proved vulnerable in the industrial section. Losses exceeding 1 point were chalked up against United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Crucible Steel, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Leading motors were down fractionally, as were pivotal rubber and oil stocks.

Other Groups Are Lower.

In the coppers, Anaconda and American Smelting both dropped more than 1 point, and others ruled fractionally lower.

Carrier shares moved lower in line with industrial stocks. Interest in the group was small.

Douglas was the chief loser in the aviations, declining 1 point. Others, including Sperry, Boeing, Glenn Martin, and United Aircraft, held their losses to fractions.

Chemicals closed with losses running to 1½ points in Allied Chemical and Du Pont. Leading heavy machinery issues closed fractionally lower.

Sears-Roebuck was a standout in the mail order section with a rise of 1¼ points. Others dipped fractionally. Building stocks held their ground.

REPORT DECLINE IN DEPARTMENT STORES' SALES

Department store business in the week ended Jan. 28 slipped 1 per cent for the nation, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. In the preceding week total sales were equal to those for the corresponding week last year.

The decline from year ago volume was more marked in the first four weeks this year. Sales for that period dropped 5 per cent from those for the same period in 1938.

Sales in the seventh reserve district [Chicago area] moved against the down trend in the national average. Department stores in this area sold 2.7 per cent more goods last week than in the corresponding week a year ago. In the four week period, however, the volume declined 2.6 per cent.

Chicago department store sales gained only 1.1 per cent over the corresponding 1938 turnover in the week ended Jan. 28 and dropped 5.3 per cent in the four week period.

Illinois Has 1,353 Pilots and 663 Certified Planes

Illinois has 1,353 registered airplane pilots and 663 certified airplanes, the Illinois Manufacturers' association said yesterday. The state has 161 air line transport pilots, more than any other state. In addition, there are 345 commercial pilots, 55 limited commercial pilots, 622 private flyers, 155 soloists, and 15 amateurs. The association's report was based on Jan. 1 data of the Civil Aeronautics authority.

LAUNCH FIRST OF SIX NEW STEEL BARGES FOR WATERWAY USE

The Chicago Bridge and Iron company today will launch at Seneca, Ill., the first of a fleet of six new steel barges to be used on the Illinois waterway. The barges were built for the John I. Hay company, which is now operating twenty barges on the river. The other barges will be ready for service before spring.

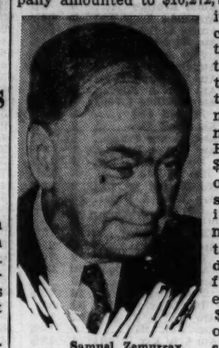
The vessel will be launched today at 2 p. m. at the Seneca yard of the Hay company. The barges were fabricated at the Chicago Bridge and Iron company's central plant in Washington Heights and assembled at the Hay company's yard at Seneca.

The new barges are 180 feet long, forty-two feet wide, and have a depth of eleven feet. They are of the hopper type used for handling cargoes of sand, gravel, crushed stone, and coal.

John I. Hay, president of the barge company, said that most of the new barges will probably be used to bring coal from Liverpool, forty miles south of Peoria, to Chicago.

United Fruit Profit Lower for Last Year

Net income of the United Fruit company amounted to $10,272,747 in 1938, it was disclosed yesterday in the corporation's thirty ninth annual report. Equal to $3.54 a share on the outstanding common stock, this was a decline from net earnings of $11,817,128, or $4.07 a share, in the preceding year.



Samuel Zemurray.

Samuel Zemurray, president, in his report said the company has maintained its share of the increasing volume of trade between Latin America and the United States.

United Fruit, he asserted, under present conditions does not intend to ask for operating subsidies from the government, and hopes that it will not have to face government operated ships or subsidized competition on trade routes served by United Fruit steamers.

Activities Cover Wide Field.

The far-flung activities of the corporaton were emphasized in Zemurray's report. United Fruit produces and distributes bananas, sugar, and other tropical products, conducts a freight and passenger business between South America and the United States, operates intercoastal steamships, operates a radiotelegraph service in South America, owns 1,761 miles of railroad, and has a hotel in Jamaica.

In 1938 a total of 56,235,498 stems of bananas was shipped to the United States and Europe, Zemurray said. This was slightly below the total for 1937, which was 57,846,216 stems. However, banana shipments by weight were about 3 per cent larger in 1938 than in the preceding year. This indicated improvement in the quality of the fruit.

Carry Passengers and Cargo.

Steamships of the company carried 56,803 passengers and 1,208,919 tons of general cargo last year in addition to the company's own fruit and other products, Zemurray said.

Zemurray reported that cash and United States securities on hand at the close of 1938 totaled $35,877,384, against $45,057,010 at the end of 1937. This 1938 total was exclusive of an insurance fund of $11,750,000, he said.

During 1938, he said, there was expended for additions to fixed properties the sum of $12,841,409. An additional $8,654,209 was appropriated for capital expenditures in 1939. From appropriations previously made there remains $3,326,038, which also will be used in 1939.

HEARING IS SET ON SPANISH SALE OF SILVER TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(AP)—A justice department official said today that a hearing would be held on March 24 on the government's motion to dismiss four suits brought by the privately owned Bank of Spain contesting ownership of about $10,000,000 worth of silver bought by the United States from the Spanish government.

The Bank of Spain contended in the suits that the $10,000,000 of silver bought by the United States government from the Spanish government did not belong to the latter and that therefore, the United States has no title to it.

The United States government advanced two contentions; First, that no individual, bank, or group can contest a transaction between two sovereign governments; second, that even if it were possible to contest such a transaction, the Spanish government owned the silver and therefore the United States' title to it is good.

2 CLOSED BANKS MAKING REFUND TO DEPOSITORS

Repayment of $55,059 to about 7,200 depositors of two closed banks in Chicago and Cook county was authorized yesterday by Edward J. Barrett, state auditor. The banks are the Chatham State bank and the Hegewisch State bank. Checks representing repayment of 3 per cent and 5 per cent were being distributed, Barrett said.

More than 6,300 depositors of the Chatham State bank are receiving checks totaling $46,431. This represents a 5 per cent repayment and brings the total paid so far to 15 per cent. In addition, $94,742 has been paid on bills payable and $117,672 to preferred creditors.

A final repayment of 3 per cent, amounting to $8,628, is being sent to 900 depositors of the Hegewisch State bank. This boosts the total repaid to 55½ per cent. Preferred creditors of this bank are receiving $50,063.

LARGE BAKERIES REPORT UPTURN IN 1938 PROFIT

Continental's Best Since 1930.

Net earnings of the Continental Baking corporation and Purity Bakeries corporation were substantially larger in 1938, the companies' annual reports disclosed yesterday. Profit of Continental Baking was the highest since 1930, officers said.

Varied results from 1938 operations were reported by other companies, among them the General Finance corporation, Chicago Mail Order company, and Good Humor corporation. P. Lorillard company and Consolidated Cigar corporation, two of the biggest tobacco products manufacturers, also reported on 1938 operations.

M. Lee Marshall, chairman of Continental Baking, reported that net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31 amounted to $4,493,802, equivalent to $4.20 a common share. The company earned $4,150,683, or $3.23 a share, in the preceding year, he said. The company has bakeries throughout the United States.

Purity Bakeries Has Gain.

The 1938 net income of Purity Bakeries, which operates 54 bakeries, totaled $1,170,963, or $1.52 a share on the outstanding capital stock. In 1937 net earnings amounted to $462,567, or 60 cents a share. In the last quarter of 1938 Purity Bakeries had net earnings of $371,238, or 48 cents a share, against $46,792, or 6 cents a share, in the corresponding period of 1937.

The General Finance corporation, Chicago, reported net profit in the year ended Nov. 30 slumped to $163,960 from $709,619 in the preceding fiscal year. This was equal to 12 cents a share compared with 78 cents a share in 1937. Byron S. Coon, president, said that the decline in business volume during the first nine months of 1938 was in line with the decline in auto sales and general business.

Net income of the Chicago Mail Order company amounted to $218,432, or 63 cents a share, in 1938 against $518,930, or $1.50 a share, in the preceding year, President E. M. Schnadig reported. This was a drop of 58 per cent, he said. Sales in 1938 totaled $24,073,981 against $26,406,785 in 1937, a drop of 9 per cent.

Reports Profit Decrease.

Good Humor corporation, ice cream concern, had net earnings of $251,351 in 1938, against net income of $360,379 in the preceding year. This was a decline of about 29 per cent. Chairman James F. McConnochie attributed the decline to the adverse weather during the summer of 1938 and the general business recession.

In 1938 the P. Lorillard company and subsidiaries, makers of cigarets and other tobacco products, had net income of $4,013,299, or $1.78 a share. Net income in 1937 was $2,278,036, or 85 cents a share. In that year, according to the company's annual report, $1,059,280 was deducted for flood loss. Net income was figured after the deduction.

Consolidated Cigar corporation reported 1938 net profit of $844,459, against $829,574 in the preceding year. For the last quarter, net profit amounted to $342,554, compared with $369,814 in the corresponding quarter of 1937.

A net profit of $87,706 for 1938 was reported by Oshkosh B'Gosh, Inc., overall makers. This was equal to 78 cents per common share after preferred dividends, compared with $1.08 a share in 1937. Sales were 11.9 per cent lower at $1,614,116, because of reduced overall prices.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Demand for utility and other corporate loans kept the bond market moving ahead today. Bond men were impressed especially by continued investment buying in utility issues.

The increased interest in that group was attributed partly to a clearer view of the industry under federal regulation and in competition with government power projects. Power consumption is near record levels.

Columbia Gas and Electric 5s expanded their advance nearly a point in heavy trading, closing at 101¼. American and Foreign Power 5s rose more than 2 at 52½.

United States treasury loans had a narrow, uneven market as dealers waited for a scheduled offering of Reconstruction Finance corporation notes next week.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks moved in a narrow range yesterday in thin trading. Only 26,000 shares were traded. The Tribune average of twenty stocks finished at 10.91, unchanged from the preceding close.

Volume leaders were mostly higher, although gains were small. Middle West closed ⅛ higher at 7⅞, Commonwealth Edison finished an equal fraction higher at 27¾, and Northwest Bancorporation gained ½ to 8½. Fitz Simons & Connell Dredge and Dock rose ⅝ to 14⅛. Alfred Decker & Cohn eased ⅛ at 2⅝.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were dull yesterday. Closing bids were mostly unchanged from Thursday. First National bank shares declined $1.

WHEN BUYING A USED CAR OF ANY PRICE the Most Important Point

THE DEALER BACK OF THE SALE

YOU CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE AT

STUDEBAKER

1. One of the oldest and most reputable dealers in Chicago. More than 25 years in business.
2. Every single used car, regardless of price, is sold with 5 days' driving trial under terms of the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge.
3. Studebaker handles all its own time payment deals—no outside finance company—no embarrassing questions from strangers. And that also allows fairer finance rates to customers and payments fitting within your budget.
4. Studebaker's old customers come back here again to buy—your guarantees that all customers are treated fairly and squarely.
5. Consistently low prices.
